Worried Cuba.
1,600 Years Later.
Do We Need Poetry?
Distance Kills Interest.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE WORRY of the Western World centers in Cuba. Many have been killed; bad conditions are caused by much poverty and suffering among the people.

Because the Monroe doctrine does not permit foreign countries to interfere on this continent, Uncle Sam feels responsible to other countries whose citizens have been killed in the Cuban rioting. Those countries not unreasonably say to Uncle Sam:

"If you cannot protect our nationals we shall do it ourselves."

One of our distinguished senators, Senator Pittman, back from London, suggests that the Monroe doctrine be thrown overboard.

Other Senators and the President will not agree to that. The duty of this country is to protect the independence of nations that share this continent with us.

AMERICANS WILL read with amazement the announcement that representatives of Cuba's government have called upon Cubans of all parties to "unite against an attack by the United States."

Memory must be short to forget that Cuba belonged to Spain a little while ago, was taken from Spain by this country and given back to the people of Cuba voluntarily.

And Uncle Sam didn't send any bill for his expenses in thus freeing Cuba from the Spaniards. Other countries might have done that.

GEN. BALBO, the great Italian flier, sitting beside Mussolini, who planned and ordered the marvelous flight, will ride through Rome in triumph, passing under the arch of Constantine, outside the old Coliseum.

If Constantine could see that modern "triumph" with all the power and youthful energy in Italy, 1,600 years after he built the arch, he would be, properly, proud of the Roman-Italian blood.

JOHN MASEFIELD, poet, says that what the world needs is 'the thrill of poetry." Lacking poetry, the world invents substitutes, like high speed in airplanes and automobiles. Poetry would supply all the excitement needed.

This innocent statement shows how little a real poet knows his commonplace brothers.

Fifty millions in this country respond to the purr of a 16-cylinder automobile, or the roar of a high-power airplane engine, that would find little excitement in:

"Charm'd magic casements,
Opening on the foam
Of perilous seas, in faery lands
Forlorn."

DISTANCE MAKES all the difference. If the wife says: "John, there is a foot of water in the cellar," you hurry to the cellar.

The Associated Press says:

"Three hundred Chinese villages along the Yellow River in North Honan province are flooded, with heavy loss of life."

You skip to the next headline.

The Yellow River is far away.

Another dispatch from Seoul, Korea, says 414 have been killed and 7,348 houses destroyed by typhoon and floods. Again you pass on. If you heard that the great nebula in Orion has exploded you would still skip on.

BACK FROM Europe, Dr. William J. Mayo, distinguished surgeon, says children should be sophisticated. The more they know the better. The old secretive method is false and harmful; "the new generation can teach the old generation a great deal."

The old generation admits it.

Dr. Mayo says American colleges total approximately one million students at a time, while there are only "50,000 students in British institutions of higher learning."

With 1,000,000 college men here against 50,000 in Britain, we ought to be much more learned and capable than the British. But are we?

MR. WILBUR GLENN VOLIVA. "Zionist cult leader," has important news.

He is one who investigates for himself. Returning from a trip around the world he announced that the world is not round. On the contrary, it is flat all the way. Now he tells you:

"The age is dying."

Also:

"The great battle of Armageddon is coming."

After that the millenium, under the rule of the son of David will begin, "about 1935 or 1936."

If it should come true, President Roosevelt would feel that he had wasted a great deal of time on NRA.

MR. HOPKINS, head of the Federal Relief Administration, says one thousand million dollars will be needed this winter to help the millions out of work, and if the states do not do their share "the unemployed will take an awful beating." Possibly the unemployed might decide not to take that "awful beating" without doing something about it.

Americans are patient, but there might be a limit to the beatings that they would take peacefully.

'HEX' BLAMED IN ABUSE OF BABY

Child Twice Delivered To Extortionists, Returned Harmed

MARTINS FERRY, O., Aug. 11.—An 18-month-old baby, beaten and abused, is involved in one of the most mysterious cases which police have been called upon to investigate. They say it is either a "hex" case or a racket, and today are questioning the baby's father, Rudolph Batzdorfer, pending the arraignment of William Kirkpatrick, a coal miner, on a charge of maiming.

Twice in a period of weeks, it is said, the baby boy has been given as security to a band of extortionists, and each time has been treated for broken bones or bruises, at a clinic here.

PROBE STARTED

When the baby was taken to the clinic last Tuesday, an investigation was begun by Patrolman John Kress, neighbor of the Batzdorfers.

Mrs. Batzdorfer told police that Kirkpatrick had insisted that they give him the baby to deliver to two men in place of $50 which two extortionists had demanded. She said the trio had driven to a rural school and the baby given to Kirkpatrick. When it was returned later, its body bore evidence of mistreatment. It was after this occurrence that police began an investigation.

SUSPENDED FROM TREE

Mrs. Batzdorfer asserted that twice before demands had been made for money. About the middle of July, she said, they were told to take the baby to near Rayland, where it was forcibly taken from them and later was found hanging by its arms from a tree.

The baby was taken to the clinic with a broken arm. Later the child was injured in an auto crash.

Kirkpatrick is scheduled for arraignment in police court today.

PATSY KELLY

MALIN TRAGEDY INQUEST SET

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Patsy Kelly, 23, auburn haired New York and Hollywood actress rescued from an automobile which plunged off the Venice Pier, drowning Jean Malin, nationally known entertainer, will live, physicians at Santa Monica Hospital said today. She was reported suffering from a slight brain concussion.

An inquest was scheduled today into Malin's death. His car plunged from the pier early yesterday after he had completed his "final night" at a nigt club. Blair Ross, lifeguard, dived into the water and extricated Miss Kelly, but Malin was pinned beneath the wheel and was dead when taken from the water.

Jimmy Forlenza, who also was in the car, said:

"The car suddenly lurched and crashed through the pier's railing. The next thing I knew we were in the water. It seemed Lifeguard Ross was there in a moment and pulled out Miss Kelly. I tried to get hold of Jean but he was caught."

BUCS AND CUBS OPEN SERIES

FORBES FIELD, Aug. 11.—The Chicago Cubs and Pirates inaugurated an interesting three-game series at the home of the Buccos this afternoon. Second place was the prize offered in the opener, the Pirates owning the runner-up position by one-half of a game as the battle got under way.

Larry French and Guy Bush fought it out on the slab. Boys' day was observed and the right-field stands held about 5,000 youngsters.

The two teams will clash in a doubleheader tomorrow.

8 Catholic Missionaries Marooned in China

Eight Catholic missionaries, six of them women of the Pittsburgh district, are marooned in Yuanchow, Central China, as a result of seizure of the town by rebel troops, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Hankow.

The six are Passionist Sisters of St. Joseph, with headquarters in Baden, Pa. No word has been received from them recently, it was said by officials of the order.

Rebels captured Yuanchow June 27 and have held it despite counter attacks by government soldiers, the dispatch stated. Communication has been cut off between Hankow and Yuanchow, 400 miles to the southwest. Walter Adams, United States consul general at Hankow, has requested that all American citizens in the zone of hostilities be protected.

At the monastery of the Passionist Fathers, South Side, it was said the provincial of the order was en route to China for a survey, unaware of conditions in Central China.

The missionaries isolated are Sisters Genevieve Ryan, Christinia Worth, Magdaline Ivan, Dosario Goss, Saintanne Callahan, Mary Mark Mullen, and the Rev. Edward McCarthy, of Boston, and the Rev. Francis Flaherty, of Cincinnati, members of the American Passionist Order.

'ECONOMIC DOOM' FOR NRA FOES

'Business Death' for Violators Seen By Johnson

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Pledging a battle against profiteer-ing, Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator, today disclosed tentative plans to delegate the policing of industry to the Justice Department and the Federal Trade Commission.

The Recovery Administration itself, Johnson said, plans to confine its efforts at enforcing the Recovery Act to the compulsion of public opinion.

In warning employers against violation of codes or the President's re-employment agreement, Johnson described violations as "a sentence of economic death."

EXPLAINS PLANK

Explaining his plan, oJhnson said:

"We are receiving complaints, and we shall try to decentralize enforcement after codes are approved. This is to be sort of a guild government. Since agreements of companies are voluntary, it is my thought to lay complaints before the trade association.

"But, on the other hand, there is the question of whether the association becomes a monopoly in restraint of trade. We will have one of three people sitting in trade associations, without vote but with veto power.

"If complaints are not settled it is my idea—this is tentative—that we will turn policing over to the Federal Trade Commission. As far as out outfit is concerned we are going to assume good faith, of course.

"The Department of Justice has power and responsibility under the law."

Asked if he planned to investigate complaints of profiteering in Cleveland and other cities Johnson replied:

"We don't have to investigate—all kinds of things indicate chiseling."

NRA DEVELOPMENTS

Developments in the NRA included:

Johnson made a tentative engagement to see newspaper publishers, declaring that the code submitted to him is "unsatisfactory in some respects."

Code for the lumber industry, as revised by NRA, was before Johnson today. Includes modification of hours of labor, wages and calls for a quota plan of timber production.

Informal approval given gas and electric utilities' code with modifications. Awaiting review by legal advisors, all state regulated utilities urged to come in.

Oil operators will be summoned before Johnson again in an effort to iron out the code.

Recovery Administration still considering dispute in steel code.

Urging all public utilities to come under a code or the President's agreement, John insisted that "the Blue Eagle doesn't recognize state lines."

He indicated that through force of public opinion a drive will be made to bring all purely intrastate businesses into the fold.

Hoover's Township Votes Against Beer

PALTO ALTO, Cal., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A proposal to legalize the sale of beer in this township, which includes Stanford University and the home of former President Herbert Hoover, was defeated by a close margin in a special city election yesterday.

The eight precincts in the area registered 1,016 votes for and 1,174 against changing the wording of an ordinance to make it forbid the sale of "intoxicating" instead of "alcoholic" beverages.

FORECAST: RAIN --OF METEORS

Pittsburghers will be treated to the annual Perseid meteor shower late tonight, according to Z. Daniels, astronomer at Allegheny Observatory.

If you yearn to see a speed of 144,000 miles an hour look into the northeast sky sometime between midnight and dawn, he said.

Daniel explained that about this date every year the earth cuts through that part of the Perseid orbit where the meteors are most densely crowded. He added:

"They are about as large as hickory nuts and travel 40 miles a second. When we see them they are about 100 miles distant."

Ingram Boys Kidnaped by Two in Auto

Seized as they were playing in an Ingram street, two small boys were carried off by two men in an automobile this afternoon, relatives reported to Ingram police.

Robert Van Vleck, of Linshaw avenue, Ingram, told the boys' grandparents the automobile sped toward Pittsburgh via Steuben street. The machine bore New Jersey license plate C-18169, he said.

The boys were John and Richard Stow, 9 and 7 respectively. They were staying with their mother at the home of their grandparents, 66 Evans avenue, Ingram.

Johnson Will Throw Out Nonunion Proviso

By PAUL C. YATES
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Spokesmen for the coal barons of the Appalachian and Northern fields today threatened to walk out of the NRA hearings on a bituminous coal code if their demands for retention of company unions are refused.

Charles O'Neill, who presented the Appalachian and Northern code, containing a company union clause, declared:

"I intend to leave Washington tonight and remain away until a code satisfactory to our association is agreed upon.

"I will return, however, if the NRA sends for me."

At the same time, Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson was telling reporters that unless the operators agreed to withdraw the open shop section of the code he would see to its demise.

TRUCE DOUBTED

O'Neill's defiant statement offset persistent reports that the coal barons in the vast era, stretching from Eastern Tennessee to Northern Pennsylvania, had agreed to yield in their determined fight

Pinchot at 68 Feels Sorry for Himself

MILFORD, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—When a person gets to be 68 he should be commisserated and not congratulated, Gov. Pinchot jokingly said today as he observed his birthday. He added:

"I'm getting too old."

The Governor said he would celebrate by going pickerel fishing at Beaver Run, 26 miles from his Pike County estate. There will be no birthday cake at dinner tonight, he said, Mrs. Pinchot having decreed that it may be his birthday by the calendar, but not in the family arrangement of affairs.

DOUG MAY SWEAR FEALTY TO KING

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Hollywood heard today that Douglas Fairbanks, now in London, had gone to England for good.

There was no confirmation, but the report met little argument as it swept down Hollywood boulevard. Gossipers cited the prospect that the veteran actor planned to make a talking picture version of "Robin Hood" near London. No one here would be surprised, it seemed, if the native of Denver, Col., decided to become a subject of the King.

CUBAN PEACE TERMS SENT TO WELLES

President Yields Under Demands That He Quit Office

HAVANA, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Members of the executive committee of President Gerardo Machado's own Liberal party said today that the government had submitted to United States Ambassador Sumner Welles a counter-proposal by which the President would surrender his office to Gen. Alberto Herrera, the present Secretary of War.

The Popular and the Conservative parties already have demanded that the President step down, and now his own political organization has come forward with a plan accomplishing the same object.

The action of the Liberals in part reversed their decision yesterday when they held that Ambassador Welles was guilty of "intermeddling" and that his mediation activities were prejudicial to the sovereignty of Cuba.

PROPOSAL CONFIRMED

Ramon de Leon and a number of members of the Liberal executive committee, gave confirmation that the counter proposal had been submitted.

By this plan the present Secretary of State, Orestes Ferrera, would resign and Gen. Hererra would be appointed by President Machado to his post.

Thereafter Gen. Machado would ask Congress for a leave of absence, thus opening the way for Gen. Hererra to succeed to the presidency in conformity with the provisions of the Cuban constitution.

Gen. Herrera's occupancy of the presidency would be transitory, it was said. The reason behind the proposal that he take the position at all is that the Liberal party is unwilling to surrender power immediately without a period of readjustment.

Once he ascended to the presidency, Gen. Herrera would form a national cabinet representing all the political factions, and the work of mediation in the nation's political conflict would be continued.

WELLES' PROGRAM

This counter-proposal was advanced after Ambassador Welles, who has been in charge of the work of mediation for several

Roosevelt Planning Cruise With Astor

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Preparing for his departure tonight for the capital, President Roosevelt announced plans for a return here in another week and a cruise back to Washington at the end of the month aboard the yacht of Vincent Astor, the Nourmahal.

This is the same yacht the President used on his cruise in southern waters just before his inauguration and he will have with him the same guests, including Mr. Astor and Kermit Roosevelt, a son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt.

Want Ad Seeks to Save Boy Bitten by Mad Dog

LINCOLN, Neb., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A three-line want ad today was the hope of health authorities to find a carefree small boy and possibly save him from death from a bite of a mad dog.

It was last Saturday when an overall-clad lad of about 8 and a companion of about 10 walked into a filling station and wanted to dispose of a squirming little fox terrier puppy. The younger boy said:

"He's a mean little dog. Just look where he bit me."

The boys said the dog followed them.

C. L. Armstrong took the dog but set it down after he was bitten. It bit a woman nearby, nipped a 7 year-old boy a block away, but then met death after a 30-minute chase by Frank Rose, father of the last boy attacked.

Laboratory tests showed the dog had rabies and humane society officials immediately inserted the three-line want ad asking the child to call, but there has been no word from him.

PITTSBURGH COAL MEN LOSE FIGHT FOR RATE CUT TO EAST

HOPES DASHED FOR REGAINING MARKETS

Four I. C. C. Members Dissent; Southern Fields Benefit

The Interstate Commerce Commission has refused to change the present freight rates on coal from the Pittsburgh district to the East, according to a Washington dispatch.

The decision, declining to alter the present freight charges on coal from Pennsylvania, Maryland and Northern West Virginia to eastern trunk line and New England territory, is a blow to Pittsburgh and Central Pennsylvania operators who have fought for more than two years for reduced rates.

Four of 11 members of the commission filed dissenting opinions, and one, Carroll Miller of Pittsburgh, did not vote because most of the hearings were held prior to his appointment.

The decision closes the eastern rate case, Pittsburgh operators say, and any other efforts toward a change must be made through a new action.

MARKETS LOST

Coal men here declare that rates from the coal fields of Southern West Virginia to tidewater have taken much of the eastern market away from mines of this district.

Commissioner Frank McManamy, in his dissenting opinion, said:

"The record shows a large transfer of tonnage to other fields, and I am of the opinion that a proper rate adjustment would not only benefit the producers but that the increase in tonnage would more than compensate the carriers for the decrease in revenue which would be caused by the reduction in rates.

"This increase would come, not entirely from competitive coal fields, but in part from markets regained from substitute fuels.

"If Pennsylvania bituminous coal is to hold its place in the market in competition with coal which moves at a lower rate and with substitute fuels, it must be given similar consideration to that now being contemplated for Pennsylvania anthracite. It is my view that the rates here assailed are too high, based on either the cost or the value of the service and that further loss of production and of tonnage will in the near future force the readjustment which the majority here find we have no power to make."

LONG HAUL IGNORED

The decision also authorized the railroads to continue or to establish and maintain rates on coal shipments to New England without observing the long-and-short haul provision of the Interstate Commerce Act, the effect being to maintain higher rates at intermediate points.

In only one in[illegible]id the Commission find rates in the territory unreasonable. That was on rates from mines on the Baltimore and Ohio and Western Maryland railroads in the Cumberland-Piedmont-Meyersdale district to Chambersburg and Greencastle, Pa. New rates were prescribed for these shipments.

OIL PRODUCTION CURB HINTED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—An intimation that the federal government would provide for rigid control over oil production in the petroleum trade practice plan now nearing completion came today from Hugh S. Johnson, Industrial Administrator, whose aides are writing it.

Pending completion of the revised code, which is a successor to a tentative draft submitted to the oil industry about two weeks ago, Johnson would not comment on details.

MEDIATORS FAIL TO END STRIKE

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The President's Labor Board today struck a snag in its second effort to settle a strike, when employers failed to agree to the Board's plan to send 4,000 shirt makers back to work in the Pottsville, Pa., area.

Spokesmen for the employers left here for Pottsville to lay the Board's proposals before the manufacturers. An answer was promised early next week.

The Labor Board proposed that the 4,000 Pottsville workers return to their jobs on the same terms on which the Reading hosiery strike was settled last night.

These terms provide for an election of a workers' committee by secret ballot under the supervision of the Labor Board to deal with the employers and an agreement to accept decision of the Labor Board interpreting any agreement reached as final.

L. J. Treuhaft, treasurer of the Phillips-Jones Company, told the board that the matter would have to be referred to the employers.

POST DELAYING BALLYHOO

If Wiley Post is to ballyhoo a coast-to-coast flying tour to advertise an automotive oil, he doesn't become the ballyhooist until the contract begins.

That explains why the famous flier left the County Airport today in his world-girdling ship—Winnie Mae—after refusing newspaper interviews and photographs. To all questions Post answered:

"I'm not here. That is, I'm not supposed to be here yet and no one is going to get a story or picture until I get here."

Bad weather forced him down late yesterday on a hop from Oklahoma City to New York. His efforts to get quarters in the Hotel William Penn unobserved failed.

Cafe Men Here Urged To Sign New Code

All members of the Western Pennsylvania Restaurant Association today were urged by their president, Ross Gammon, of Pittsburgh, to align themselves with the restaurant industry's code which was approved by the National Recovery Administration yesterday.

The organization, representing 390 restaurant owners in Pittsburgh and cities as far east as Altoona, decided to operate under the President's blanket code pending sanction of their own, at a meeting Tuesday night at the Chamber of Commerce.

However, with the approval of the trade code yesterday, President Gammon urged members of the local organization and the National Restaurant Association to sign the addenda being mailed to them today and attach it to the certificate of compliance, which will entitle them to display the NRA insignia.

Several thousand additional names of NRA signers were posted in the Pittsburgh post office today. The total of signers has been brought to 11,494, according to Postmaster James B. Anderson.

A committee of the Federation of Social Agencies has been appointed to report on the practicability of social agencies, which are restricted by their budgets, complying with the NRA requirements of pay and hours, according to the Welfare Fund.

It was pointed out in a statement issued by the fund that:

"The solution will probably come through instructions from the national administration for social agencies to draft a code of their own."

Officials of the Aluminum Company of America have announced the signing of a code adopted by the Association of Manufacturers in the Aluminum Industry at a meeting in Pittsburgh.

Johnson Gives Up $6,000 to Get Assistant

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—(INS.)—The hardest working man in Washington—Hugh S. Johnson, Recovery Administrator—gets $6,000 a year salary.

In the National Recovery Act it was specified that the administrator should get $12,000 a year. All other salaries ranged $6,000 and below. But Johnson wanted a certain aide who had no private income and who couldn't get along on the $6,000, so he decided to take the smaller salary himself and give the larger one to the aide whom he wanted.

BLANKET CODE FOR BARBERS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Barbers and operators of beauty shops have been given authority to operate under the President's re-employment agreement by the NRA with certain concessions.

These concessions follow:

No barber and no other employes can be employed more than 48 hours a week.

No operators of a beauty shop and no other employes can work more than 48 hours.

No barber or beautician can employ any accounting, clerical or office employes for more than 40 hours a week.

No barber or beautician can employ any persons under 16 years of age.

The maximum hours of work do not apply to those engaged in managerial or executive capacities, but do apply to the owners or operators of a barber or beauty shop who are actively working in their shops.

U. S. Right to Fix Milk Prices Tested

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Testing validity of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace's authority to fix prices for the sale of milk and cream, two suits were filed today in District of Columbia Supreme Court petitioning for injunctions to restrain carrying out the price-fixing order.

Justice Joseph W. Cox signed a rule giving Secretary Wallace until August 21 to show cause why the injunctions should not be issued.

Blue Eagle Planes' Trip Here Delayed

Aarmy planes detailed to carry several tons of NRA Blue Eagles to Pittsburgh were delayed today by bad flying weather along the eastern seaboard, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

The squadron of 28 ships was held at Floyd Bennett Field. Plans were for them to fly off fanwise, visiting 12 cities in the East and South in one of the largest aerial propaganda drives ever staged.

TROOPS READY TO LEAVE MINES

With the mine strike definitely ended, National Guardsmen in the Connellsville coke region today prepared to withdraw from the field.

All mines in Allegheny County were operating this morning. Montour No. 9, of the Pittsburgh Coal Company, and the National Mining Company's Nos. 1 and 2, near Bridgeville, resumed for the first time.

They were the last to abandon the "sympathy" strike that followed the Fayette County walkout.

Maj. Kenneth Momeyer, commanding the 325 National Guardsmen in the coke region, said the detachment would break camp at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The guards, from Northwestern Pennsylvania, will go to their homes.

A checkup showed eight persons—three deputy sheriffs, four strikers and a miner—are in Fayette County hospitals with injuries they received during strike violence. Mike Joyce, 40, a deputy, and Ben Brown, 45, a striker, were in serious condition.

Weather Conditions.

The low pressure that caused the rainfall over this section yesterday is now off the Middle Atlantic coast, and another center appears over Lake Michigan. High pressure extends from the far Northwest southeastward to Florida. Rainfall for the last 24 hours was heavy over Western Pennsylvania and eastward to the coast and southward to North Carolina. There was light rain over Kentucky, Tennessee and westward over Arkansas to the far Southwest and over the lake region. Temperature changes were slight. Maximum temperatures of 90 degrees or higher occurred yesterday over the southern states and northward over the plains states to Southern Minnesota and South Dakota. The highest reported is 100 degrees at Abilene, Tex.

River Conditions.

Rainfall yesterday over the Allegheny River above the Kiskiminetas was light. Elsewhere over the district moderate to heavy rainfall occurred. Saltsburg reported 2.28 inches and Rowlesburg 2.62. The dams are up. The Ohio River will rise slightly.

MINE OWNERS THREATEN BOLT

Johnson to Throw Out Open Shop Clause In Code

against the labor provisions of the National Recovery Act.

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mines Workers of America, asserted:

"These reports are highly interesting if true. I have heard nothing, however, that would tend to confirm them."

While the eastern coal barons fought desperately to retain their feudal privileges and to ward off effective Federal regulations of their industry, an increasingly strong lineup of independent operators and operating associations threw fresh support behind the proposal for a single national code to govern the entire industry.

Labor and capital would be equally represented on the control board set up under this code, with the NRA holding a veto power.

BACKERS OF CODE

Among the operators speaking in behalf of the general code which Lewis helped to draft were: C. G. Steele, representing 62 Illinois mines; Harold Showalter, president of the Continental Coal Corporation, Fairmount, W. Va.; George K. Smith, of the Sunday Creek Coal Company, Columbus, O.; Herbert E. Howard, of Chicago, a spokesman for the Blinkley Coal Corporation; Charles F. Hosford, Jr., a Butler, Pa., producer, and W. Ward Guthrie, of Grannville, Ill., representing the Prairie States Mining Company.

Earlier in the day the operators of Eastern Oklahoma and Western Arkansas urged adoption of the general code.

Leading operators sponsoring the national code declared the Appalachian and Northern group "have already virtually walked out." They claimed that the company union lineup was being shattered from within with numerous operators in the Northern and Appalachian fields preparing to desert O'Neill and throw their forces with the national code.

While they hailed the accessions to their ranks, however, Forney Johnson, representing the Birmingham (Ala.) producers, bitterly attacked the national code.

Frank E. Taplin, Cleveland banker, rail executive and major independent coal operator, is fighting shoulder to shoulder with the United Mine Workers against the feudal privileges which the Appalachian and northern coal barons are seeking to perpetuate.

George B. Harrington, of Chicago, another major independent operator, also supported Lewis.

The United Mine Workers and operators representing perhaps 20 Taplin yesterday assailed the lower wage levels of the southern fields. He declared:

"If these operators can't pay a living wage, they should get out of the business."

COLLECTIVE BARGAINING

Taplin advocated collective bargaining with the United Mine Workers as a bulwark against Communism. He displayed posters alleged to have been circulated by the National Miners' Union. He said these posters attacked the President of the United States, adding:

"The National Miners' Union is opposed to the United States.

"I realize that under the Recovery Act workers are entitled to bargain with representatives of their own choosing. But I serve notice now that if any workers choose the National Miners' Union, the operators associated with me will refuse to meet them even if we have to shut down our mines permanently."

Taplin declared that the American Federation of Labor and the United Mine Workers have always opposed Communism. He continued:

"I side with Abraham Lincoln: This country cannot exist half slave and half free. The coal industry today cannot exist any longer with half slave labor and half free labor. I am opposed to the wages some operators have been paying until the past month, wages so disgracefully low they meant nothing but starvation to them and their families."

Both Taplin and Lewis favored creation of a national coal control organization with two members chosen by labor, two by the operators and one by Recovery Administrator Hugh A. Johnson.

U. S. CONTRACTS PLACED UNDER NRA TERMS

Roosevelt Hands Down Order; Will Leave For Capital

International News Service.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 11.—President Roosevelt has issued an executive order showing the teeth in legislation empowering him to go ahead with his national recovery program.

The President prepared to leave his family home here for Washington tonight, after a vacation which began Saturday two weeks ago.

The executive order brought all those who have received contracts from the government under the Recovery Act beneath the wings of the Blue Eagle of the NRA—that is, the order compelled compliance with an independent fair competition code of a specific trade, or with the blanket code issued by Recovery Administrator Hugh S. Johnson.

SUDDEN ORDER

The order came more or less suddenly, and provided that in cases where contractors supplying the government with materials failed to comply with codes, either individual or blanket, the contracts might be voided by the government. It was in this, the penalty clause of the order, that the Blue Eagle's real teeth were shown.

Government contracts average half a billion or more dollars a year, and the voiding of a single contract on the part of the government might wreck a private concern which had received a contract.

NOT RETROACTIVE

Technically, the order was not retroactive, but actually, many of the contracts which were to be let by the National Recovery Administration, have not been signed for the simple reason Johnson was awaiting the order which the President issued late last night.

Mr. Roosevelt will leave Hyde Park about 11 p. m. tonight, daylight time, by train. He will go directly to a point in Virginia near the civilian conservation corps camps in the state and will visit at least two of these as he motors back to the White House Saturday.

NRA LEGALITY STUDIED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Legal experts of the National Recovery Administration today were studying problems of constitutional rights as affected by the various industrial codes after this question was submitted by Earl Constantine, director of the National Association of Hosiery Manufacturers during the hearing on this industry's code.

Constantine proposed that the fears of many manufacturers could be allayed by a direct statement from President Roosevelt, promising the NRA would not take from any signatory any constitutional rights.

He suggested the insertion of such an article in the hosiery code, after explaining he did not believe such rights were endangered by the act, although some manufacturers held to this viewpoint.

The article suggested by Constantine, reads:

"Nothing in this code is meant to impair the constitutional right of the employer to protect his property from unlawful acts; to bargain with his employes individually or collectively as may be mutually satisfactory, and to exercise freedom in the selection, retention and advancement of his employes."

READING STRIKE ENDED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(Universal.)—President Roosevelt's new policy of nation-wide industrial peace during recovery today was off to a flying start, following settlement by his new National Labor Board of a strike of hosiery workers in three hours.

More than 12,000 workers in Reading, Pa., mills will return to work Monday under an agreement reached with employer and labor representatives. Employers agreed to refrain from discriminating against union men.

Unionism—the only issue in the strike—will be dealt with permanently by negotiation between employers and workers, with the labor board as final arbiter.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot, convinced that organized labor has gained through strikes, recognition of unions in disputed fields, yesterday sounded a call for the substitution of conference for conflict in labor disputes.

By proclamation he appealed to "employers and workers alike" to co-operate with President Roosevelt and the National Recovery Administration by "avoiding strikes, lockouts and all aggressive action, by keeping the work going and by submitting all questions at issue to the President's (labor peace) board."

weeks, had advanced a plan similar in outline.

The Welles' plan was that President Machado appoint a Secretary of State acceptable to all parties and that the President then ask for a leave, turning over power to this Secretary of State, who would succeed him and set up a permanent administration.

The counter-proposal advanced by the government provides that after the accession of Gen. Herrera and the subsequent mediation negotiations, the man accepted as satisfactory by all factions would be made Secretary of State. Thereupon, Gen. Herrera would surrender the presidency and the regular rule of succession would operate.

Cosme de la Torriente, Conservative and former Cuban envoy at Washington, issued a statement saying that acceptance of the government's counter-proposal rested entirely with Ambassador Welles, in whom the oppositon reposed entire confidence.

The Popular party immediately accepted the counter-proposal, and the Conservatives took it under consideration.

Roosevelt Offers Cuba 'New Deal' for Peace

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Outlines of the State Department's program for a new order in Cuba became known today as President Roosevelt silently waited for an early response to his declaration for an end to political warfare on the island.

It was learned that a program providing for a sugar production quota, a complete reorganization of the external and internal debt of the country on a lower basis, a new deal for land development and reciprocal tariff is nearing completion.

The State Department and friends of Cuba in the United States have been negotiating the plans for the last four months.

While Mr. Roosevelt is maintaining the strictest silence awaiting developments in the Cuban crisis, very obviously the Cuban "new deal" program is what he wants to establish in behalf of the island as soon as the disorders end.

There was no amplification today at the summer White House on the message given by the President to Ambassador Cintas to relay to President Machado. Some reports express a belief the President has invited Machado to this country. It would be a way to assure the Cuban head of safety in return for withdrawal, but neither the President nor his aides would confirm such a proposal.

Cuban Ambassador On Mystery Mission

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—With the hurried departure early this morning of Cuban Ambassador Oscar Cintas for Havana, a climax in the Cuban situation that may determine whether the United States will resort to armed intervention to restore law and order in that Latin republic was anticipated.

The State Department expected the next 12 hours would determine whether President Machado will acquiesce to the demands of the Cuban political parties that he quit office or whether he will defy both the political factions and the United States.

Ambassador Cintas's sudden departure for Havana was decided upon following a two-hour conference at the State Department yesterday with Secretary of State Hull, Acting Secretary of State Phillips and Assistant Secretary of State Caffery.

Some hope was held that before nightfall the Cuban President would accept the suggestions put forward by President Roosevelt in his conversation with Ambassador Cintas, at Hyde Park, Wednesday.

Officials still declined to disclose the nature of these suggestions, but it was indicated they constituted an appeal to Machado to accept the unanimous plan of the Cuban political parties that he leave office. This plan, it was said, still stands as the basis of the peace negotiations.

Pinchot in Parley With Oil Leaders

MILFORD, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot and oil producers have conferred on the situation in Pennsylvania's petroleum industry, but in the words of the Chief Executive "have nothing to say" at this time.

He previously had asserted he would co-operate in protecting the interests of the oil men.

MACHADO FAILS TO FORCE END OF STRIKE

Street Cars Bombed As Workers Scorn Peace Move

(Editor's Note — William K. Hutchinson, member of the Washington staff of the International News Service, has arrived in Havana by airplane from the United States to cover the Cuban situation. His first dispatch follows.)

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

International News Service.

HAVANA, Aug. 11.—The "passive revolution" against President Gerardo Machado, which has paralyzed Cuba for a week, neared a climax today with the island's population expecting early intervention by the United States.

The severe tension prevailing was heightened when a bomb planted aboard a street car exploded this morning, seriously injuring four policemen on their way to work. The car had been left near the police station throughout the night.

Defying President Machado, Havana's street railway workers refused to return to their jobs today.

The workers flatly declined to obey an order issued by strike leaders that they resume work at noon.

Their refusal was a serious blow to the efforts of President Machado to preserve his dictatorship by bringing an end to the "strike rebellion" which has paralyzed the nation.

The workers served an ultimatum upon Machado advising him of their refusal.

ULTIMATUM RUMOR

There were persistent reports President Roosevelt had served an ultimatum on Machado to resign today under threat of American intervention, and there were many variations of these reports. Some of the rumors asserted Machado had to restore order today or the United States would land marines on Cuban shores.

All these reports were denied at the American embassy. Spokesmen there declared Ambassador Sumner Welles was continuing his mediation efforts to effect a peaceful settlement of Cuba's turbulent political affairs.

Workers declared the general strike had been called for the restoration of civil liberties and that civil liberties could not be restored under martial law, a "state of war," or while Machado remained as President.

They insisted the strike would be continued.

BUSINESS HALTED

One proprietor of a large commercial establishment told International News Service his business place would remain closed until Machado resigned.

He said thousands of other business men felt the same way and he intimated the passive revolutionists might resort to force.

For a solid week, the island's business has been at a standstill. The situation in Havana was mirrored in Santiago, Camaguey, Pinar Del Rio, and in Santa Clara, Machado's home town.

The general strike began last Friday after a group of Havana bus operators had been out on strike since July 25. The strike closed stores, laundries, shops, restaurants, cafes, motion picture houses, garages, saloons, groceries and even the postoffice. The street cars and buses stopped and no food was delivered.

'SLOPPY JOE' HIT

Postmen, trolley employes, cooks, waiters, store clerks, railroad workers, reporters, barbers, carpenters and even the dancing girls in "honky tonks" went on strike. There were no taxis in the street, and for a time "Sloppy Joe," proprietor of a famous bar, locked his doors.

Havana took on the appearance of a ghost city as only a handful of stragglers appeared on the streets, fearful of another police attack, such as cost 30 lives last Monday afternoon.

The Cuban Congress met daily in secret sessions and the only reports of its deliberations officially made public declared the Congress stood loyally by President Machado.

Carlos Manuel Cespedes, Jr., son of Cuba's George Washington, was looked upon as Machado's successor if the President stepped aside. He was friendly toward all factions. He could become President pending a new constitutional election if Machado appointed him Secretary of State, and then resigned.

Little Germany's 'Ponzi' Jailed, Many Face Ruin

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Charwomen's cheers echoed in the ears of Lorenz Strack, a real estate broker, as he sat in a cell today but they brought him no comfort for they were not for him.

They were for a magistrate who, on hearing him denounced as "a Ponzi," held him in $100,000 bail on grand larceny charges.

Strack, a corpulent man who looked straight ahead and said nothing, was until recently a pillar of Yorkville, New York's "Little Germany." He was everyone's friend; everyone trusted him.

House servants, scrub women, storekeepers brought him their savings for investment, the magistrate was told yesterday. Many did not even take the legal papers he offered them in return. Everything was sailing smoothly, until there was a little difficulty about the interest on Maria Blessing's $5,000.

Maria, a charwoman, went to see Attorney Owen S. M. Tierney, who used to prosecute fraud cases when he was Assistant Federal Attorney. He found, he said, that Miss Blessing's $5,000 was represented by a real estate bond form on which all reference to mortgage security had been stricken out so that it was little more than a promissory note.

Tierney had the broker arrested, and terror struck Yorkville. Two hundred of its citizens crowded to court yesterday, some of them weeping; some of them standing on benches to hear better what had become of their savings.

They heard Tierney say that he alone had in his safe claims for $1,000,000 in mortgage participation certificates issued by Strack. Faces went white when Tierney added that these are "not worth a nickel."

PENNINGTON NAMED DIRECTOR OF DISTRICT DRY SLEUTHS

THREE STATES PATROLLED BY 110 MEN

Agents to Devote Most Of Time to War on Racketeering

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Liquor law enforcement in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware is under the control of a new dry unit composed of 110 members of the defunct Prohibition Bureau. They now serve under a newly organized division of investigation in the Department of Justice.

Commander John D. Pennington, former Prohibition Bureau head, was named regional director of the new unit.

PLEDGES LOYALTY

Pennington said:

"Having been appointed in the newly created division of investigation, Department of Justice, in charge of Federal investigators of one unit of this division, covering Pennsylvania, Delaware and New Jersey, we enter upon our new duties pledging loyal service to the government.

"With the limited force and facilities at our disposal we are determined to perform our full duty earnestly and honestly and lawfully until such time as existing laws are changed."

At the time of its abolition, the regional Prohibition Bureau had 190 persons on the rolls. The figures included executives, agents, clerks, warehouse employes and laborers.

EIGHT IN JERSEY

The new appointments put administration of the liquor laws in New Jersey in the hands of only eight men, headed by H. W. Olsen, deputy administrator, and Samuel Cohen, counsel. Previously there were 33 agents in New Jersey.

Commander Pennington said that about 75 agents are left to cover the tri-state area.

He said state and local police in Pennsylvania are authorized "to lend a hand" under the Snyder act, the state's dry law. Delaware also has a modified state enforcement act. In New Jersey, there no longer is any state law.

Pennington asserted the agents would spend most of their time tracking down racketeers and bootleggers in the liquor and alcohol traffic.

BROTHERS HELD AS FAKE CASH PRINTERS

Three Others Arrested As U. S. Traces Down Counterfeit Gang

Five persons were under arrest today as United States secret service agents spread their search for members of an alleged counterfeit ring responsible for "floating" $80,000 in spurious bills in the tri-state district beyond the city. Arrested on suspicious person charges last night in connection with the perations of the gang, David Moore, 49, and Anna Moore, 37, of 64 West South street, Uniontown, and Frank Collier, 48, of 81 Beyer street, Uniontown, were brought to city detective headquarters today.

140 NEW 'BILLS'

Accused of being printers for the ring, Dave C. Spangler, 34, of Worthington street, and Penn J. Spangler, 40, of 7144 Upland street, brothers, were previously arrested in possession of 140 new $10 bills, according to city detective Walter Monahan.

Dave C. Spangler was held without bail at a Central Police Court hearing today.

Penn Spangler awaits a hearing.

Thousands of dollars worth of spurious currency has been turned out and passed in the tristate district and in the East in the last few months by the gang, the detectives said. A squad of agents and detectives last night set out for the headquarters of the gang, believed to be in the Western Pennsylvania mountains. They took one of the prisoners with them, presumably as a guide.

MOUNTAIN SEARCH

The arrest of the two men followed weeks of undercover investigation by the agents. The ring was termed one of the largest ever known to operate in Pittsburgh.

United States secret service agents were reported continuing their search today in the mountains near Uniontown.

A 'Dudeen' From Berlin

PATRICK JOYCE THE REV. JAMES R. COX

Father Cox, back home today from his European tour, assuring the sexton of Old St. Patrick's Church that the pipe he brought back for him is "Irish" despite the fact it was bought in Berlin. (P. S. The pipe is green, anyhow.) This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

COX BACK HOME, SAYS EUROPE'S 'STUMPED'

U.S.Giving Foreigners Taste of Their Own Medicine, He Grins

With an eye cocked for observation of economic conditions, Father James R. Cox came back home today to report the United States has European nations stumped.

He said it with a broad grin on his face. They are getting what this country has endured for the last four years, he said.

The pastor of Old St. Patrick's Church, who is more than a cleric—having been a candidate for President last year—has been in Europe for 46 days. He led his annual pilgrimage to the shrine of Our Lady of Lourdes in France.

In his absence, he said, a decided change has come over Pittsburgh—the mills are operating for the first time in years, and the newspapers are full of news of things for which he long has fought.

KEEPS ON FIGHTING

There is one thing he is going to fight for now, he said—more strict regulation of banks. He would go even further, he said, and have the government take over the banks, explaining:

"The people should have it, and I'm going to talk government banking wherever I go."

The priest was most enthusiastic over President Roosevelt's activities in office. The world is looking to the President for guidance, he said, but foreign countries do not like his policy of permitting the dollar to seek its own level in value in international exchange. It is hard on the foreign businessman, he explained, but added:

"The world cannot prosper anyhow until we prosper, and we couldn't until something was done about the money situation. It is being done now."

SEES TROUBLE

He found the makings for troubles between France and Germany, but Germany, he said, is headed upward under the Nazi regime. He saw an end to the persecution of Jews in Germany, explaining that public opinion in Germany and abroad would force the end. He said the government would realize it could not succeed unless the anti-Jewish movement ceases.

Austria is most hard hit, he said. He said Americans had not suffered in any proportion to the privation in Vienna and other cities. Men beg in the street on their knees for food, he added.

The priest was jubilant upon his return. He resumed his usual routine at once, saying mass shortly after he arrived and again before noon.

STILL FOR HERRON

He found the greatest pleasure in getting back to American newspapers, although they were sent to him from the church in his absence.

He said:

"You have no idea what it means to be deprived of them. They are an education. Those foreign papers are frightful."

Then he turned to local politics and said:

"I'm still all Herron for Mayor."

While in Rome the 21 pilgrims visited the Vatican and had an audience with the Pope. Father Cox said they were at the Vatican when the concordat between the papal state and Germany over religious rights in Germany was signed.

CORLISS SUING FOR HER PAN

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—Corliss Palmer Brewster, the "Georgia Peach" of film and beauty contest fame and estranged wife of Eugene V. Brewster, one-time millionaire magazine publisher, today added another chapter to her turbulent career.

Through her attorney Miss Palmer was to file a suit against Albert J. Cohen, Hollywood scenario writer and assertedly her former sweetheart, to recover personal property, valued at $2,000, which she alleges Cohen "took from her" and now "withholds and detains without her consent."

In her complaint Miss Palmer lists a group of 25 articles ranging from such homely items as an egg beater and an omelet frying pan to a brocaded sofa pillow and a red Chinese shawl. Also included are "an extra large bath towel," four paintings, pair of scissors, a cut glass wine decanter, a book—"A Dog of Flanders," by Ouida.

Nurses Save Hospital As Heath Fires Rage

LONDON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Fifty nurses at Brockley Hill Hospital, Dorsetshire, formed a bucket brigade today and saved the hospital from the advancing flames of a heath fire which has been burning four days.

Elsewhere in England fires in woods and heaths cause considerable damage and kept hundreds of woodmen and volunteers at work. Flames 20 feet high destroyed many acres of gorse at Kirby, Cheshire, and threatened large residences.

PITT, DUQUESNE GIVE DEGREES

Two Pittsburgh universities, Pittsburgh and Duquesne, today are conferring degrees on over 300 students.

The University of Pittsburgh at the summer convocation in Memorial Hall, is presenting five honorary degrees and diplomas to 233 graduates.

Duquesne's summer commencement, in the campus theater, finds 69 getting bachelor and masters degrees, and one, James E. Mooney, receiving the honorary degree of doctor of education in aeronautics.

GARBO, GILBERT TEAMED AGAIN

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11—(INS.)—The screen's most famous lovers, Greta Garbo and John Gilbert, were together again today.

Gilbert was signed to play the male lead in Miss Garbo's new picture. They were a noted screen team in silent picture days.

Miss Garbo said:

"Nothing could make me happier. Our association has been a most pleasant one and it will be gratifying to resume our careers together."

Laurence Olivier, who was brought from England to play in the Garbo picture, will be placed in production as soon as another suitable role is found for him.

Drive for Patients Proposed as Aid To Hospital

GROVE CITY, Pa., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—C'mon folks, hurry up and get sick. Here's a hospital that needs more patients—at a time when most hospitals are wondering what to do with the patients now on hand.

To make the Grove City Hospital a profitable venture, a 50 per cent increase in patients is needed, according to deductions drawn from the report of John Young of the state auditor's office.

Young's report suggested a campaign be conducted throughout Mercer County—the territory served by the hospital.

Bananas Favorite Of Pet Woodchuck

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—(INS.)—Bunnie, a 2-year-old woodchuck, is the pet of Mrs. Amelia Warren, of this city. Bunnie, who bathes and eats bananas, is treated as any other family would treat their cat or dog.

NUDISTS INVADE LANCASTER

LANCASTER, Pa., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—That coveted sun bronzing, unbroken by ugly shoulder strap marks and the other white lines which convention draws.

Or "to strike fearlessly at the root of social life."

Opportunity for either or both is offered in Lancaster County with only the owls to hoot—presupposing that the Sheriff minds his own business.

Alfred Bennetch, of Reinolds Station, and his wife, both school teachers, will sponsor this communion with nature in the raw, hoping to prove to all and sundry that a weak man's nibble at a green apple hasn't made things any less mild.

The meadows and sylvan dells of the Bennetch farm will be the physical background for the nudist camp. The field of play is plainly marked off. Over the fence is out. Bennetch says he has a dozen who are interested.

LOVE LETTERS KILLING CLUE

Letters found among the effects of the slain Fred Miller, 61, today bore out reports that the quarrels between him and his wife, Meta Miller, 47, were caused by his relations with other women, according to the Coroner's office.

The letters were found in Miller's locker at the downtown postoffice, where he was a fireman. Apparently written by young women, the letters were intimate, the Coroner's attaches reported. Several of these apparently were from his step-daughter, Gertrude Wright, 19, but their contents was not revealed. She has denied causing the quarrels.

Mrs. Miller, held in the county jail for the killing, has been denied permission to attend the funeral, which wil be held Monday. In Morals Court yesterday she admitted shooting her husband over the breakfast table in their home in Stanley street, Greenfield.

JOAN BLONDELL IN FREE-FOR-ALL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A motorcar driven by George Barnes, movie cameraman and husband of Joan Blondell, film actress, collided with one driven by Foster W. Gary, unemployed school teacher. Little damage was done. But both Gary and Barnes dismounted.

Barnes gave Gary his name but the school teacher peeked at the registration slip, saw Joan Blondell's name and demanding a right one jumped on the running board of the Barnes-Blondell car as it moved away.

After a few blocks Barnes got tired of the heckling—this is Gary's account of it—and let fly a fist. Gary hit back, blacking Barnes' eye, bruising his nose and parting him from two teeth.

As the two scuffled Miss Blondell hurried from a nearby beauty shop, saw the fight, rushed in—this is still Gary's account of it—and landed a few blows herself just as police arrived and called it a draw without prejudice to either side.

Natalie Talmadge Divorces Keaton

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Natalie Talmadge today held a final divorce decree from Buster Keaton, "deadpan" comedian of the screen.

Keaton was married January 8 at Ensenada, Mexico, to Miss May Scribbens, a nurse.

MELLON FLAYS BIOGRAPHY

Harvey O'Connor's new book about Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury and Ambassador to England was described by the principal character as "obviously a travesty of truth and appears in the nature of literary racketeering."

O'Connor, a former Pittsburgher, described Mellon's fortune, even in the depression, as being $2,500,000,000, "the largest in America."

Mr. Mellon gave out this statement:

"I have tried to read the so-called biography of myself entitled Mellon's Millions.' It attributes to me and to other members of my family a fortune of such fantastic and imaginary proportions as to be senseless. It alleges huge ownership in many companies with which I do not have, and never had had, any connection or interest whatever. While to those who have knowledge of business affairs the book is obviously a travesty of truth and appears in the nature of literary racketeering, still it is a serious injustice that such false statements in respect to private affairs, and such malevolent innuendoes in respect to personality should have to be submitted to. To call it, as it is advertised, 'a balanced and impartial story,' is to confuse scurrility with biography."

HOPE FOR LIFE OF BANKER

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Condition of John H. Waters, 74, president of the United States National Bank of Johnstown, Pa., was reported "greatly improved" at Emergency hospital here today.

Waters collapsed yesterday at a conference here on plans for reopening his bank. The conference was called when Mayor "Eddie" McCloskey of Johnstown objected to the reopening plan.

Mrs. Waters, a son, Robert, and a daughter, arrived at the hospital last night after an auto trip from Johnstown and were at the bedside today. The hospital sent word for them to come yesterday afternoon when the banker's condition was regarded as critical.

BANKER DENIED NEW TRIAL

Ansley D. Smith, 44, former secretary-treasurer of the closed Citizens Trust Company, Bellevue, was refused a new trial on charges of embezzlement, perjury and making false entries, today by Judge Ambrose B. Reid.

The court announced Smith would be called for sentence at the September term. He was convicted January 28 of embezzling around $55,000 of the bank's funds. Testimony was that he used the money in playing the stock market.

Smith, at liberty under bond, is expected to appeal to the State Supreme Court, after sentence.

Mathewson Fights To Overcome Hurts

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Christopher (Christy) Mathewson, Jr., who was injured in an airplane accident in China last year in which his bride of two weeks was killed, arrived in New York today to consult specialists he hopes will mend his broken body.

The son of the famous baseball pitcher was taken from the train in a wheel chair. He showed the effects of the battle he has fought to regain his health since the loss of one leg.

Double-Cross Charged By Ousted Dry Chief

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Duplicity, double-crossing and double-dealing by subordinates in the Prohibition Bureau while he was director, were charged today by Maj. A. V. Dalrymple, whose post as director was abolished by an executive order. Dalrymple said:

"I point especially to the manner in which permits were approved from this office to five racketeering breweries in New Jersey and Pennsylvania without the knowledge of the fact being brought to the attention of the director.

"In fact, three of these permits were granted before I was ever sworn in as director, one was granted the second day after I was sworn in, and the fifth was on the same day that my letter went out to the administrators throughout the country instructing them regarding the granting of permits."

Dalrymple declared that J. Bertram Wegman, an attorney in his office, had advised Administrator John D. Pennington at Philadelphia, to approve a permit. He said Wegman since had been dismissed from the service.

According to Dalrymple, Pennington asked Wegman if the matter had been brought to the director's attention and was told it had. Wegman later admitted, it was stated, that he had not laid the permits before Dalrymple. Dalrymple added:

"There were numerous instances of this kind of conduct on the part of the subordinates who have taken matters into their own hands and acted upon their own initiative without even consulting with the director.

"As a result of these independent acts of these employes adverse criticism of this department has resulted."

Dalrymple demanded the removal of those he said had "double crossed" him.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—J. Bertram Wegman, former prohibition bureau attorney mentioned by Maj. A. V. Dalrymple in connection with "double crossing" in the department, today said the statement of the retiring prohibition director was "a plain, unvarnished lie."

Two Widows Sob at Bier Of Flier, Under Truce

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Two women, each of whom claims to be the lawful widow of Capt. E. F. M. Deeds, wept today through the funeral of the wartime flier who died in an airplane crash in China.

Mrs. Betty Deeds, who married Deeds in 1925 and lived with him seven years in Hollywood, did not renew her argument with Mrs. Marie Hennessy Shirley Deeds over their claims. Mrs. Marie Deeds insists she married the aviator in China four days before his death.

The aviator's first wife yesterday unsuccessfully sought the arrest of her rival after both voiced their feelings upon the arrival of the flier's body here.

REPEAL VERDICT THIS YEAR SEEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11—(AP.)—The nation's quick-shifting repeal map today showed possibilities that 39 states will ballot well before next New Year's Eve on the fate of prohibition.

Rounding off a week of major wet-and-dry developments, Gov. Ruby Laffoon, of Kentucky, yesterday called a special session of the Legislature for August 15, to vote on submitting the Eighteenth Amendment.

A few hours earlier, Gov. O. K. Allen, of Louisiana, confirmed a statement that a special session of the state's Legislature would be called for the same purpose. Allen set no date.

Should both states vote before the year's end the total to ballot would reach 39 as a minimum. Ratification by 36 is necessary for repeal.

Arizona's three-to-one vote for repeal earlier in the week brought to 21 the states that have spoken without a break for abolition of the dry law.

AMERICAN SHOT BY TURK POLICE

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Raymond S. White, an American teacher of the Smyrna International College, was wounded in the foot last night by Turkish gendarmes who mistook him for an escaped brigand as he was motoring at high speed from Bergama to Smyrna.

White and three friends had visited the Bergama ruins, leaving for Smyrna before dawn. The gendarmes had fixed a trap along the Bergama-Smyrna road for the famous brigand, Ghiavour Ali, whom they had traced as far as Bergama.

Driving along the lonely road at 50 miles an hour, White did not hear the challenge of the gendarmes nor their subsequent first shot into the air. Thereupon the gendarmes shot lower, hitting him in the foot.

CHIEF MAY QUIT HOME BANK

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The resignation of William F. Stevenson, of South Carolina, as chairman of the Home Loan Bank Board, was reported imminent today.

There also was considerable speculation concerning the status of A. E. Hutchinson, also of South Carolina, who is manager of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation and secretary of the Home Loan Bank Board.

A congressional inquiry into affairs of the home loan organization was regarded as a probability. The board has a regulation prohibiting nepotism. It was reported that this rule has not been carried out strictly.

Complaint also was heard that strong political indorsement is required in order to obtain even minor positions in the organization.

Film Comic's Wife Goes Under Knife

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Mrs. Neil Hamilton, wife of the film actor, is in a hospital today for a major operation. Hamilton left location with a film company to be with her. Physicians, while not disclosing the nature of the operation, said she was not in immediate danger.

Marriage Sealed By Mucilage as Pastor Errs

OMAHA, Neb., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A bit of ordinary mucilage sealed the marirage of Leslie E. Potts, 23, of Avoca, and Miss Irene Hascher, 23, of Murray.

They were married by the Rev. Ernest P. Taggert, acting pastor of a church here. Mr. Taggert, from Missouri, and not familiar with Nebraska laws, was puzzled by a note on the marirage license saying it should be returned to License Clerk Stubbendorf.

Who should return it? Thinking to be on the safe side, he tore the certificate in half, kept one-half and gave the other to Potts. Yesterday Potts turned in his half, and Stubbendorf exclaimed:

"You're only half married!"

The other half was obtained, and the marriage sealed with mucilage.

Listed among Tannen's creditors are Will Rogers, $200; George S. Kaufman, playwright, $750; Ed Wynn, comedian, $350, and Heywood Broun, newspaper columnist, $129.

SLUM 'CORNER' PLOT FOILED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Promoters who planned to reap a profiteer's harvest by cornering big city slum properties, anticipating government-financed housing projects on them, today faced the prospect of being left with millions of dollars in such properties idle on their hands.

While no official charges were made it is understood such properties in New York, Chicago, Detroit and elsewhere were involved. Reports have reached Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, the public works administrator, that promoters in certain localities were obtaining options on land which they later expected to unload for as much as $10 per front foot.

Ickes warned that such efforts are futile. Approximately 30 housing projects, to be financed from government loans for cheap housing in almost as many cities, are under consideration.

These are being closely searched for any evidence of attempts to profiteer. If finally approved they will call for government loans exceeding $100,000,000. Wherever evidence justifies it, the government will refuse loans for any such building projects.

U. S. REFUNDS BILLION UNDER INCOME TAX

(Editor's Note—This is the third of a series of five articles on the federal income tax system, which 25 years of experience has demonstrated to be unreliable as a revenue producer, costly in administration and discriminatory.)

By ARTHUR HATCHEN
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Tax refunds by the Internal Revenue Bureau from 1917, when the income tax law went into effect, to March, 1933, reached the stupendous total of $1,440,128,000.

This information has been submitted to congressional committees, which are overhauling the income tax law again, with a view to legislation at the next session of Congress.

Revenue receipts from all sources during that span of years totaled $49,182,751,061. Refunds amounted to 2.9 per cent of receipts.

Additional assessments levied by the Internal Revenue Bureau aggregated $6,340,026,123, so that refunds amounted to 23 per cent of the additional assessments.

PATCHING LAW

Subcommittees of the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance committees as well as the joint congressional committee on internal revenue taxation, are aiming to patch up the hodgepodge income tax system. Administrative features are being examined.

Committee members were astounded by the huge amount of tax refunds as well as the large amount of additional assessments, declaring they illustrate the complexity of the income tax system and measure in dollars the tremendous amount of litigation and battling between the government and taxpayers.

The report showed that $80,583,504 was refunded in 1932, involving 132,055 items where a refund was necessary. Back in 1926, the refunds totaled $174,120,177, involving 324,711 items. The peak year in refunds was reached in 1929, when $190,164,359 was returned to taxpayers by the government. It was found that taxes had been illegally collected on 137,879 items. The amount of additional assessments made by the government in the fiscal year 1932 was $332,363,708.

SYSTEM ATTACKED

Opponents of the income tax system contend that a form of taxation which makes it necessary to refund such large amounts annually and to levy additional assesments of hundreds of millions of dollars after taxpayers have filed their returns should be supplanted by a simpler method that does not leave so much room for disputes, such as a general manufacturer's sales tax.

Charges frequently have been made in Congress that favoritism is shown in tax refunds. Democrats have charged Republicans when they were in power with favoring Republican campaign contributors. These charges, of course, have been denied and Republicans have countered with lists of Democrats who have been given refunds.

TEST SOLVES VACATION PROBLEM

Cruise Contest Rules

Here are the easy rules for the Sun-Telegraph "Contest Cruises":

Answer all 20 questions. There will be two questions every day in the daily Sun-Telegraph for 10 days beginning August 10 and closing August 21.

Write a letter of not more than 50 words telling why you need a vacation this summer.

Send answers and letter to the Cruise Contest Editor of the Sun-Telegraph. Four winners will be selected, two for each cruise. Correctness of answers and cleverness of letters will be considered in selecting winners. Judges' decision will be final. No entries will be returned. All entries must be in not later than August 25. Winners will be announced as quickly as possible after that date. In the event of tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded.

The two entrants submitting the most nearly correct sets of answers, accompanied by the most convincing letters, will be awarded 10-day cruises to Florida, all expenses paid. The next two most nearly correct sets of answers accompanied by the most convincing letters will be awarded 7-day cruises to Boston, expenses paid.

Entrants must be over 16 years of age. Employes of the Sun-Telegraph or their families, or employes of radio station WCAE, are not eligible to participate in the "Contest Cruises."

The problem of a glorious vacation this summer has been solved for four readers of the Sun-Telegraph. No, it isn't known who will win these free vacations, but whoever they happen to be they have in sight ocean cruises to Florida and return, or cruises to Boston or return, all sailing out of Baltimore.

The Florida cruise covers 2,100 miles and will require 12 days. This cruise was originally announced to cover 10 days, but the interest in the contest seems to be so great that the Merchants and Miners Steamship Line has stretched it to 12 days. The Boston cruise will cover an entire week, including three days of motoring to see Revolutionary War shrines in and around that historic city.

The four de luxe cruises will be made on the palatial coast-wise steamships of the Merchants and Miners line and all expenses will be paid for the winners, including fares and Pullman from Pittsburgh to Baltimore and return.

These "contest cruises" have a fascinating background. There will be two Florida tours, including a motor trip from Miami to Jacksonville.

"Contest cruises" began yesterday with the publication of the first two questions. The second set of questions appears in an adjoining column of the Sun-Telegraph today and for the benefit of readers who missed yesterday's Sun-Telegraph the two first questions are repeated today. There will be 20 questions in all and each contestant is to write a letter telling why he or she needs a vacation. The contest is open only to readers 16 years of age or over.

It was further charged the "rond" announced intention of setting up a Fascist government for Russia. The "rond," it was charged, is copying the German Nazis in many ways, even to the point of having its members wear brown shirts.

The German foreign department formally announced German Nazis had nothing to do with the unauthorized foundation of a Russian party in Germany.

INDIANA, Pa., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Gov. Pinchot today was to be asked to intervene in behalf of three men arrested in connection with an alleged riot which followed a parade of unemployed to the county welfare headquarters Tuesday.

Those arrested were J. W. Blaney, Black Lick, Pa., president of the Indiana County Workers' Federation; William Dias, Negro, treasurer of the organization, and H. M. Mock, Indiana. Blaney and Dias were taken into custody at their homes yesterday.

Mrs. Marie Widdowson, wife of a physician at Black Lick, said she intended to telegraph the Governor her contention Blaney and Dias were wrongfully arrested. TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Attention of investigators in the Kansas bond forgery case was drawn today toward the office of Will J. French, state auditor, who disclosed a copy of a transcript of one of the forged issues of bonds was missing from his files.

This climaxed discovery of additional forgeries, bringing the total to $799,000, and followed a call by Gov. Alf M. Landon for a conference of state and federal officers working on the case.

Following a check in his office, the auditor said that in addition to the missing transcript, he found another had been loaned to Ronald Finney, bond broker, charged with uttering $20,000 in spurious bonds to a Topeka bank.

They were to have been married today and planned to start on a honeymoon trip to San Antonio, Tex., where Miss Hollabaugh formerly lived.

Edward Collins, father of the young man, owner of the Sharon Pattern Works, gave them the automobile. The younger Collins was a former squash instructor at the New York Athletic Club.

Another couple riding with Collins and Miss Hollabaugh escaped injury. They said a heavy fog obscured the roadway.

N. Y. Bans Drivers Younger Than 18

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Those of Pennsylvania's motorists who are under 18 years of age are subject to arrest in New York State when driving there. Secretary of Revenue Leon D. Metzger warned in a statement today. The minimum age for an operator in New York State is 18 years.

Homewood Youth Held in Store Theft

Neville Banks, 20, Negro, of Monticello street, admitted in Morals Court today he had stolen $1,200 cash from the safe in the Wilbur Rogers store at 3145 Fifth avenue in May, while he was employed there.

He was held for court on a larceny charge.

Eddie Blames Wild Day On Loco Weed Cigaret

The middle of Chartiers avenue is no place to sit with your shoes on, it seems.

So Eddie Waiteford, 22, of Moon Run, took them off, according to the police, and for good measure removed his trousers.

This was just an incident in Eddie's day. A few minutes before he had shoved his fists through 13 windows of a street car and, after busting the thirteenth, plunged through to Chartiers avenue. Good, clean fun.

After having his injuries treated Eddie was trotted up to Mt. Washington Police Court, where he was fined $5 today. It seems that he had mistakenly smoked a loco weed for a cigaret, which proves that it's fun to be fooled.

J. D. 'CLEARED' IN LAND PROBE

JACKSON, Wyo., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Senator Peter Norbeck (Rep.), of South Dakota, termed a Senate Land Committee's investigation of the Rockefeller Jackson Hole plan "an outrageous expenditure of funds," as the committee closed a four-day hearing early today

He said:

"It's a political football and it cost $5,000 to run down these unfounded rumors."

He left the hall for his hotel shortly before the hearing ended. He said he was ill.

Senator Gerald P. Nye (Rep.), of North Dakota, chairman of the committee, issued a statement in which he said the hearing had not disclosed to him any evidence of unfair dealing by agents of John D. Rockefeller, Jr.

BAKERS FIGHT PEDDLER TAX

Two Pittsburgh baking companies, Baur and Haller, today began a fight to test the legality of McKeesport's new "peddling" ordinance, requiring them to pay a $100 annual license fee to sell bread. The ordinance imposes fees on all persons selling from door to door.

Counsel appealed to County Court from $25 fines imposed by Magistrate Alexander Lang on William Hardwick, McKeesport, driver and Fred Zoeller, Glassport, helper, of the Baur company and on Vauhn K. Leslie, Jr., 7419 Idlewild street, driver for the Haller company. They were arrested yestetrday charged with violating a city ordinance in failing to take out licenses.

P. O. RAMP PLAN UP TO U. S.

That $2,100,000 plan for a Bigelow boulevard improvement which includes a traffic ramp for the new postoffice, is now in the hands of government officials, according to Charles M. Reppert, chief city engineer, member of the committee which returned to Pittsburgh today.

The committee conferred with treasury, postal and agricultural department officials yesterday.

The project submitted, known as "Plan A," includes an elevated by-pass which would eliminate the intersection of Seventh avenue with the boulevard at grade. The postoffice ramp would bridge Seventh avenue.

Other members of the committee are James L. Stuart, engineer; Charles A. Waldschmidt, city solicitor, and Thomas A. Dunn, representing the Chamber of Commerce.

YOUTH HANGS FOR SLAYING WOMAN, GIRL

Doctor at Birth Attends Killer At Death

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 11.—(A.P.)—Among physicians who examined the body of Omer Brill, hanged at the penitentiary last night, was Dr. C. V. Brooks, of Moorefield, who brought the youth into the world on May 9, 1912

Dr. Brooks, whose slap on the back started the baby's circulation 21 years ago, listened through his stethoscope as life ebbed.

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The state is avenged for the slaying of Mrs. Love Burch and her 17-year-old daughter, Esther, over a 66-cent robbery at their Bean Settlement store on the morning of May 16.

Blue-eyed Omer Brill, 21, was hanged until dead last night on a rough-hewn gallows before 28 witnesses who heard him say quietly, just before the trap was sprung:

"I am absolutely innocent. I never killed anyone."

At one minute before 9 o'clock came the signal that brought a wooden clatter and the taut jerk of a rope. Fifteen and a half minutes later the youth was pronounced dead.

AUNT CLAIMS BODY

No relatives attended Brill's hanging. There had been no visitors since he was committed to the state penitentiary, June 28. One woman, Jean Fisher, of Moorefield, a friend of the slain woman, was in the small, hushed audience, the first woman to attend a hanging at the prison since a sister of Gov. E. F. Morgan saw three Clarksburg men die in 1923.

Brill was homeless and a wanderer. An aunt living in Fabius, W. Va., Abbie Ruckman, claimed the body. Brill's mother is understood to be living in the Middle West. His father is dead.

STANDS CALMLY

Removal of a black screen from the gallows after the march from the death cell revealed the youth standing calmly near the prison chaplain, the Rev. Earle Geisey, who murmured a prayer for his forgiveness. Brill's mood seemed almost cheerful at times, though not defiant.

On his final day in the death cell he had asked for no special food, continuing to eat steak and onions, his principal fare since entering the prison. The chaplain remained with him most of the day.

Without a struggle he submitted to last-minute preparations for death—the black hood, the binding on legs and wrists, the noose around the neck. His only comment was his last-minute protestation of innocence.

PARADERS DEFY DE VALERA

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—While the Free State executive council was in session today to decide whether to ban Sunday's parade of Gen. Owen O'Duffy's national guard, the General issued printed orders to his Blue Shirts indicating he had no intention of parading without uniforms.

President Eamon De Valera already has announced his opposition to any procession of uniformed men. Dublin fears disorders may occur in connection with the parade, which is to commemorate Arthur Griffith, Michael Collins and Kevin O'Higgins, who were leaders of the Irish movement.

Former President William T. Cosgrave's newspaper, the United Irishman, attacked President De Valera for his opposition.

A statement discrediting the idea that any coup d'etat was intended by the opposition to the President was issued by former President William T. Cosgrave.

SCRAP OF PAPER AIDS ROBBERY

Neville Banks, 20, a Negro, of 7309 Monticello street, was held in Central Police Station today in connection with the alleged theft of $1,200 from a safe in the Wilbur Rogers dress shop at 314 Fifth avenue, where he was employed as a porter.

Arrested last night by City Detectives John Crouse and Dennis Dwyer, Banks was said to have admitted the theft, saying he got the safe's combination from a piece of paper tossed into the waste basket by an employe.

"Broke" when arrested, Banks told the detectives he spent the money touring the South with a friend.

Eight Hurt in Crash On Lincoln Highway

George Smith, 76, of Scottsville, W. Va., was in the McKeesport Hospital today with an injured leg as the result of an automobile collision on the Lincoln highway, near East McKeesport, last night, according to a hospital report. Seven other persons received treatment after the collision.

5 MINE SLAYERS SENTENCED

JONESBORO, Ill., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Life imprisonment was the penalty assessed today on four of the five young Du Quoin coal miners found guilty last night of the murder of Laverne Miller, 14-year-old high school girl.

The fifth defendant, Emery Albers, was sentenced to 40 years in the penitentiary. The four given life terms were Sam Ferro, Barney Bosetto, Otis Battaglia and Robert Shingleton. A jury found the five guilty after several hours of deliberation.

Gunmen fatally wounded the girl on April 6 when they poured a fusillade of bullets into the Miller home while the controversy between rival mine unions was at fever pitch.

FLAMES SWEEP BEACH RESORT

DEMAND PROBE OF TAX 'DEAL'

International News Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—E. J. Davis, head of the Better Government Association, in a letter sent to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings, today demanded the name of the public official who is reported to have settled his income tax troubles with the government for $100,000.

Davis' letter followed publication here of a report that the unnamed official had been charged with an income of some $450,000 in two years and had settled with the Internal Revenue Department without any publicity.

Commenting upon his attitude, Davis said:

"The voters and the taxpayers of Chicago are entitled to know who is the mysterious public official who has been permitted to make this settlement with the federal government, and why a secret settlement was permitted."

ELOPING CLERIC NOW PEDDLER

BOULDER, Col., Aug. 11.—Another chapter in the career of Sharon C. Inman, 43, former Cave Springs (Mo.) pastor who gave up his wife and his church to marry the girl he loved, had been written here today as the one-time minister embarked on a career of door-to-door salesmanship.

Inman whose wife, when she learned of his attachment for the girl invited her into their home, only to have the strange experiment end when Inman and the girl left together, has a job selling brushes.

After his wife secured a divorce he married the girl.

His answer to questions was:

"None of your business."

But his bride declared:

MAN REPORTED DEAD 3RD TIME

STROUDSBURG, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—Once again Jud Lantz wants his friends to know he is not dead.

For the third time in three years county officials have been called to investigate premature reports that the woodworker and carpenter was dead.

The latest report resulted from friends' visit to Lantz' home. They hadn't seen him for several days and, finding the door locked, peered through a window. They glimpsed him lying on the floor.

Returning with officers, who opened the door with a skeleton key, they found Lantz sitting up, greatly surprised by the excitement.

CHARGESHIDDEN GOLD SHIPMENT

SEATTLE, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Enroute to Alaska, former Gov. Sulzer has gold mining interests in the North. He asserted 1,000 more men would be put to work in Alaska if free exchange of gold were permitted.

VATICAN CITY.—(INS.)—Swiss Guards, Noble Guards and Palatine Guards who make entry into the Vatican City almost impossible for non-citizens who have not obtained a pass at the gates failed to guard the papal Food Supply Bureau from the entry of two jail birds, who managed to break into the city, then into the safe and carry off $1,000.

Weismuller Makes Rescue as Lifeguard

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Johnny Weissmuller, champion swimmer and screen actor, yesterday made his first rescue since he was appointed a member of the Santa Monica lifeguard squad.

Weissmuller saw Bob Wheeler, 12, sinking off the municipal pier. He swam to the boy and brought him to the side of the pier, where other guards lifted him to safety in a net.

Tax Necessitates Millions of Pennies

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—California, traditional land of gold rushes, has become copper-minded, all because of its new 2½ per cent sales tax.

The second shipment of one million pennies in a week was dispatched to Los Angeles by the United States mint, which also announced delivery of half a million of the coins to the Federal Reserve Bank here.

Mexico Launches Farm Education

MEXICO CITY.—(INS.)—An extensive agrarian educational program, based in a large measure on United States methods, is being carried out by the federal Agricultural Department of Mexico.

Among features of the program which are new to Mexico are correspondence courses, organization of children's and youths' farm clubs, registered tree stocks for the fruit industry and practical instruction in co-operative farm groups.

Two in Stolen Car Taken After Chase

After an auto chase for a mile along River road, on the South Side, a police radio crew today arrested two men they said were riding in a stolen car.

The men were registered as James Gilligham, alias Bowen, of 1105 Fifth avenue, and George Williams, of First street, Braddock. Radio Police John Emery and Joseph Bell said the car was being driven recklessly.

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

During Walter Winchell's two weeks' holiday, his column will be written by celebrated friends.

Cartoonist Batting for a Columnist

By Rube Goldberg

Several weeks ago when Walter Winchell asked me to knock out his column for one day during his vacation I immediately started looking through the keyholes. It was not until my tenth or fifteenth keyhole that I began to realize what a tremendous task it was to fill this large chunk of space every day. Most of the keyholes had the keys in them and in some of the other places the house dicks came along before I had a chance to see what was going on inside.

Following the public-spirited policy of this column in suggesting that certain days be set aside for the national advancement of special ideals, I suggest the following: Hotel-Clerks'-Courtesy-Day, on which all hotel clerks should look pleasant and give the guests decent rooms at decent prices without an argument: No-Traffic-Lights-Day, on which all traffic lights should be turned off and cars be allowed to bump into one another at will to give drivers a chance to exercise an urge that has been gnawing at their vitals for years: Wideawake-Day-for-Headwaiters, on which headwaiters should find out that you want a bottle of Worcestershire sauce before you have finished your meal: Black Friday, on which all radio announcers who use a ministerial tone in talking about floor mops and disinfectants should be shot: Natural-Day-for-Movie-Stars, on which movie actresses should discard their phoney smiles and look a little worried about the gas bill: Contract-Bridge Armistice-Day, on which all dumb husbands should be allowed to make as many mistakes as they choose without being bawled out by their grouch-bags: Dunking-Day, on which society people should be allowed to dunk and drink out of their saucers for old times' sake.

A Cartoonist's Secretary Jots Down a Few Notes

Straightened out your card index of "Pows," "Whams," "Klunks," "Oinks," "Zingos" and "Boffs" . . . Your wife called up and wanted to know what to do with the three laughing hyenas sent by admirers. Told her to send them to the studio to help create atmosphere of hilarity during your next broadcast . . . Garbage man took your next week's work by mistake . . . Toronto editor wrote in complimenting you on those little black figures in your last cartoon. Shall I answer and tell him they were blots? . . . Circus closed and several freaks wrote and asked if they could be your models . . Your contract has only one more year to run—think it too extravagant to change your pen point now . . . Primo Carnera wired to thank you for drawing such a nice picture of his feet. Hesitated to answer and tell him it was your yearly canoeing cartoon. We'll let it go . . . Cleaned out your desk and found a nice letter from Abraham Lincoln. Everybody says you don't look your age . . . Got another of those letters from the telephone company about switching phone calls to your summer plac , part of which I quote: "When residence service is temporarily suspended bills are rendered at the full rate and an allowance of one-half the minimum rate for local service and facilities is credited on the following month's bill. The initial credit appears on the first bill rendered subsequent to a full month of suspension. If the allowances were deducted from the bill covering monthly charges in advance, and the service subsequently restored before the end of the month, it would be necessary to rebill you at the full rate for that portion of the month following the restoration of the service etc." This sounds like one of your complicated inventions . . . Several mothers called and wanted to know what to do with their sons who showed rare talent in cartooning. I told them! . . . Too bad Tommy and Georgie are so crazy about hamburgers. I found a piece of rubber hose in one yesterday . . . People keep sending you ideas for Popeye, Barney Google and Jiggs. I return them saying you don't draw these characters. What character do you draw, anyway? . . . Peggy Fears can't bar her husband from their swell shack in Larchmont. When she took a caramel from a box of candy brought by a week-end guest, she unwraped A. C. Blumenthal . . . The moths are complaining about your bathing suit. There's hardly enough left for a decent meal.

Cartoonist About Town

Flash: The police have the names of the men who killed Julius Caesar. One of them is a guy named Brutus—but 'y don't know whether it's his first or last name. Just found out why Ex-Kaiser Wilhelm has stopped chopping wood. His wife put in an oil-burner . . . Evelyn Nesbit Thaw just revealed the real facts about the murder of Stanford White. A guy has to be dead 30 years before they give him credit . . . An orchid to my favorite movie personalities—Edward G. Robinson, W. C. Fields, Barbara Stanwyck, Ernst Lubitsch, King Kong and "Exit." The other night I was having dinner with Leon Gordon, the portrait painter, and James Montgomery Flagg, the illustrator. Gordon suddenly turned to me and asked, "Do you think you're an artist?" Unfortunately, I said "Yes," and started one of those endless all-night arguments. Gordon and Flagg said I was a racketeer merely using artist's materials in the pursuit of my racket. I stuck to my original claim and pointed out that any pictorial creation that gives one a thrill by its beauty, humor, sincerity or whatnot is art. Gordon said painting is the only real art because it is the only authentic record of time. He ranted at my audacity in comparing myself with Leonardo da Vinci, Rembrandt, Michael Angelo and those other immortal birds, and I told him I thought Tad was just as immortal in his way as Rembrandt was in his. Gordon said he had just completed a beautiful portrait of Katharine Brush which he would be ashamed to have compared with any other of the crazy animals in my Boob McNutt page. On my way home just as the dawn was cracking I saw two large bill boards advertising a well-known laxative and a certain brand of pickled herring. One was painted by Leon Gordon and the other by James Montgomery Flagg . . . Broadway has more lights than any other groove in the world. If you let them shine in your face often enough you become a "celebrity." All you have to do is appear regularly at all theatrical first nights, night club openings, large penthouse parties, big sporting events and benefits until people say, "There's Phil Zook." That's your reward—the height of Broadway success—"There's Phil Zook." Nobody cares where you came from, where you are going or what you do for a living—just as long as they say "There's Phil Zook." Broadway fame is like boiling water—it just keeps on boiling until it all evaporates and there's nothing left.

Tomorrow's Column Will Be by Ben Bernie.

Menjou Suits Get Play In Film

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 11.—Having signed in Adolphe Menjou an actor with 30 suits and 500 major items in his wardrobe, Warner Brothers are actively in the market for sophisticated stories. One of the early vehicles they plan for Adolphe is "Bedside," the adventures of a theatrical doctor.

Miss Dodd

In this original by Manny Seff and Harvey Thaw, the dapper actor will have opportunity for sartorial splendor as well as for knowing humor and deft love-making.

The picture will be Menjou's second under his new contract, "Convention City," already announced, being the first.

For one of the feminine leads in the story of the Broadway doctor, Adolphe will have the pulchritudinous Claire Dodd.

Meanwhile, on Monday next, the star's romance with Kathryn Carver is scheduled to be dissolved via the divorce court.

The Harry Greens are expecting an addition to the family in January.

* * *

Writing from Ketchikan, Alaska, John Barrymore tells of landing a seven-foot king salmon with a trout rod. For the unbelieving, he incloses a photograph. From Ketchikan, the Barrymore yacht, Infanta, will steam to Juneau and then, after a brief stay, will return to British Columbia. The actor probably will be back at the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studio within two weeks.

* * *

One of the fatter contracts signed recently is that under which Bing Crosby just promised to make three pictures for Paramount in 1935. His thespic labors will net the crooning star $250,000 for that year. Bing also has one picture to make at Paramount in December and three in 1934.

Eddie Cantor In Fulton

By MILDRED FILLMORE

"Whoopee," celluloid musical comedy starring Eddie Cantor, is the featured attraction on the Fulton screen, with Ethel Shutta in the principal feminine role. Although not new, having been shown originally three years ago, it is still interesting, as indicated by the attendance of an opening audience of good size despite a rainy day. Perhaps more persons are interested in it now than in the original presentation, for Eddie, at the time it was made, was a stage star only. Since then he has become popular with millions through several successful screen appearances and radio broadcasts.

The offering is a movie version of a Ziegfeld musical comedy hit that also had Mr. Cantor and Miss Shutta as principals. The scene is laid in the West, which allows for generous leeway in the matter of colorful costumes and settings, and Mr. Cantor is a pseudo-invalid, supposedly in search of health, which gives plenty of opportunity for comedy situations. The songs, such as "Making Whoopee," etc., are definitely dated, but like old wine and old friends, are still good.

Other program numbers include Hearst Metrotone News, Tony Wons, "Reflections" and comedy, a baby burlesque, 'Polly Tix."

Vern Stern Orchestra At El Patio

In addition to the regular program of entertainment, the management of El Patio announces the enagement of Vern Stern and his 13 Dots, that popular band from Harlem. El Patio, with one of the largest beer gardens in the county, has shelter when it rains.

New Pictures In Town

Marie Dressler plays the title part as the skipper in "Tugboat Annie," with Wallace Beery as her husband, photoplay opening today in the Penn. Maureen O'Sullivan and Robert Young supply the love interest.

"Moonlight and Pretzels," musical comedy opening today in the Stanley, has Mary Brian and Leo Carrillo in the leading roles. The cast includes Roger Pryor, Herbert Rawlinson, Alexander Gray, Bernice Claire, Jack Benny and his orchestra and Frank and Milt Britton and their band.

Nancy Carroll and Edmund Lowe are featured in "I Love That Man" now playing in the Warner. Lowe finds it easy to trim suckers in this comedy-drama. Robert Armstrong, Lew Cody, Dorothy Burgess and Warren Hymer are in the cast.

"Secret of the Blue Room," murder mystery with Gloria Stuart and Lionel Atwill, and "Life in the Raw" compromise the double bill opening today in the Davis and Sheridan Square.

Club Rythme Is Open In Sawmill Run

Lew Joseph, for several years treasurer of the Nixon, has gone into another field in the entertainment line, and, in association with Lou Gittleson, has opened the Club Rythme in Sawmill Run boulevard, South Hills. The new venture made its bow last night with considerable eclat. Herman Middleton has charge of the orchestra and there is a floor show by male performers in feminine costume.

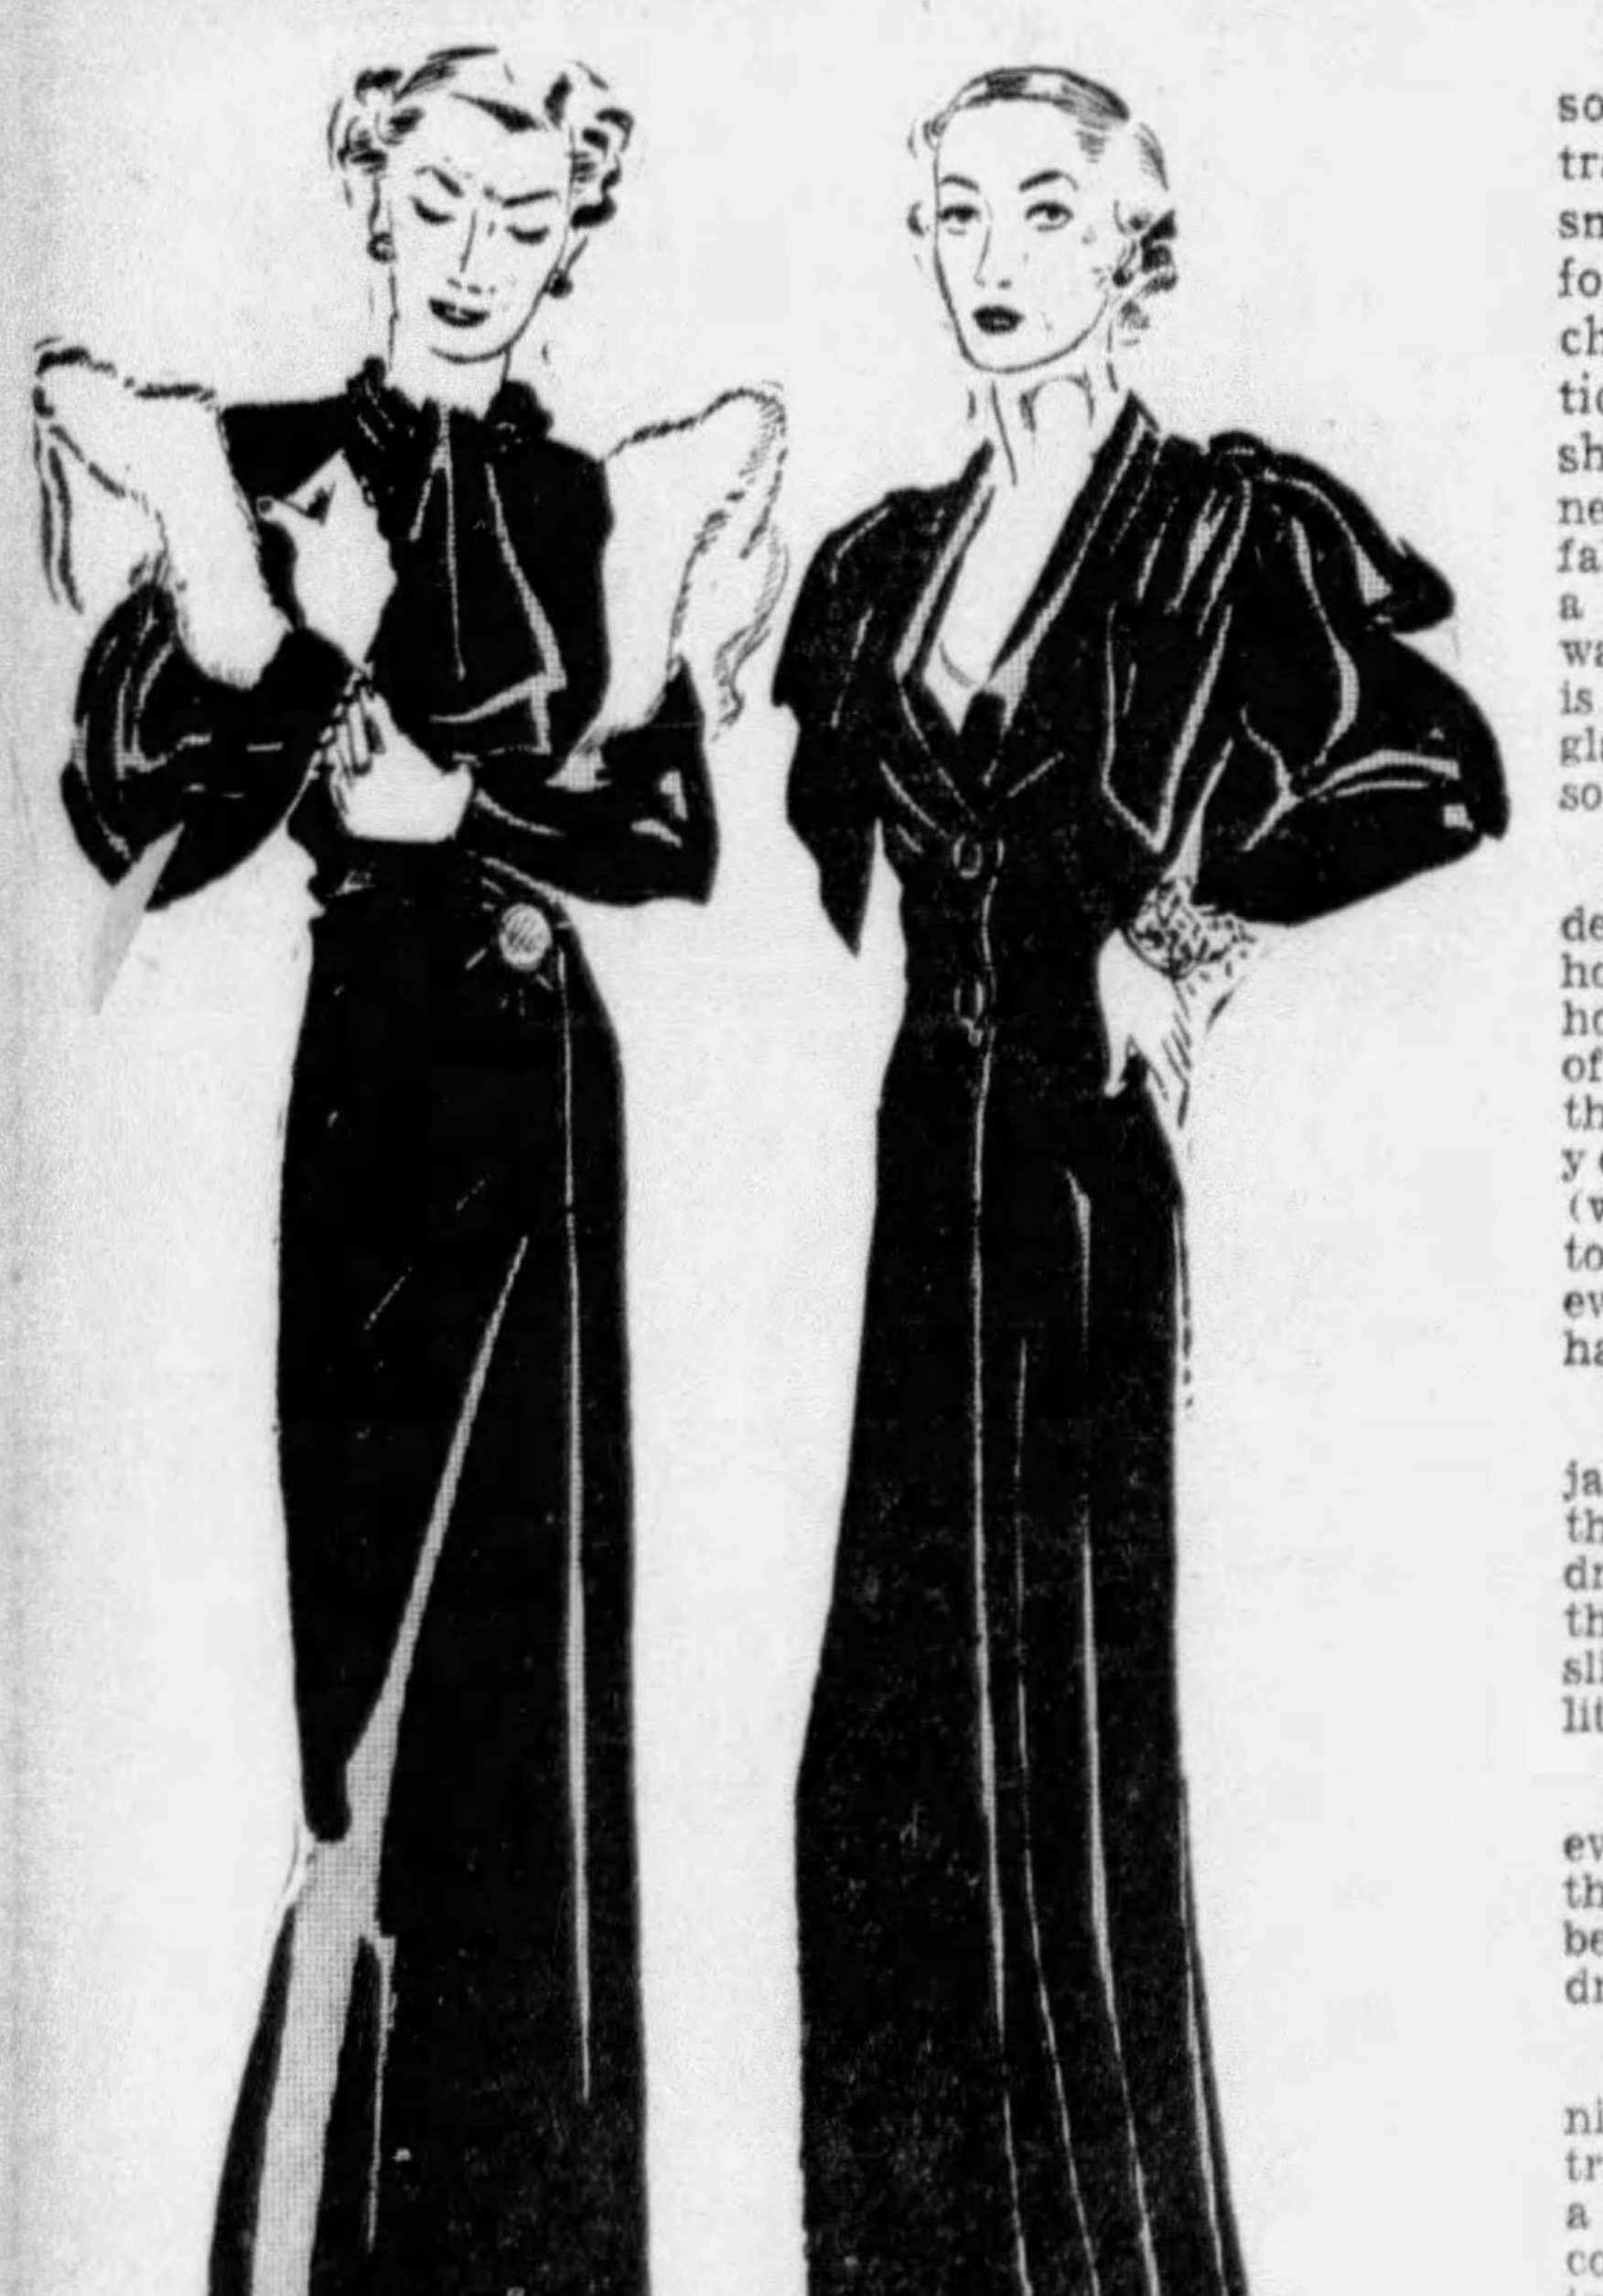
YOUR SUMMER EVENING GOWNS ENHANCED BY SMART NEW WRAP



A FAVORITE vacation season is at hand. Carloads and trainloads and boatloads of smart women are pushing off for a trip somewhere and their choice of this month is a particularly fortunate idea. The shops are bulging over with new clothes, prophetic of coming fall successes. Which makes this a good time for replenishing a wardrobe. There is so much that is new to choose from and to add glamorous freshness to your not-so-new summer things.

* * *

IF YOU want to appear on the deck of a ship, or at a week-end house party, or at a mountain hotel in formal clothes that are of the coming season instead of the past, this is a good idea: Over your summer evening dress (which may be old and ordinary to you by now) button a new long evening coat, straight, simple and hanging almost to the floor.

* * *

SMARTER THAN the short jacket is this instep-length wrap that quite succeeds in hiding your dress. You would never dream that you could look as tall and slim as these make you appear. To little women they're heaven-sent.

* * *

TO BE SURE, some of the short evening jackets linger with us, but they're usually little coats that belong definitely to certain dresses, part of an ensemble idea.

* * *

ONE OF THE new long evening wraps, of black velvet, self-trimmed, made its appearance at a very smart gathering one recent cool night. It was simply draped in the new sophisticated manner. A huge lobster-claw bow completely covered each shoulder. That's all there was to it, and it was unmistakably smart. With it sparkling bracelets were worn and clips of brilliants in each ear.

* * *

LATER ON, when the weather permits, you'll be seeing furred versions of the same long evening wrap. Quite the nicest we've come across ourselves is the one with clam-shell epaulets of precious ermine. (See the illustrations.) To carry out the note of luxury, a glittering button fastens the coat on one hip.

* * *

IN THE EVENING, flowers—fresh or artificial—and jeweled ornaments are a naive bit of decoration in the hair, usually over rolled-up curls. The majority of coiffures, however, are sleek and sculptored. The woman on the right in the sketch ties her curls back of her ears in the very newest manner with tiny black velvet bows. It's a charmingly naive idea.

Reunion

A BROADWAY opening. Beautiful women in beautiful gowns. Brilliant jewels and conversation not so brilliant. Lights, Noise, Laughter. The stage production, perhaps, a little dull. But who cared? The real show tonight was in front of the footlights.

The lights flared up. The play was over. The audience paraded slowly through the lobby. Sleek cars began to creep up to the curbing. A beautiful girl stepped forward on the arm of a distinguished-looking gentleman.

She was famous, after a fashion. Shop girls and stenographers read about her in the newspapers and sighed with envy. Her hands were heavy with jewels. Her life had been an easy one, smoothed by men who worshiped her beauty.

"Where now, Gloria?" the man murmured.

Gloria shrugged delicately. She smiled and looked slightly bored. At the edge of the sidewalk someone brushed against her. An old man who had been swept into the moving crowd of people. A shabby old man whose clothes hung upon him loosely. An old man with lean cheeks and hungry eyes.

He mumbled something, and, as Gloria turned an indifferent glance upon him, their glances locked.

The girl bit back a cry and grew pale under her makeup. This old man—she recognized him. Ten years ago he had been closer to her than anyone else in the world. She had traveled far in those 10 years. One thing she could never alter. This old man was still her father.

He'd been more than that when she was young. Her mother died when she was a baby. He had often said, wistfully, that if Mary had lived things would have been different. Gloria had been impatient with such talk. Life, she claimed, was exactly what you make it yourself. And she was going to see to it that hers was a pretty fine affair.

Always, she had hated the plain surroundings of the home her father provided for her. From the time she was 15, she had had other ideas. Even then she realized that if a woman is beautiful enough, there will always be some man eager to take care of her.

Pop was stuffy. He had funny ideas about life and love. Old-fashioned ideas. He tried, in his groping way, to instill into his daughter some of his own ideals. And he was rewarded for his pains by a strange laugh that was half-sneer.

When she finished high school, Gloria decided not to go to work. She was plenty busy during the day getting ready for her evening dates. Pop worked nights. He was a watchman. That made things easier. If he didn't know what time she got in or whom she entertained while he was away, he'd have nothing to crab about.

But one night Pop came home about midnight. He had felt sick. When he unlocked the door of the apartment and snapped on the lights, he felt sicker still.

Pop tried to reason with Gloria that night. He tried to be kind. But Gloria wanted no advice and no kindness.

"It's just as well," she told him, "that you found out. Now you know you and me can't ever get along. I'm getting out—and you can like it or not!"

She didn't wait to pack her things. Clothes—she could always get them. She merely seized a very much frightened youth by the arm and bounced out.

Gloria could have smiled now at the recollection of that frightened boy. She'd come a long way since then. She couldn't remember his name now. After she left him, she met a man who had introduced her to someone in the show business.

She'd spent a few months in the chorus of a revue. Then she'd grown tired. It had been all so unnecessary. She was young. She was beautiful. Life was lavish with its gifts. Life—and men.

The first bloom of youth was a little rubbed off when Gloria married. She still had money. She still had her jewels. But she was a little afraid. She wanted security. And, possibly, the prospect of huge alimony.

Gloria married for one reason. A very good reason in her eyes. She married for money.

The gentleman? He was a little old, perhaps. He was wealthy. He saw in Gloria the things he had missed, the youth and gayety and glamour that his money hadn't brought him. He was very eager to marry her. Very grateful when she accepted. He displayed his gratitude with gifts of cars and diamonds.

Gloria, then, had an apartment on Park avenue. Charge accounts in all the fashionable stores. Service and love and wealth at her fingertips. Small wonder that shop girls and stenographers sighed with envy when they read about her in the newspapers.

She had forgotten Pop long ago. He had simply ceased to exist for her. Why, she asked herself, should she bother with him when their lives were so totally apart? Once, in a strange mood brought about by a roaring hangover, she had sent him a letter with a fifty-dollar bill in it. The letter had been returned with the word "Unknown" stamped across it.

She had never seen him since that night some ten years ago when he came home inopportunely. And now here he was. Looking, Gloria, thought, scornfully, like an old bum. She wasted no sympathy on the old man. She was thinking of but one person, and that one person was Gloria.

There was a party of people with her and her husband. Influential people. Fashionable people. When Gloria looked into the eyes of her father, she was seized with panic.

She hadn't prayed for 15 years. So perhaps you couldn't call it exactly a prayer, that plea she breathed that Pop wouldn't speak to her. If he did! If he started a hard luck tale and let these people know that she was his daughter.

She gnawed at her carefully-rouged lips. The painted tips of her fingernails bit into the palms of her hands. What to do? Ignore him? Pretend that he was drunk, crazy perhaps?

For a full minute she and Pop stared into each other's eyes. Neither moved. Neither spoke.

Then the old man turned away Gloria drew a long breath of relief. She smiled up at her husband and allowed herself to be handed gently into the luxurious car that was waiting for her.

Inside, she relaxed against the velvet cushions.

"Thank God," she murmured to herself, that the old fool had sense enough not to speak to me. I'd be ashamed to have anybody know that I had an old bum like that for a father."

The shuffling figure of the old man became lost in the shifting crowd. Now as he walked along his shoulders seemed to sag lower. His eyes seemed darker.

"Gloria!" he muttered bitterly. "Wouldn't speak to her old father, eh? Well, I'm glad. Because I certainly wouldn't want anybody to know that I had a woman like her for a daughter." . . .

POPE ADMIRER OF ROOSEVELT

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Pope Pius is a strong admirer of President Roosevelt, Bishop John M. Gannon, of Erie, Pa., said today after an audience of one hour with the Pontiff, in which they discussed ecclesiastical and secular affairs in the United States.

The bishop told the Pope that he was hopeful of conditions in the United States, that the most critical period seems to have passed, and that a great difference will be noticeable within a year. The Pope expressed himself as equally hopeful.

Means of alleviating unemployment and of helping the jobless were discussed by the Pontiff and his visitor.

VETERAN SEEKS JUDGESHIP

The soldier vote is going to have plenty of choice in voting for Juvenile Court judge in the September primary. Joseph A. Burns, a naval aviator during the war, and affiliated with numerous veteran organizations, has announced his candidacy, adding another veteran to the list of aspirants.

Mr. Burns

He is a member of South Side Post, 453, the Ex-Soldiers Voting League and the United American Veterans Association. He is a native of Allegheny County and a graduate of Duquesne University Law School. He taught in Duquesne University High School. In his announcement he said that a judge of the new court should blend humanity and justice with law.

Theodore L. Moritz, a former Duquesne University instructor, is another who has announced for Juvenile Court. In his platform he said:

"The welfare of the children in the custody of the court, whether they are there because of family misfortunes or their own delinquency, must be the first and only consideration of the court. Any judge who enters upon such an office under any obligation to a political organization cannot select his help with freedom and impartiality, but must of necessity be under obligation to the organization responsible for his election."

PROPOSE NEW CRAFTON BANK

A plan to organize a new bank in Crafton to take over a portion of the assets of the closed First National Bank of Crafton has been presented to the Comptroller of the Currency, and an answer is expected soon.

The institution would be known as the Crafton National Bank and would have $100,000 capital and $10,000 surplus. It would use the present quarters of the First National Bank, Noble and Crafton avenues.

According to Lewis P. Myers, heading a group of Crafton residents seeking the reorganization, it would be the aim to enlist new capital in the enterprise. Depositors of the old bank would also be asked to help, he said.

Chicago Man Slain By Machine Gunmen

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Police were admittedly puzzled as they sought a motive today for the murder of John Perillo, 26, cut down by a blast of machine gun fire last night as he sat in front of a neighborhood grocery.

Perillo was sitting on a bench with his father, Louis Perillo, and two other men when an automobile drove up and two men alighted. One opened fire with a machine gun.

Farmer Will View Bodies Believed Sons

BLUEFIELD, W. Va., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Grant Rose, Sandy Ridge (Va.) farmer, last night notified officers he would return to his home to aid them in efforts to ascertain whether two skeletons found in an isolated section of Dickenson County, Virginia, are those of his two sons.

Discovery of the skeletons, tentatively identified as Alvin Rose, 19, and Bennie Rose, 29, had prompted officers to express the opinion their father also might be dead.

IT'S SIMPLE AS A.B.C., Claudette Colbert
Water is Free!
..That's why "Salad Dressings" Cost ⅓ Less!

COMPARE YOUR FIGURE WITH CLAUDETTE COLBERT'S
Height, 5 ft. 5 in. Waist, 25½ in.
Weight, 107 lbs. Hips, 35½ in.
Bust, 32½ in. Calf, 13¼ in.

See Claudette Colbert in her latest Paramount Picture, "Torch Singer."

You, too, can retain a youthful, supple figure, by following the safe, sane Hellmann Slenderizing Plan. Simply eat two salads a day, covered with Hellmann's Mayonnaise, in place of heavy, fattening foods. Try it.

Slenderize with Salads!

. . . . The picture diagram at right below shows you that "Salad Dressings" contain 30% to 40% water—no wonder they cost less than a quality mayonnaise like Hellmann's!

Would you like to know, Miss Colbert, how they make these so-called "Salad Dressings"?

This is how they do it: First they take a little mayonnaise; then they add water right out of the tap—sometimes as much as 30% to 40%. Then they put in cereal "fillers" and cook the mixture to make it stick together.

Now do you wonder that "salad dressings" cost ⅓ less than a true mayonnaise like Hellmann's?

There's no substitute for it

If you can possibly afford it, buy Hellmann's Mayonnaise always. There is no substitute for its fine ingredients—the same ingredients you use in your own kitchen.

Naturally, no "salad dressing" can give you the same delicious flavor, velvet smoothness, and valuable health benefits.

But . . . if you feel that you cannot possibly afford this supremely fine mayonnaise . . . then by all means serve the new Hellmann Salad Dressing.

A far finer Salad Dressing

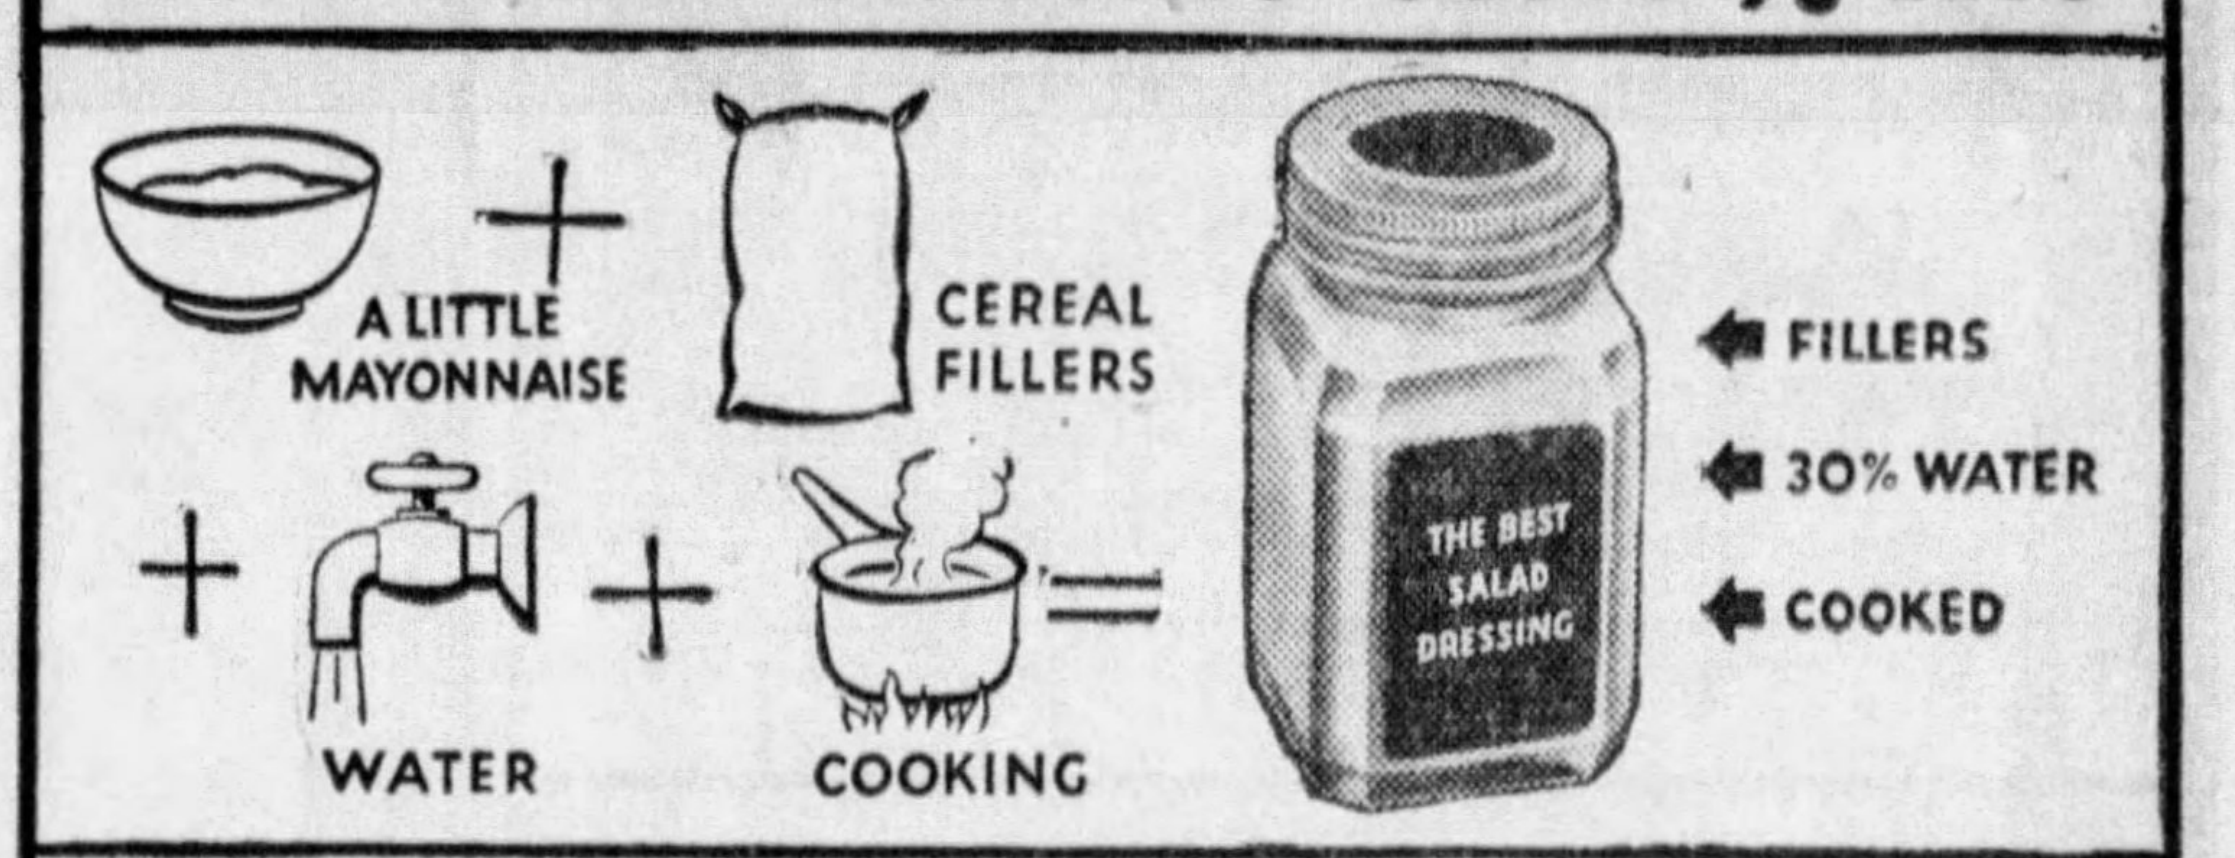
This is the finest and purest Salad Dressing that can be made. Women who have tried it say it is marvelously smooth in texture. Delicious in flavor.

Here, you can be sure, is one Salad Dressing that is offered to you honestly, that you can buy safely . . . the one Salad Dressing that is backed by the Hellmann name and reputation.

At all grocers. Never more than 10¢ for the half pint. Never more than 19¢ for the full pint.

WELCOME, FRED ALLEN! WHAT A NIGHT! Friday, August 4th, and every Friday thereafter, Fred Allen back on the air! Aided and abetted by Portland Hoffa, Tiny Ruffner, Ferde Grofe and his modern rhythm band. WEAF and associated N.B.C. stations, 9 o'clock, E. D. T.

WHY SALAD DRESSING COSTS ⅓ LESS



NO WATER IS ADDED TO REAL MAYONNAISE. Hellmann's Mayonnaise, you know, is made from eggs, fine salad oils, imported spices and selected vinegar—no water is added, no "fillers," no cooking. While even the finest salad dressing, as you see, contains inexpensive "fillers" and water (as much as 30% to 40%) to give added bulk so it can be sold for slightly less than real mayonnaise.

HELLMANN'S MAYONNAISE

Mr. Butkovic

A Croatian wedding, staged with full ceremony, will feature the day's outing. Twenty young American-born Croatians from Aliquippa will take the parts in the ceremony.

BROKEN BOTTLE KILLS BATHER

William Foyle, 38, of 603 Sandusky street, died yesterday from a wound in the abdomen that police were told was caused by the breaking of a bottle he carried in his bathing suit as he dived into the city swimming pool in the Allegheny River at the foot of Madison avenue.

James O'Toole, lifeguard at the pool, said the man was under the influence of liquor while swimming last night. He dived off a skiff and struck a float, breaking the bottle, O'Toole said. Foyle died in Allegheny General Hospital.

Judge Signs Order For Federal Jurors

Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, of the United States District Court, has signed an order empanelling 23 grand jurors and 125 petit jurors to serve at the Erie term of court, starting September 18. Judge Schoonmaker will sit in Erie at that time.

HERE'S HOW I LOST WEIGHT AND HOW I FOUND ENERGY
I ALMOST RUINED MY HEALTH THE FIRST TIME I TRIED DIETING. THE DOCTOR GAVE ME A TERRIFIC TALKING TO AND SOME OF THE SANEST ADVICE A WOMAN EVER HAD.
THE ONLY REASON I'M HERE WITH MY WIFE IS THAT SHE THINKS YOU'D LIKE TO HEAR WHAT WELCH'S DID FOR ME ... IN THE INTEREST OF YOUR HUSBAND'S HEALTH.
HE TOLD ME TO SUBSTITUTE WELCH'S PASTEURIZED GRAPE JUICE FOR HIGH CALORY FOODS AND TO DRINK A PINT A DAY.
A FEW MONTHS AGO I WAS TIRED, IRRITABLE, SO EASILY EXHAUSTED I COULD HARDLY GET THROUGH THE DAY'S ROUTINE
IT SEEMS THAT ITS SIMPLE GRAPE SUGARS ARE NOT STORED AS FAT. THEY'RE PREDIGESTED. SO THE BLOOD CAN USE THEM RIGHT AWAY FOR ENERGY.
I STARTED DRINKING WELCH'S GRAPE JUICE AND FOUND IMMEDIATE STRENGTH AND ENERGY.

COYNE CAMP WINS FIGHT FOR VOTE JUDGE JOB

POLITICS

Mayoralty Fight Brings Chairman Shifts

—By MARK SHIELDS—

Another shift in Republican ward chairmanships has been forced on the North Side because of the shifting affiliations caused by the present mayoralty primary within the more-or-less dominant party.

Mr. Shields.

This time the lightning strikes in the Twenty-sixth, where State Representative Edward M. Hough has been chairman. Mr. Hough is to be a candidate for nomination to City Council, and intends to run on the ticket with Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, opposing Mayor John S. Herron and Councilman P. J. McArdle. Mr. Hough went into the Mayor's office and told him of the decision, which previously had been reported in the newspapers with authoritative background.

* * *

Second North Side Ward In Change

This, of course, meant that Mr. Hough could no longer be considered as ward chairman by the "regular" Republicans, headed by Mr. Herron, Senator James J. Coyne and Councilman William A. Soost, who is Republican city chairman. So Mr. Hough is not to be recognized, and residents of the Twenty-sixth Ward who want their affairs given sympathetic attention by the city administration should take their troubles or their prayers to William H. Robertson.

Mr. Robertson is a former member of City Council and now is a city assessor.

This is the second North Side ward where a recent change has been made. Samuel J. Grenet has been chairman of the Twenty-seventh, but he also is for Mackrell, and now administration affairs in that ward are being directed by former Magistrate George England, who is the last word on jobs and other things.

* * *

Herron Fixing Up His Cabinet Early

Mayor Herron appears to be fixing up his cabinet in plenty of time. The other day he said that Safety Director Harmar D. Denny would be reappointed if the present administration held office.

Yesterday the Mayor announced that City Treasurer H. Raymond Hilliard could remain in that office as long as he wanted to, should the Mayor be nominated and elected. This was another statement designed to set at rest rumors that the Mayor had been doing some window dressing when he named Mr. Hilliard to replace the veteran R. W. Thompson, who returned to his post of assistant treasurer, from which he had been elevated when Roy D. Schooley was removed.

Mr. Hilliard is no politician. At the "town meeting" he recognized practically none of the boys and girls who have been about in practical political affairs for some years. But it is a fact that Mr. Hilliard appears to know something about his job.

Pressed for specific statements as to other cabinet places, the Mayor turned questioners aside with the remark that one announcement was sufficient for one day. Parenthetically, there might have been real politics in the answers to some of the questions.

Mackrell, McArdle May Slate But 4 for Council

It may be that both Councilman McArdle and Register of Wills Mackrell will slate only four candidates for City Council, leaving the fifth notch open for "business" purposes. This fifth place could be used in various sections for the attraction of friends of candidates who have their names on the ballot, but are not on the ticket with either McArdle, Herron or Mackrell.

Citizens' League headquarters, supporting McArdle, is reported to be leaning toward Bob Waddell, former coach of the Carnegie Tech football team; Howard McNutt of the Thirtieth Ward, former burgess of Carrick, and Charles Wolff, North Side grocer, for three places. Edward Young, North Side banker, also is under consideration.

* * *

Cochrane May Be On Both Tickets

Hugh McKnight, North Side hardware merchant, appears to have fallen into the Mackrell camp, along with Representative Hough, Tom Ashford and Louis Weschler.

Robert Cochrane, candidate for Sheriff, has been invited by some Citizen Leaguers to put his name on that ticket. Whether they had authority to speak is not determined. It was requested that he come out for McArdle, but he is in the Mackrell camp, and will be on that ticket. It is possible that Cochrane will be on both tickets, despite his determination to aid Mackrell.

The Herron campaign will kick off in a big way August 17, two days after the last date for filing, with a meeting in Carnegie Library, North Side. A big demonstration will be sought. The organization hopes such a demonstration might persuade some candidates to withdraw the following Tuesday, the last day for voluntary eliminations.

Mark Shields will resume his weekly political reviews over WCAE Saturday at 8 p. m.

Burgess to Postmaster

WILLIAM M. TURNER . . . GETTING "A PLEASANT REWARD"

Wilkinsburg's Burgess pictured in his flower store where he heard yesterday the news that Joseph F. Guffey had recommended to Postmaster General James A. Farley in Washington his appointment as postmaster of Pittsburgh. A life-long Democrat in a Republican stronghold, he was a member of Wilkinsburg Council 16 years before his election as Burgess. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

FLIES TO GOAL UPSIDE-DOWN

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Milo Burcham, Long Beach, Cal., aviator today held a new world's record for upside down flight.

With his head pointed earthward and his plane's landing gear skyward Burcham flew here from San Diego in one hour, 46 minutes, 59 seconds.

The previous record was held by Lieut. Tito Falconi, of Italy, now in Los Angeles, who flew upside down at Torento, Italy, for one hour and seven minutes.

Lieut. Falconi was to attempt later today to break Burcham's record, in a projected flight from Los Angeles to San Diego, then to Ventura, Cal., 65 miles north of here, and back to Los Angeles.

MEANS SPURNS PAPALE JOB

William A. Means, of the Twelfth Ward, said today that he didn't want the police magistracy left vacant when Mayor Herron fired Charles A. Papale.

Mayor Herron is reported to be still urging him to accept.

In declining, Means former alderman and former ward chairman, explained:

"My family doesn't care to have me take it. There is a good bit of trouble and grief connected with it. And I have all I can do now with my business. I was asked about a week ago by some of the leaders of the organization if I would accept. I declined. While Mr. Herron and I are good friends I don't know whether he wants me or not."

HERRON'S WARD INVADED BY M'ARDLE

Raps Aggrandizement Of Political Machines

Councilman P. J. McArdle went into Mayor John S. Herron's home ward last night to declare that "we shall expect to be opposed by others who think government a mere agency by which a group of people shall serve its own interests."

McArdle said government should be an agency for the welfare of the people and not for the aggrandizement of a few, and pledged that as his creed should he be elected Mayor of Pittsburgh.

McArdle spoke in Homewood Carnegie Library at a meeting under the auspices of the Citizens' League. McArdle did not name Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell, a third mayoralty candidate, in whose behalf recent meetings have been held in the ward, causing confusion as to the position of Citizens' League members.

STRESSES EXPERIENCE

The league last night identified itself directly with McArdle, who stressed his experience in City Council as a proper schooling for the mayoralty.

C. V. Shoup, of West View, organizer for the League, attacked "misrepresentations' designed to discount the work of the League in the Thirteenth ward.

County Controller Robert G. Woodside, campaign manager for Mackrell, issued a statement from Roosevelt Hotel headquarters asking support for the Register of Wills. Woodside mentioned none of the other candidates, but said the people demand "the total obliteration of the Coyne type of governmental operation." He continued:

"It is needless to say that the people demand a change in the present management of their city and an end to political despotism and misrule in this great industrial center.

"The Progressive Republican Committee of Allegheny County, of which I have the honor to be chairman, has been formed for the purpose of bringing about that change."

PRAISES MACKRELL

"For the office of Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh we present Joseph N. Mackrell, a native Pittsburgher, a member of the Allegheny County Bar, a lifelong student of public affairs, thoroughly conversant and sympathetic with the needs of the people and a man whose past achievements in places of public trust make certain an efficient and capable administration of the affairs of the City of Pittsburgh.

"This committee will gladly lead the way and urges every civic-minded patriotic citizen, regardless of color, creed or nationality, to join in our crusade to rid the Republican party of the barnacles of corruption which have made our city a byword throughout the nation; and to serve notice on the predatory business interests that they can no longer dominate the party for their own selfish purposes."

'Taken for a Ride' and Robbed

MARGARET DOERN — MILDRED DORSEY

Two North Side women as they testified in police court today that Russell Gamble, 26, of 409 Linial avenue, took them in his automobile to a lonely road in the South Hills, drew a gun and robbed them. Gamble, who said he thought it would be "easy money," was held while police investigate similar complaints made by other women. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

2 GIRLS ROBBED ON JOY RIDES

Two young women in North Side Police Court today accused Russell Gamble, 26, of 409 Linial avenue, of taking them on automobile rides and robbing them at the point of a gun.

After Gamble admitted the robberies, he was held while police investigate similar complaints made by other women.

Margaret Doern, 706 West North avenue, told Magistrate Raymond E. Schneider that Gamble invited her into his machine. She accepted and was driven to the South Hills district, she said. In a lonely road, he drew a gun and demanded money, she testified.

The girl testified she was robbed of $10.

Similar testimony was given by Mildred Dorsey, 816 Sandusky street. She said Gamble robbed her of $6.

Gamble said he thought it would be "easy money," but denied he had invited the women into his car. He said both had hailed him.

The youth was identified as a brother of Mrs. Hazel Mazza, 409 Cadet street, Mt. Lebanon, who asked Morals Court Magistrate Thomas D. Jones to send her to a reformatory for stealing a brief case. She changed her mind later and was turned over to social workers.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Aug. 11.
To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Will Rogers

Everybody knows Mr. Roosevelt don't want any armed trouble with Cuba or anybody else, but when you start telling somebody what "they must do," why, you got to back it up with something. You can't tell the bully to quit picking on the boy, unless you are prepared to do something to him in case he don't quit picking on him.

Trouble is we never did set Cuba plum free. We kept a clause in the contract where we were to remain the guardian, take the sugar out of Cuba, and the sugar out of the Philippines, and our altruistic feelings would kinder cool off.

Yours, WILL.

2 Killed in Crash Of Bus and Auto

PLYMOUTH, Ind., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—A man and a woman were fatally injured and several other persons were cut and bruised when a bus collided with an automobile near here early today. William Motter, of Lima, O., driver of the automobile, and Mrs. Thomas Poland, of Sidney, Ind., were the persons killed.

MILITIA CAMPS SWEPT BY GALE

Associated Press.

A pair of tornadoes dipped down in Delaware and Maryland early today, causing a heavy property damage.

National Guardsmen of the two states, encamped at widely separated points, appeared to be the heaviest losers.

At Bethany Beach, Del., a twister that looked like a "spiral full of water," swept in from the sea and leveled every tent of the Delaware Guard encampment there.

Many of the 800 men were injured, and property damage was described as being "very great."

At Cascade, Md., where the Maryland Guard was encamped, heavy rain and high winds put an end to the mimic war and did some damage to the tents. None was reported injured.

The Maryland wind struck with full force near Lewiston, cutting a path about 75 feet wide as it swept across the outskirts of the village. Outbuildings were flattened, trees uprooted and one woman was injured when she was hurled against a building.

In both states, streams left their banks as a result of near cloudbursts that followed the high winds.

Judge Smith Speaks Before Club Tonight

Judge Ralph H. Smith, candidate for Common Pleas Court, will speak tonight before the Health Club in the William Penn Hotel, and later attend a reception arranged for him and Judge Frank Piekarski by the American Legion Post of Natrona.

Mrs. Walter McFarland has resigned as chairman of the woman's division of the Smith campaign to be vice chairman of the Progressive Republican Committee, supporting Register of Wills Joseph N. Mackrell for Mayor.

McNair Will Speak In Fourteenth Ward

Attorney William N. McNair, Democratic mayoralty candidate, will speak before the Fourteenth Ward Democratic Club Saturday night in the auditorium of the Forbes street branch of the Peoples-Pittsburgh Trust Company, 5810 Forbes street.

Harry Eichenrauch, Jr., president of the club, Representative John J. Kane and others will be additional speakers.

Henry, Ralston Arrange Debate

BEAVER FALLS, Aug. 11.—Attorney John M. Henry, independent Democratic candidate for Mayor of Pittsburgh, and Cameron Ralston, dry orator, will debate in Carnegie Library hall here tonight. Their subject will be "Resolved, That the Eighteenth Amendment Should Be Repealed." Attorney Henry is to support the affirmative. Ralston debates under the auspices of the National Reform Association.

SENATOR'S AIDE GETS POST OF TOM DOLAN

Independents Protest, Citing U. S. Probe Of Vote Frauds

The forces of State Senator James J. Coyne were victorious in court today over Independent Republicans of Coyne's home ward, the Fourth, in appointment of a judge of election in the Eighth District.

Judge John P. Egan named Clement M. Buerkle, described as a contractor, to succeed Tom Dolan, one of the "Three Toms" indicted in the Monaca Club liquor-gambling case prosecution.

The Independents, represented by Attorney J. Garfield Houston, had sought to have Maitland A. Wilson named.

Houston cited the recent federal grand jury indictment of Coyne and many of his followers in urging appointment of an anti-Coyne judge of election.

Other appointments made by Judges Egan and Elder W. Marshall were:

Judge, Twelfth District, Fourth Ward, William N. Weaver; judge, Fifth District, Fifteenth Ward, William G. Redding; minority inspector, same district, William E. Ruble.

Judge of election, Eighth Ward, Munhall, William Muir; judge, Seventh District, Twenty-ninth Ward, Edna Bragdon; minority inspector, Fifth District, Twenty-fourth Ward, Walter Ammon; judge, Third Ward, Baldwin Township, Magdalena Rawlands; judge, Seventh District, Twenty-first Ward, Millard Fraumann; majority inspector, same district, Andrew Frank.

ASSESSORS FIND 'PHANTOMS'

A new method of attempting to add phantoms to the city voting list was reported today by Leo A. Riordan, chief county investigator.

Riordan said two assessors informed him they found "phony" affidavits among those they are taking from persons who have not been assessed, but who wish to vote this fall. He said the irregularities were found by J. W. Apple, special assessor in the Eleventh Ward, and Albert Carelli, assessor in the Fourth Ward.

Both assessors reported they found bundles of affidavits they had not signed when they checked up at the end of their day's work. They could not account for the manner in which the "phony" papers got among the legitimate affidavits.

Coraopolis Woman Mother's Aid Trustee

Mrs. Hilda Gundelfinger Henrici, of Coraopolis, today had been named as a trustee of the Mothers' Assistance Fund by Gov. Pinchot. Mrs. Henrici succeeds Mrs. Katherine McC. Miller, resigned.

Billion In Trade Just for a Nod Toward Moscow

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 11.—Hear that Russia will spend a billion dollars in America if we recognize 'em.

A billion dollars ain't hay. We could use it to buy wolf traps for the vestibule.

All it requires is a slight inclination of the head and two fingers on the hat. If our diplomats can nod in Paris, Geneva and London, they can spare a nod for Moscow.

However, we don't understand international courtesy and goodwill. All we know is that the combination starts fights.

But we do know that the corner grocer does not quarrel with the new family in the neighborhood.

He figures them as potential customers and stays up all night putting the big strawberries on the top of the basket.

There should be no trouble about the introduction to the Soviets. That has already been managed by the owner of a Brooklyn brewery.

BETTY M'NAIR, 9, INDORSES DADDY M'NAIR FOR MAYOR

Says He'll Win, Too, As She Campaigns With Voice, Pen

Pittsburgh's next Mayor will be William N. McNair, if you take the word of his 9-year-old daughter.

Betty McNair—who is somewhat of an authority on politics and considerable of an authority on her father—has high hopes of her daddy's mayoralty victory. His political status came to light today.

It seems Betty's father hadn't any posters out, so with her little playmate, Betty cut out cards, printed them, and unknown to her father began placing them under neighbors' doors.

Blonde Betty, who lives at 1212 North Sheridan avenue, predicts her daddy's victory in these words:

"He'll win because he's honest. And he's always been a Democrat—just like me."

One of the 100 or more crudely drawn posters that she and her friend, Louise Flood, 9, of 1213 North Sheridan avenue, have distributed in the North Highland district reads:

"For Mayor McNair Raw Raw."

Assisting the pair at drawing the posters are Dorothy Fleming, 10, of 1228 North Sheridan avenue, (who says she has some Republican blood in her veins) and Helen McNair, 14, Betty's older sister.

For her years Betty has a most vivid picture of politics. She even went so far as to warn against election day cheating, saying:

"Daddy has to watch that the politicians don't cheat. I know too much about politics—it's terribly crooked."

SEEK SANBORN CLUE IN SAFE

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—A second safe deposit box of Henry F. Sanborn, slain railway executive, was to be searched today in an effort to discover a clue as to the motive for the murder.

Sanborn, whose body, shot twice through the back, was found last Saturday in a shallow grave on Long Island, was at first believed to own only one deposit box but police said they had discovered another.

A missing traveling bag of the slain man, which he was believed to have lost or checked shortly before he disappeared on July 17, also was sought.

Bancroft Mitchell, son of William D. Mitchell, former Attorney General of the United States, will not be asked to curtail his vacation in Italy, authorities said today.

Mitchell, a friend and business associate of Sanborn, will be questioned by police on return here in September, they said.

Ex-Speedway Racer Fined in Attack

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Arthur Chevrolet, 49, former Indianapolis Motor Speedway race driver, was fined $5 and costs for allegedly attacking a man and a woman with a piece of wire during a dispute over a collision of automobiles here.

FRESH AIR FARM SEEKING PONY

Pet for Children Lacking; Mascot Replaced

A new pony, to replace the third of familiar figures claimed by death this spring at the Fresh Air Home of the Improvement of the Poor, is being sought by the association.

A new groundkeeper has been obtained to fulfill the duties of 80-year-old Uncle Carl, friend and story-teller to thousands of underprivileged children at the farm for a quarter of a century. He died in May.

More than a month ago, Felicity, 10, dog mascot of the camp, followed in death the pony, Beauty, on whose back he used to ride in the performance of his varied category of tricks. Felicity has been replaced, but no successor has been found for Beauty, who was more than 20 years old.

Ellsworth Awaits Arrival of Plane

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Lincoln Ellsworth, American aviator and explorer, arrived here today to await the arrival of a vessel bringing an airplane and equipment for an Antarctic exploratory flight expedition, of which Ellsworth, Sir Hubert Wilkins and Bernt Balchen are the leaders.

Plans call for the departure of the expedition from New Zealand in November.

POLICE 'KIDNAP' HELEN MORGAN

GLENS FALLS, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(Universal.)—Was Helen Morgan's face red!

When a couple of men in a big touring car overtook the torch singer's speeding car on Ridge road and seized her chauffeur, Miss Morgan stirred up the countryside with cries of:

"Help! Kidnapers!"

Miss Morgan at once enlisted the aid of police and state troopers at Glens Falls to search for her abducted driver.

Police investigated and found that the chauffeur, Wagner Westman, had been taken for a ride—to court, to answer to a charge of speeding.

Miss Morgan was returning from the Piping Rock Club at Saratoga Springs with her husband, Maurice Maschke, and Joseph McCarthy, of Cleveland, when the "kidnapers" overtook her car.

The "kidnapers" turned out to be Constables Henry Howard and Leon Keech, of Queensbury.

Dr. J. Vincent Sanvite, a dentist, of 800 Broadway, Stowe Township, was appointed controller of Stowe Township by Judge John P. Egan today on petition of the township commissioners. He will serve until January 1.

PROUD OF THREE PRIZE BABIES

Mrs. C. J. Miller, of 2318 Fairland street, Overbrook, has a right to be proud of her nine children, but especially of her "babies,"—Princess, 4, Duchess, 3, and Jack, 8.

All three hold silver cups, won in several competitions for the healthiest and prettiest babies, some of them awarded by the Sun-Telegraph in a baby contest two years ago.

Only recently, Princess, her third youngest child, won her third award at the Overbrook street fair held by the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Doctors and dentists, after a careful examination, judged her to be the healthiest 4-year-old.

It was in this same competition that 9-month-old Norman Thomas Hueston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Hueston, of 2336 Fairland street, Overbrook, took first place in the baby class.

Mrs. Miller attributes her children's good health and at least part of their good looks to "the simple life." She feeds them plain well-cooked food, she says, and she sees to it that they get plenty of sleep.

And she doesn't fuss at them, she explains—since she has nine children, she just doesn't have time—one of the advantages, she points out, of having a large family.

OLSON PLEDGES CONVICT AID

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(INS)—Gov. Floyd B. Olson, of Minnesota, was en route to his home state today, with an added duty—that of obtaining justice for Charles Harris, awaiting the death penalty for the killing of a capital gambler, Milton Henry.

Eighteen years ago Olson, while prosecuting attorney in Hennepin County, succeeded in convicting Harris for a bank robbery. He was sent to prison for 20 years. After three years Olson became convinced he had convicted the wrong man and obtained a suspended sentence.

Yesterday while the Governor hurried to visit Federal officials Harris' wife found him and pleaded her husband again was the victim of mistaken identity. He visited the district prison, and promised to obtain justice for the man he has not seen since obtaining his release from the Minnesota State Prison.

Confer Eagle Scout Rank on Boy, 14

The rank of eagle scout will be conferred on Paul Gibson, 14, one of the youngest scouts of the district to receive the honor, at Camp Umbstatter, below Sewickley, this afternoon. Paul, who lives at 1809 Fallowfield street, is the first member of Troop 207, of St. Catherine's Church, to enter the highest scout rank.

DRUGGIST HELD IN NUMBER CASE

Harry Hobson, 42, Negro druggist, of Twelfth street, McKeesport, whose arrest was ordered by Judge Elder W. Marshall, waived hearing for court late yesterday before Alderman Thomas A. Flanigan on a charge of operating a lottery.

Judge Marshall delayed sentencing Grover Robinson, McKeesport Negro, admitted lottery man, and ordered the arrest of Hobson for whom Robinson said he worked. Robinson pleaded guilty to conducting a lottery after Barbara Sykes, of 805 Market street, testified she had bought a numbebr which "hit", but couldn't collect.

TELL IT TO ELSIE -:- -.- Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day -:- -:- By ELSIE ROBINSON

Has Mamma the Right to Rule Daughter's Life?

Has mamma no rights in her daughter's life?

That's the question "A Mother" is putting up to this department today. She is asking it because not long ago we told a little girl, whose folks were horrified because she'd fallen in love with a poor man instead of a millionaire, that choosing a husband was a girl's own business.

"A Mother" is willing to concede that, that may be true, providing said Choice is a One Hundred Per Cent American. But the trouble is, her Little Girl's Choice isn't. And so—

Dear Elsie:

When you say, as you did in a recent article, that a mother shouldn't try to pick her daughter's husband, I take it for granted that you mean, if he is of the girl's own race, type, etc.

When a girl is attracted by a man of a type or race different from her own, hasn't her mother a right to object? Or have mothers no rights, after their daughters reach the wise and all-knowing age of 19?

ASSURED OF HAPPINESS

My girl is interested in such a man. Her father and brother object to him just as much as I do, but that doesn't seem to matter to her at all. If she can't bring him to the house, she meets him outside.

God knows I've done everything for her, ever since she was born, and to ask her to marry a man we could all make one of the family, instead of a foreigner, seems to me to be asking little in return.

He has his family, and is assured of his future happiness; but he doesn't take into consideration, or doesn't care about, her future happiness. I am sure that he knows her family never wants to see either of them if they marry.

He is about 10 years her senior. He tells her she is the only girl he has ever really loved, and he showers her with attentions, which, of course, all such foreigners have to do to win an American girl.

Do you honestly believe that a girl should throw aside her family's happiness, and possibly her own, for such a man? I can't believe you do.

A MOTHER.

Do I believe that a girl should "throw aside her family's future happiness" for the sake of "such a man?"

Well lady, let me ask you one. How about the sense and kindness of the family "throwing aside" its own happiness—and the girl's—because of stiff-necked prejudice? Sounds to me as if that were exactly what you're doing.

This man is a little different from yourselves. But you've nothing against his character. He simply happens not to be American born, although he belongs to a race honored by all the world. But, instead of trying to know him, or fit him into your lives, you're planning to throw out the daughter you claim to love because she won't give him up.

QUIT BEING SNOOTY

Of course you have told me nothing about him, personally, except that he isn't American, so I can't say what her chances of happiness with him are or are not. But I can tell you this much:

If she marries him and does come to grief, the chances are it'll be because of your interfering and your refusal to accept him, and not because there is anything wrong with him.

So stop being snooty. Give the young folks a break. Broaden your own ideas—and you may be surprised and pleased by the result. You may even learn something about Old World tolerance and courtesy. Americans are fine people, but they haven't any monopoly on noble character or regular living.

Given in Marriage -:- A Sequel to Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Edith Arrives and Demands Aid From Madge

Lillian laughed teasingly at the panic in my voice as I asked her what we should do if Edith Fairfax and Philip Veritzen reached our apartment at the same time. From what Dicky had said we knew that Edith would arrive in a highly perturbed condition, because of some mysterious happening which he had not seen fit to divulge, while we were certain that perturbation would be far too mild a word for Philip Veritzen's state of mind, once he should learn that I had given Mary and Noel permission to marry.

"We might sick 'em on to each other and barricade ourselves behind the furniture," she said, with the air of one settling a customs barrier dispute. "But, seriously, old dear, I don't know."

"One thing is certain," I said. "Neither of them will air a grievance before the other."

"Yes, they're terribly hipped on the correct behavior thing, unless they're very much at home with the people to whom they're talking," she agreed.

"Have you any idea why she should want to see me?" I queried.

EDITH ARRIVES

She looked at me queerly.

"Yes, I have," she said, "but it's' so fantastic an idea that I surely don't want to spring it on you. There'd be perfect justification in you sending for an alienist, also a straitjacket. And I probably am a thousand miles off the track. Better wait until she comes—if she comes—and find out what really is eating her."

"There she is now!" I said feverishly, as the house telephone buzzed.

"It's Ede, all right," she whispered, laying down the phone so that her voice should not be heard by the operator. "What do you want me to say?"

I made a swift decision.

"If she comes up, will you go down in the lobby for Phil, and keep him waiting there until Edith goes away?" I asked. "You can telephone up to me that he is here."

"Oke," she nodded, then spoke into the telephone.

"Send Miss Fairfax up right away, please."

On the last word, she hurriedly replaced the telephone and came over to me.

"I'll keep Phil flagged," she said. "Will tell him that Miss Fairfax is terribly nervous over something that has happened in her family—something that I don't know about; and came to see you since you telephoned him. I'll tell him bedtime stories and smooth his fevered brow without a hint of your real reason for calling him over here. If my hand has not lost its cunning, he'll be sweet and mild when I finally bring him upstairs."

"But what he'll be when he goes down that elevator again!" I sighed apprehensively.

ASKS FOR MADGE

"Remember that silly old adage about crossing bridges ahead of time?" she said. "You've got a regular railroad trestle ahead of you. I'm afraid, with the lady now on her way upstairs. Don't give a thought to the Veritzen structure until you have to. There's Ede now," as a knock sounded. "Shall I go to the door?"

"Please." I tried vainly to keep my pulses from pounding.

"Is Madge here?" Edith demanded as Lillian opened the door. Her voice, usually the soft, trained one of a Virginia gentlewoman, was raucous with badly-repressed emotion.

"Yes, but she can't come to the door on account of her ankle," Lillian said, with a hint of reproof in her voice.

But my infirmity, or that of anyone else, was nothing to the excited woman in the doorway.

"Madge!" she exclaimed, passing Lillian and rushing over to my couch. "You've got to help me with Dicky. He's gone out of his mind, I think. Do you know anything about a girl named 'Floss'?"

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Engagement Party

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—My girl friend has recently become engaged and is planning to have an engagement party for herself. Is it proper or necessary to give her a gift?

2—I am having my engagement announced shortly at a dinner party. What is the correct thing for my father to say when he makes the announcement?

ADMIRER.

1—It is proper, but not necessary, to give engagement gifts. That is, we give them if we wish to, but usually only the relatives and close friends of the bride-to-be give engagement gifts. It is customarily the wedding present that gets the accent in the budget. However, at this kind of party, given by the bride-to-be herself, perhaps you would like to take some personal gift to commemorate the occasion.

2—Your father might say something like this: "Here's to our Mary and to her John," or, "Here's to the happiness of two people whom we love . . . Mary and John."

Using the Title

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

The other day in your column you said that when a man introduces himself to a group of strangers he should say, "I am Mr. Smith" . . . that the title should be used. Does this same rule hold good with regard to professions?

M.

Yes. A doctor, for instance, would introduce himself to a group of strangers as "I am Doctor Robinson."

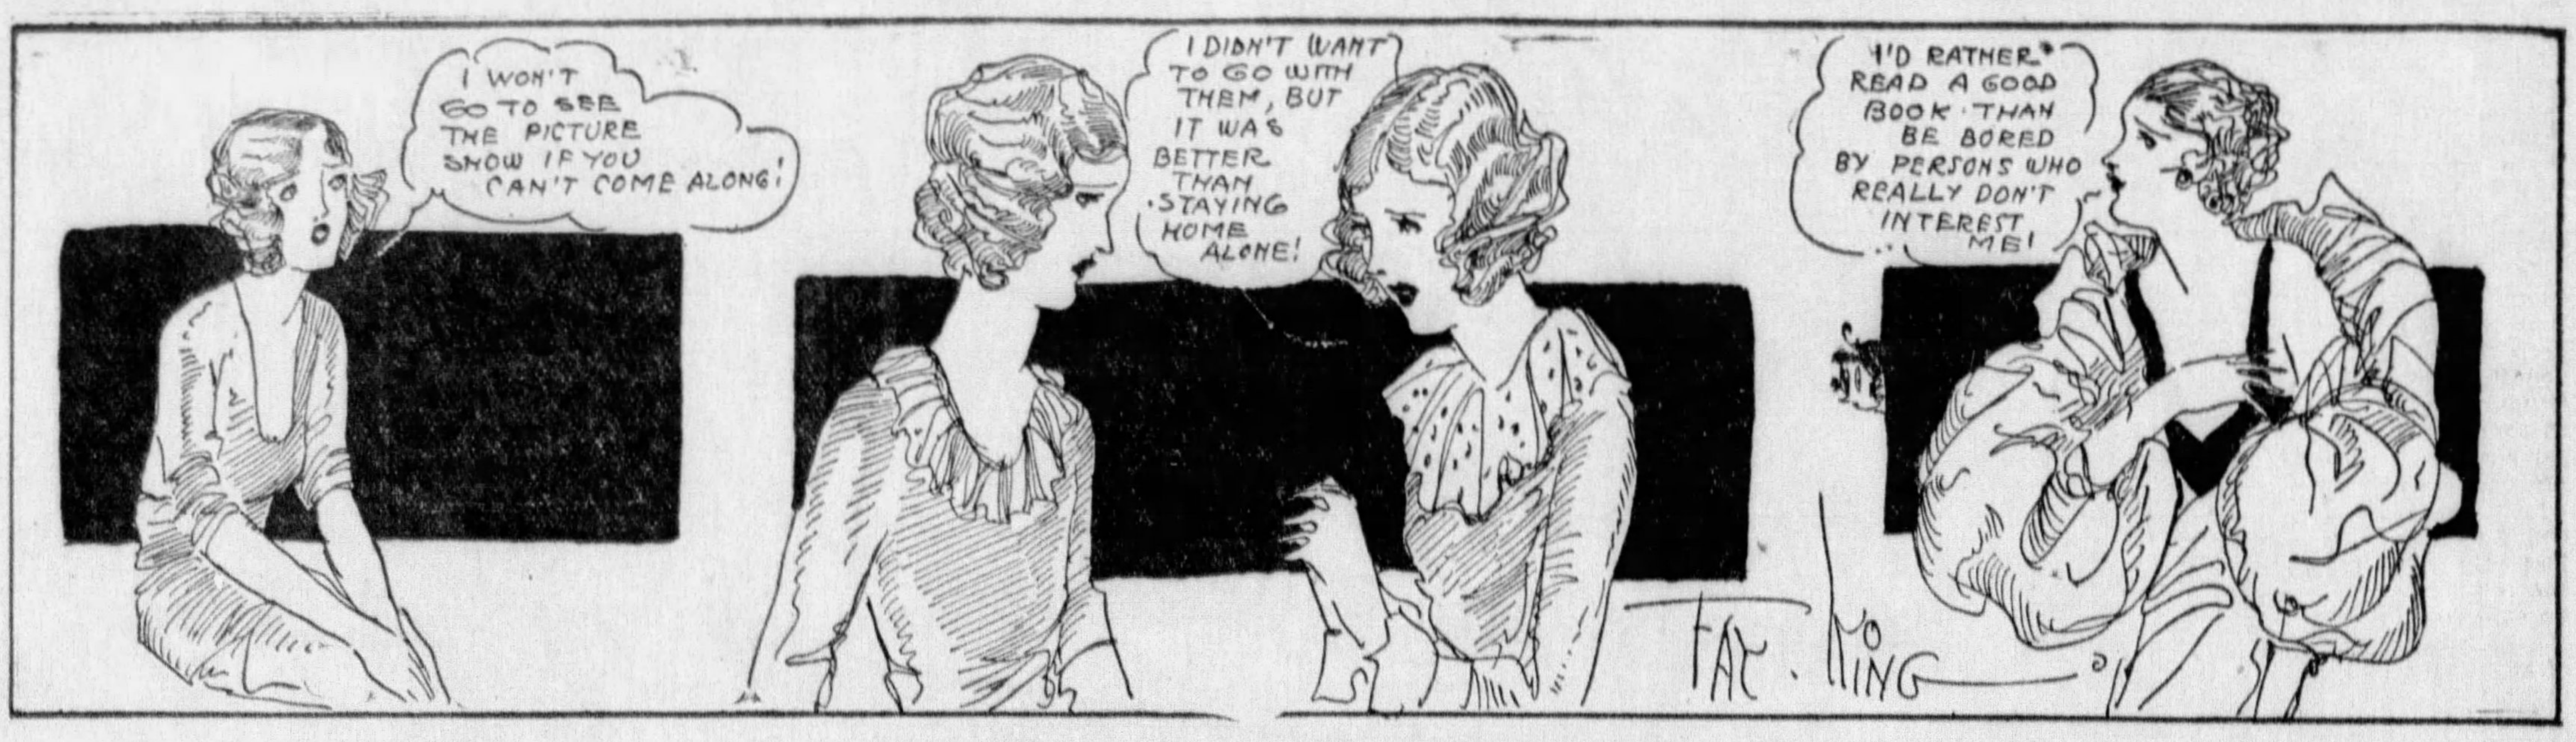
Household Hints

Iodine stains can be removed from most materials by soaking all night in cold water.

Curtains which are difficult to hang after washing should be pinned into their folds at the bottom with drawing-pins. Remove the pins after a day and the curtains will hang evenly.

Unless window draperies hang very even and straight much of their beauty is lost. If they seem a bit uneven to you, place tiny dress weights in the hems. It will straighten them right out for you with very little trouble.

Learn to Endure and Enjoy Solitude, Fay King Advises



I WON'T GO TO SEE THE PICTURE SHOW IF YOU CAN'T COME ALONG!
I DIDN'T WANT TO GO WITH THEM, BUT IT WAS BETTER THAN STAYING HOME ALONE!
I'D RATHER READ A GOOD BOOK THAN BE BORED BY PERSONS WHO REALLY DON'T INTEREST ME!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

No one should become a hermit or a recluse, but everyone should learn to be content alone. To enjoy an evening alone. A meal alone. A walk alone. Or to go to a picture show alone.

There is no freedom or peace of mind for those who are entirely dependent upon the companionship of others in everything they do.

Some natures are more inclined to sociability, and others have a preference for solitude at times. But there is a real danger in joining any kind of company because you "just cannot bear to be alone."

Many a girl has found herself quite innocently involved in some unpleasant escapade because an evening alone would have been intolerable.

Discipline yourself to be more self-reliant.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Gout Is Often Mistaken for Rheumatism or Arthritis

Dr. Copeland

Neglect of physical complaints too often leads to serious and chronic disorders. We should be better trained so that we might recognize the early symptoms of disease. Then if we were to heed the early signs of physical defects, the number of chronic disorders would be greatly decreased. In consequence, much unnecessary suffering would be avoided.

Each of us should be able to recognize the early signs of disease. Of course, I do not mean that everyone must be a trained physician. But you should not disregard the pain warnings. When, for example, you are afflicted with inflamed joints, painful joints, or other joint symptoms, make every effort to determine the cause. Do not use home remedies; seek medical advice to locate the reasons for your trouble and give yourself the benefit of expert prescribing.

There is a tendency to accept joint pain as something commonplace and unimportant. Too often the condition is incorrectly diagnosed by the sufferer as rheumatism or arthritis. Sometimes irritating salves and patent medicines are applied for relief of the pain. Because temporary relief is obtained, no effort is made to determine accurately what the ailment really is and to remove its cause.

Gout is a disease that may be mistaken for arthritis, rheumatism or neuralgia. Though it is not as common as in former years, it is more prevalent than many believe.

It is caused by an excessive amount of uric acid in the system. The disease is more common in men than in women and is usually encountered between the age of 30 and 40.

The victim of this disorder may suddenly awaken in the middle of the night. He finds himself with severe pain in a joint, usually the big toe. The part becomes red, swollen, hot and painful. Fever may be present and headache, thirst and indigestion are the symptoms.

In former years when little was known about diet and the chemistry of food, little relief was afforded these sufferers. With our present knowledge, the treatment of gout is more successful.

The diet is restricted and all food substances which develop uric acid are avoided. The uric acid and "purine" foods are not permitted. Meats, meat extractives, meat soups, sweetbreads, liver, kidneys and brains are foods rich in purines and these must be omitted from the diet of the patient having gout.

Proper hygiene of the body and temperance in eating and drinking are essential for a prompt and complete recovery. Overeating is quite as harmful as the eating of foods that lead to uric acid formation. Alcoholic beverages, tea and coffee are detrimental to the sufferer from gout and must be avoided.

Contract Bridge -:- HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Forcing Principle

Forcing bids in Contract are an essential corollary of the Approach principle. These bids are simply Approach bids made Forcing. The principle underlying them is a necessary extension of that which underlies Approach bids—that is, if one is to approach, one must be sure that the bidding will not die before a satisfactory final contract is reached.

In the Culbertson System there are eight Forcing situations in which the partner must keep the bidding open without condition. Some of these are situations which force partner to continue the bidding until a game contract is reached. Others are post-game Forcing bids, which require the partner to continue the bidding for at least one more round so that the possibilities of a Slam may be explored.

Probably the most spectacular of all Forcing bids is the Opening bid of two in a suit. This bid discloses great honor strength in the hand of its maker—enough honor strength to indicate a probable game and possible Slam. With such concentrated honor strength it is the height of unwisdom to immediately contract for game without at first learning something about partner's distribution and honor strength, as it may well be that a game is available at one declaration while impossible at another. A Forcing bid of two in a suit makes certain this information.

The second, and most frequently used, of the Forcing bids is a Jump Takeout of one more than necessary in a new suit by the Responding Hand after the bidding has been opened by his side.

The third Forcing situation occurs when, after opening with a bid of one in a suit, to which partner has responded, the Opening Hand makes a Jump Rebid in a new suit.

The fourth Forcing situation occurs when any player makes an Immediate Overcall in a suit previously bid by an adversary. The Immediate Overcall, while primarily a strong defensive counter-attacking weapon, is available to either side. When the bidding has been opened by the side making the Overcall in the opponents' bid suit, it carries with it not only the suggestion of game, but the strong hint of a probable Slam. The Immediate Overcall in opponents' bid suit usually shows control of the first round of the suit—that is, it shows that the bidder has either the Ace or a void. Occasionally, however, this bid can well be made when holding a singleton or, less frequently, a doubleton in the suit adversely bid. All four of the bids mentioned thus far are forcing to game, or until a satisfactory penalty is assured.

The fifth Forcing bid is the Four or Five Notrump Overcall of an opponent's Preemptive game bid. This bid discloses a hand of great strength, probably divided in the suits not bid preemptively by the adversary, and unconditionally requires partner to respond with his best four-card suit.

The sixth Forcing situation occurs in the case of Inferential Forcing bids. These bids, while not technically classified as Forces, are such through the sheer logic of the bidding situation which has developed. They are made usually either by the Opening bidder after his partner has disclosed some signs of strength or by the Responding Hand after the Opening bidder has bid twice. Bidding situations which may be construed as Inferential Forces are:

1—When a player reopens the bidding after two notrump has been bid, either at once or gradually, by his partner.

2—When a player reopens the bidding with a new suit after a Raise, either Simple or Jump, of any previous bid.

Another Forcing situation arises when the bid of four notrump is made after any strength-showing bid by the same side and more especially after a Forcing Takeout of partner's Opening bid. This bid, made under such circumstances, is a part of the Four-Five Notrump Convention and has the special function of showing Aces in a manner that partner cannot misunderstand and of eliciting information from partner concerning distributional and honor values not already shown which may lead to a successful contract for Small or Grand Slam. The four-notrump bid made after either partner has opened the bidding is absolutely Forcing for one round and shows either three Aces in the hand or two Aces and the King of any suit previously bid by either member of the partnership.

FREE BRIDGE BOOKLET

Readers of this newspaper may have a free copy of "Bridge Rules and Etiquette," by Josephine Culbertson, through special arrangement. Address Mrs. Culbertson in care of this newspaper, INCLOSING A 3-CENT STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

The five-notrump bid—which is equally Forcing—when preceded by a four-notrump bid by the same player, discloses all four Aces in one hand. When five-notrump is bid immediately after a game contract has been reached, it discloses at least three Aces and the King of a suit previously bid by either partner.

Today's Question

Both sides vulnerable.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	1 N T	Pass
2♣	Pass	?

You, North, hold:

♠J854 ♡A103 ◇K975 ♣Q4

What do you bid?

Answer—Two notrump. The North hand has 2 honor-tricks and is more than a minimum one-notrump response. In addition it has a very good fit with partner's club suit and has every other suit at least partly stopped. A second bid must be found on this hand in view of the fact that South was able to rebid over the negative notrump response.

Rescues 2 Boys From Blazing Barn

GREENSBURG, Pa., Aug. 11.—Two boys, trapped in a burning barn on the farm of John Rummell, Fairfield Township, were rescued by Quay Hare, a neighbor, who was severely burned. The flames were believed to have been started by sparks from a thresher.

Richard Rummell, 8, and his brother, Howard, were playing in the granary unaware of the fire until Hare saved them.

When you're HEALTHY you're HAPPY

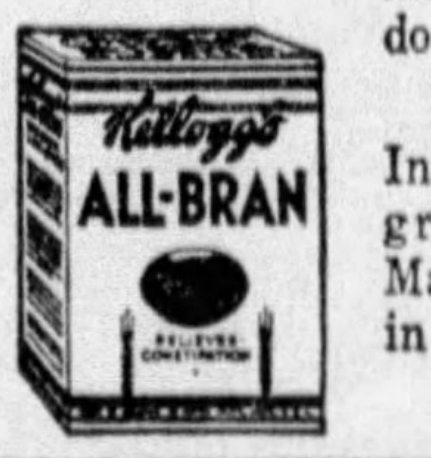
HAPPY days are usually healthy days. Why not add to these sunshiny days!

Poor health and constipation go hand in hand. Get rid of common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

Tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to aid regularity. ALL-BRAN is also twice as rich in iron as an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much better than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful.

Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.



At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

JUST SPRINKLE IN

TO END SOAP WASTE

Hard water wastes soap because the soap cannot dissolve. Stop this waste! Just sprinkle Climalene into the dishwater. It softens water, cuts grease, you use just ½ the soap. You get foamier, richer, more lasting suds.

Your dishes wink and twinkle as for some gay party. It makes clothes whiter, too. Your grocer has Climalene. The Climalene Co., Canton, Ohio.

CLIMALENE

RECIPES BY PRUDENCE PENNY

VEGETABLE SOUP—⅓ cup carrots, diced; ⅓ cup cabbage, diced; ⅓ cup celery, diced; ¼ cup onion, diced; ½ cup green peas, ¼ cup chopped string beans.

Mix and cook 10 minutes in five tablespoons of butter, stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Two minutes before the vegetables are finished cooking add:

1½ cups cubed potatoes, 1½ quarts boiling water, 1 cup strained tomatoes.

Cook one hour, or until vegetables are tender, season to taste, using about two teaspoons of salt, a dash of cayenne and one tablespoon of Worcestershire sauce. You may omit the sauce and sprinkle grated Parmesan cheese over the soup when it is placed in the bowls, or chopped parsley is an addition.

* * *

VEGETABLE-CHEESE STICKS.—½ cup each, cooked peas and carrots drained, and string beans cut fine, 1 cup sifted flour, ¼ cup each grated American cheese and bacon fat or butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ⅛ teaspoon paprika.

Sift dry ingredients and mix like biscuit dough, mashing vegetables with fork into dry ingredients. Roll ⅛-inch thick and cut into strips ¼-inch wide and bake in hot oven until brown.

* * *

ANGEL LEMON PIE—½ cup butter, 1 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 3 eggs separated, 1 lemon, 1 cupful milk, 1-16 teaspoon salt.

Cream butter, cornstarch, salt and sugar together and add well-beaten egg yolks, the grated rind and juice of lemon. Beat the mixture until very light, add the milk and mix thoroughly. Fold in the stiffly-whipped whites and pour into a deep pie tin lined with flaky pastry. Bake in moderate oven until firm.

Whistling Downey

Everything is all set for Don Bestor's new 39-week commercial series, with Walter O'Keefe as master of ceremonies and Ethel Shutta as soloist. The starting date is August 25; the network, NBC-WJZ.

* * *

Morton Downey's fame as a whistler is second only to his renown as a singer—in this country. But while his whistling in the homeland has brought forth nothing worse than letters of complaint and a few packages of birdseed, it almost caused his arrest in London.

During his recent visit in the British capital, Downey was walking through the Burlington Arcade near Picadilly, whistling merrily. A bobby accosted him and threatened to arrest him for disturbing the peace.

Kate Smith wanted to sing an old song. It is called "Any Rags, Any Bones," and was one of the 1901 crop. She searched every music library in New York, but not one of them had a copy of the ditty. Kate wrote out-of-town libraries. But there was no dice. On Monday night last, Kate apologized to listeners who had requested the song and asked if anybody within range of her voice had a copy of "Any Rags." She received 39 copies.

CUBS WIN 41 AT HOME, 18 ON ROAD

THOUGH THE CUBS are known generally as a club that is more than ordinarily successful at home and below the average on the road, you've got to dig into the figures to see how great is the form difference. You may be surprised to learn that it is almost 400 percentage points. Wrigley Field surely has kept Charley Grimm's men in the pennant fight. Of the 59 victories credited to them up to today's belated opening of their farewell series here, no fewer than 41 were scored in Chicago, whereas on the road they have only 18 games.

Charley Grimm

While winning practically three-fourths of their engagements at home, this year, the Bruins have captured little more than one-third of their foreign contests. Their home record up to today was 41 games won and only 14 lost, a percentage of .745. On the road they had won only 18 games while losing 33, a percentage of but .353. At home, 1932 pennant winners have won the majority of their games against every other club in the league, but abroad Philadelphia is the only city in which they are able to boast more victories than defeats, and the advantage there is only three out of five.

IN CHICAGO, GRIMM'S athletes have won seven out of eight games from the Braves, seven out of 10 from the Pirates, six out of seven from the Dodgers, six out of eight from the Reds, five out of seven from the Giants, five out of seven from the Phils, and five out of eight from the Cardinals. Of their last 24 games at home, the Cubs have lost only three, but they have dropped their last eight games abroad.

On the road this season, they have won three and lost two in Philadelphia, won four and lost four in Boston, won two and lost three in Brooklyn, won three and lost five in Pittsburgh, won two and lost five in New York, won two and lost seven in Cincinnati, and won two and lost seven in St. Louis. If they escape their usual tailspin on the coming Eastern trip, their ability to win at home may make the Bruins dangerous in the closing weeks of the race, as 21 of their final 23 games will be played on their own lot.

BLONDY RYAN, shortstop of the Giants, still is wearing a shin guard while on duty, and needing it, for that spike wound he suffered during a game more than a month ago never has completely healed.

And hardly a day goes by on which Ryan does not receive a few more bumps. By the time the season is over he will have a rare collection of scars on his legs to add to those he got while playing football at Holy Cross.

BILL TERRY remarked that if he only had the Phillies' Big Four to bat in runs, the Giants would have the pennant sewed up by September 1. He was referring to Chuck Klein, Spud Davis, Chick Fullis and Wes Schulmerich, who have been among the leading five or six hitters in the National League for the last six weeks. Burt Shotton countered with the observation that if he only had the Giants' Big Four to do his pitching the Phils would be out in front so far the race would be as good as over. Which is usually the way in baseball. Seldom does any club have the perfect combination of punch and pitching. However, the Giants have accomplished more with good hurling and a team hitting .260 than have the Phils with weak pitching and four of the leading hitters to give the club an average of .285. It's another case that shows pitching to be the more important asset.

Wes Ferrell

AMONG THE UNUSUAL developments of the season in the major baseball leagues will be the stopping of the streak in which Wes Ferrell, Cleveland pitcher, has succeeded in winning more than 20 games in each of his campaigns in the big show, a four-year achievement that ranks high in the table of exceptional slab feats.

Ferrell has won 21 games in 1929, 25 in 1930, 22 in 1931, and 23 last year, or 91 victories in his first four seasons. But his chance of reaching the 20 mark this year has faded, with less than half of that number to his credit at present and more than two-thirds of the season gone. However, few new pitchers coming into the majors will equal the Cleveland right-hander's record in their first four years.

THE LOSS OF his deadly fast ball was the cause of Ferrell's tumble. He is finding it increasingly difficult to get by with slow curves, and the probability that he never again will set any big marks on the mound strengthens the prospect that he will have to move to the outfield to stay in the majors

The pitcher himself realizes this, and he works out in the gardens daily chasing fungoes. Wes ought to have plenty of value there in years to come, as he is fast and always has been one of the best hitters on the Cleveland club.

PREPARING TO TUNE up Miss America X for the defense of the Harmsworth Trophy and the speedboat championship, Gar Wood hopes soon to prove that the changes made in the motors were for the better. Meanwhile there is much speculation as to the possibilities of the English challenger, Miss Britain III, Hubert Scott-Paine's revolutionary all-metal craft. This radical departure from general motorboat ideas, built at a cost of 22,000 pounds sterling, has an engine of only 1,375 horsepower, which is dwarfed by comparison with the 8,000 horsepower of Miss America X. However, the nearly 25-foot English boat has a beam of eight feet and only two inches of freeboard, and is said to have attained more than 100 miles per hour on a two-thirds power trial. There is another innovation in the fact that the rudder is attached to the front of the boat.

AS USUAL, FOOTBALL teams on the Pacific Coast this year will run big, perhaps even a bit larger, on the average, than in the past. Southern California, Stanford, California, St. Mary's and Washington are expected to have five of the biggest elevens in the entire country.

St. Mary's is a new addition to the beef list. The Gaels formerly were constructed along the lines of some of the great Notre Dame elevens, strong and lean, with the emphasis on speed and lift rather than on power and weight. This year they'll look like the Trojans of last season in the forward wall, and the backfield will be built along the same lines.

THE NEXT TENNIS singles champion of the United States? If you'll take the word of the present titleholder, Ellsworth Vines, winner in 1921-32, his successor will be Lester Stoefen, another Californian.

Lester Stoefen

Perhaps not this year, but one day most assuredly, Vines thinks. The champion has enough confidence in himself to feel that he may retain his laurels in 1933 and win the crown for the third straight time, but he predicts that when he is overthrown Stoefen will be the man to succeed him.

"I RESPECT STOEFEN more than any other player in the world when he is right," Vines says. "It's because of his service. The service in tennis has two functions: It puts the ball into play and it can be used to place the receiver at a disadvantage. Good placement or dazzling speed may accomplish this. Stoefen has the speed. When in form he gets more behind a ball than anyone else of our time. The taller a man the better chance he has of hitting a fast service into an ponent's court. Stoefen strikes the ball when it is almost 12 [illegible] in the air. He strikes with such cannonball speed and mome[illegible] that it is next to impossible to return the ball with any degr[illegible] accuracy. He has you at his mercy. You realize that he can [illegible] his service games and the pressure is on you. It will depend on how many of your own service games you can win." Stoefen, like Vines, is tall and lean. He was ranked No. 15 in 1931 and No. 6 in 1932, the biggest jump made by anyone in tennis. Lester lacks consistency, his game offers too much chance for error, and he has got to be at his peak to win. But tennis men agree that, reaching that peak, he will beat any opponent.

PAT MALONE CHARLEY GRIMM GABBY HARTNETT

'Twas just one year ago today that the Chicago Cubs won a 10-inning game from the Pirates at Forbes Field and jumped into the National League lead under the new direction of Hoch Der Sharley Grimm, former Pirate first sacker, and went on to win the pennant. Now they're with us again, near the top. Here we see Charley and one of his batteries (dry cell) looking over the story of their feat of a year ago in the Sun-Telegraph of that date. And at the right there is a reproduction of the box score of that important battle. These are Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph pictures.

PRIMO TO BOX PAULINO IN TITLE BOUT

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Primo Carnera will defend his heavyweight championship for the first time against Paulino Uzcudun in Rome in his native Italy, October 8, Louis P. Soresi, manager of the titleholder who knocked out Jack Sharkey a few weeks ago, has announced.

He would prefer to match Carnera against the winner of a bout between Uzcudun, champion of Europe, and Don McCorkindale, of England, Soresi said, but will accept Uzcudun without qualification on the October date if the elimination match cannot be arranged.

PERMISSION UNSOUGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—Primo Carnera, heavyweight champion, has not applied to the Madison Square Garden Corporation, which has him under contract for his next fight, for permission to defend his title against Paulino Uzcudun in Rome, October 8, Promoter Jimmy Johnston said today.

BOWL TO ASK NEW HEARING

TONIGHT'S FIGHTS

Jay Mecadon vs. Sylvan Bass, 10 rounds, Long Beach, N. J.

Cerefino Garcia vs. Eddie Frisco, 10 rounds, Hollywood, Cal.

Vince Dundee vs. Danny Devlin, 10 rounds, Paterson, N. J. (Postponed from last night).

The battle for vindication of the North Braddock Boxing Bowl has just begun, Leonard Mazer, counsel for his brother, Promoter Joe Mazer, announced today, adding that he will demand a second hearing from the Boxing Commission when his principal witness arrives back in town within two weeks. He asked that yesterday's hearing before the commission be postponed until this witness could be produced, but his request was denied.

The commission found the Bowl guilty of paying Bud Taylor, Sammy Slaughter's manager, only $20 in expense money for a postponement, while its matchmaker admitted he had promised him $50. This, according to Mazer, is only incidental to the main issue, which is the fact that it was published that the club had not met its obligations in connection with the show and there has been no agreement as to where this information originated.

The club contends the news was given out by the commission, and that it has been detrimental to the club's prestige.

Attorney Mazer also declared his brother would not retire from the promoting field, but plans to carry on after the present situation is cleared up.

SPORT VIGNETTES

The investigation of the amateur tennis players will be well worth watching . . . If the United States Lawn Tennis Association is sincere in its stand, it will probe the matter down to the bottom, including the situation which permits players to make a profession of playing tennis and live the life of the well-known Mr. Reilly . . . Expense accounts will be looked into, and there may be some startling developments . . . But, then, we've had the same situation up for discussion before with nothing happening . . . Somebody always stopped the investigations before it was too late to ruin the business of tennis.

Jim Jeffries, former heavyweight champion, is in a furore because an Eastern writer the other day spilled a story to the effect that, now that Jim Corbett is dead, he is privileged to reveal a secret that Jeffries had wanted to quit in his corner at the end of the tenth round of his bout with Corbett at Coney Island and thus permit Corbett to regain the title . . . According to the story, Corbett was making a mugg out of the erstwhile boilermaker from the start and in the tenth round hit him a hard right hand blow under the heart, which Jeffries thought had cracked a rib . . . His seconds, led by Billy Delaney, his trainer, former pal of Corbett, who was estranged from the latter, threatened Jeffries to make him continue the fight and he went on to win with a knockout in the twenty-third round, thus spoiling a plan of Corbett to "carry" Jeffries until the last round or two of the scheduled 25-rounder and then stow him away.

According to the story, Delaney, just before he died, came to Corbett and told him what had happened—of how Jim had come within a whisker of being a twice-champion, and Corbett had kept his peace and sworn the writer to secrecy until after his death . . . Jeff's answer is that he never quit in his life or ever thought of quitting, especially against a fancy boxer and notoriously light hitter such as Corbett.

Fritzie Zivic, local lightweight boxer, got a big kick out of his fight with Joey Greb at Hickey Park the other night . . . He was winning handily all of the way and only Greb's ruggedness and tincanning prevented him from scoring a knockout . . . It was Zivic's first 10-round fight, and along about midway in it Greb, grasping at every straw to stay the limit, began to talk to him . . . "Not so fast, Fritzie," he said, "you'll get tired."

The coming of Babe Ruth to Forbes Field for an exhibition game against the Pirates next Monday recalls his other appearances here . . . He first opposed the locals in an exhibition in 1920 and drew a turnout of 30,000 fans, who were disappointed when the Babe failed to get one of his socking home runs as the game ran its course . . . He was up for the last time in the ninth inning, and George Whitted, playing third base for the Pirates, proved the hero of the day when he set himself under a high fly and then deliberately turned his back and permitted the ball to drop at his feet to prolong the Babe's time at bat . . . Given another chance, the Babe knocked one over the right field fence and the crowd went wild . . . It was a never-to-be-forgotten episode . . . The Babe next showed here in the 1927 world series and again in 1929 . . . Next Monday's game may be the last time the local fans will get a chance to see the aging Bambino strut his stuff here—and will they be there? . . . You tell 'em.

Looks as if it will be up to our Teddy Yarosz to step into the picture and stop the rush of Lou Brouillard, who knocked out Ben Jeby the other night. . . . It is a cinch bet that Lefty Lou wouldn't kick our Teddy around the ring in the manner in which he played football with Jeby . . . The latter is a mauling, crowding type of fighter, whereas our Teddy is a cute one inside those ropes, and no one is taking him for any sandbaggings . . . Another fellow who might make things tough for Brouillard, good fighter that the latter undoubtedly is, is none other than Vince Dundee, who boxes Yarosz here one week from next Monday . . . Vince is a smart, seasoned boxer, who has had no trouble with the rough and tough customers . . . The winner of the local engagement will be well qualified to take on the task of taming Brouillard.—HARRY KECK.

WASHINGTON'S TYPOS LOSE

DETROIT, Aug 11.—(AP.)—Unexpected strength of an underrated Detroit team that handed Washington its first defeat, 17 to 7, has brought about a three-way tie in the union printers baseball tournament and necessitated another day of play to settle the championship.

In the other game yesterday, New York scored four runs in the tenth inning to defeat Minneapolis-St. Paul, 10 to 7, eliminating the Twin Cities.

Two games today will be necessary to determine the winner under the rule that keeps each team in the tournament until it has lost two games. Washington plays New York in the first game and the winner plays Detroit for the title.

DERBY VICTOR BEATEN

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The winner of the 1929 Kentucky Derby, Man O' War's son, Clyde Van Dusen, apparently is at the end of his active racing career. The stout-hearted little gelding, which won a purse worth $53,690 on his single day of glory, yesterday was out of the money in a $1,500 claiming affair at Hawthorne.

PILOT GRIMM HAS CLUB IN GOOD SHAPE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Charles John (Lefty) Grimm, manager of the champion Cubs, surveyed the National League field today and without the use of a crystal ball or tea leaves took a high dive into the immediate future with these well-chosen remarks:

"It's a great race and I think we have as good a chance as anybody. For the first time this season our club is almost 100 per cent in condition. Frank Demaree has a sore shoulder and I have been keeping company with a charley horse, but Ki Cuyler, Woodie English and the "Old Hoss" are all O. K. Our pitchers are in fine fettle and we have a catcher named Hartnett who looks good. We welcome the home-stretch angle of the big race, and may the best team win!"

VEECK WITH TEAM

The coloratura pilot made his little speech in the presence of Bill Veeck, popular president of the Chicago team, who is in the city with his club, and whose moral support will be with his team as it travels the rocky roads of the Atlantic seaboard.

Manager Grimm waxed reminiscent as he mused:

"I suppose you fellows will recall that one year ago today was a red letter day in our history. We came to Pittsburgh to meet the Pirates in a single game. The Buccos had a couple of points edge on first place, but we copped a 3-2 battle in 10 innings and took over first place. After we landed there we were able to stay at the top. That important game of one year ago brought a fine pitching duel between Lonnie Warneke and Steve Swetonic."

TWO GAMES TOMORROW

Grimm then waved the memories of the past from his mind and indicated that it would be better to live in the future inasmuch as exciting times are in the offing. Lefty's Bruins are slated to tackle the second-place Pirates in three games before the two clubs hurry back to Chicago for a Sunday contest. A single game is on the card for this afternoon with two contests slated for tomorrow. The dual bill is the result of yesterday's rain postponement.

The Cubs today announced the purchase of First Baseman Dolph Camilli from the Sacramento Club, of the Pacific Coast League. It is believed he cost around $25,000. He batted .308 in 187 games last season.

CHAMPS TO BOX

Al Quail and Woodrow White, respectively Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. senior middleweight and light-heavyweight boxing champions, will appear on a card in the Pittsburgh Lyceum's outdoor arena, 110 Washington street, next Tuesday evening. White will box Bill Chuster and Quail will take on Fred Mueller.

PARMELEE STANDS OUT AS GIANT ACE

HURLER BLANKS PHILLIES WITH TWO HITS

Associated Press.

The name of Leroy (Bud) Parmelee, the big freshman flinger, already has been placed near the top of the list of reasons why the New York Giants are leading the National League. But the young right hander who led the American Association with Columbus last season still is seeking the no-hit game he has approached at least twice this season.

In his first start, Parmelee allowed the Phillies only one hit for a 2-to-1 victory. Yesterday he came just about as close to his perfect game as he blanked the same team with two safeties to win, 4 to 0. In between he has hurled a couple of four-hit games and established himself as one of the outstanding young hurlers by winning 10 games and losing only five in 22 appearances on the hill.

PHILLIES BAFFLED

For seven innings yesterday, Parmelee didn't give up a hit, allowed only one walk, and hit one batsman as he burned in his fast ball where the batters couldn't see it under the gray sky and tricked them with effective curves and change of pace. Wes Schulmerich broke the spell with a single to start the eighth, and after walking a second man, Parmelee pulled out again with two strikeouts and went on until two were out in the ninth before Chuck Klein smacked a single for the second Philly hit.

The Giants got two of their runs on George Davis' homer in the fifth and the other pair on timely swats against Snipe Hansen. The victory increased New York's lead to 3½ games over Pittsburgh as the Pirates opening battle with the Chicago Cubs, the only other game on the National League schedule, was rained out.

The Washington Senators made the same improvement in their position in the American League standing, boosting their lead over the New York Yankees to 3½ games with a 5-3 triumph over the Boston Red Sox. Rain halted the Yankees' game with Philadelphia.

TIGERS DEFEATED

The Senators, as usual, found the Red Hose tough customers, but after trailing 3-0 in the fourth they came back to get the customary victory as Al Crowder and Jack Russell prevented any serious hitting.

The Chicago White Sox advanced to threaten the fourth place rivals, Detroit and Cleveland, by beating the Tigers, 6 to 3, in the other game on the program.

WHITAKER MAY BE CHECKED

With last evening's card entirely ruined by the elements, much interest will follow two important City League games scheduled for this evening.

Whitaker, the league leader, goes to Homewood to meet Bill Dalzell's club.

Whitaker is all but "in" as second-half champion, but a defeat at this time would cause the pace setter no little embarrassment, as both Books and Dormont retain mathematical chances of catching the first placers. Homewood is just the sort of team likely to upset the plans of the near-champs.

At Dormont, another Dormont-Book battle is listed. Manager Falconer has all the Dormont regulars in shape again and they will be in the lineup this evening.

Both the games are slated to get under way at 6:30 o'clock sharp.

In a third City circuit fray, the Cochrans and Gillespies have an engagement booked for the Wilson avenue grounds.

The Bellevue A. A. nine of 1923 will gather together this evening, meeting the Bellevue Welfare team in a benefit contest for the Bellevue Home and Hospital Club's relief fund.

The Baker Hill mushball team will meet the Swissvale Community League All-Stars at Dickson Field tonight.

BASEBALL COMEDY

—By NICK ALTROCK—

Nick Altrock

BOSTON, Aug. 11.—The Yankees got along for two years without being blanked, and that ain't the only distinction they'll enjoy. The Ruppert ensemble is now on the verge of getting along for at least one year without a pennant. Send Uncle Nicholas a three-cent stamp and he will tell you who's going to do the trick.

But, though we hate 'em like typhoid germs sprinkled on poison ivy, I will say the Yankees are one grand ball club. When you can breeze through two annums and not get shut out, you have more power than Mr. Insull skipped out on.

It means they're a brood of batting fools. But, just the same, our Washington outfit has its finger on 'em. You have heard the old slogan that runs, "Go to the ants, thou sluggers." Well, we are going to chase the Yankee sluggers into their ant holes and step on the sandhills. And they won't be up for air till next spring.

GRAND CIRCUIT PLACES BAN

SALEM, N. H., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—An error in the pari-mutuel calculations, which made an apparent 3-1 winner pay off at odds of only 3-10, has caused Alan J. Wilson, of Boston, general manager of the Grand Circuit's Rockingham Park meeting, to bar all "big chain" drivers from the betting windows during the rest of their stay here.

The mistake, made when Harry and Lyman Brusie, father and son, drove Laurel Hanover and Hanover Prophet in the deciding heat of the 2-year-old pace yesterday, drew loud protests from drivers who had wagered on the elder reinsman in the two-horse race.

The odds on Laurel Hanover apparently closed at 3-1 and Hanover Prophet was quoted at the top heavy price of 3-10. These prices were reversed when Laurel Hanover came home an easy winner.

CREAVY TRAILS HINES IN P. G. A. MATCH

FORMER CHAMP 2 DOWN AT NINTH HOLE

BLUE MOUND CLUB, MILWAUKEE, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Jimmy Hines, of New York, led Tom Creavy, former titleholder from Albany, N. Y., 2 up at the quarter-point of their 36-hole match for a semi-final berth in the national professional golf championship today.

Conquering a heavy wind that ripped across the course and stopped the assault on par, Willie Goggin, husky professional from Salada Beach, Cal., played even par to snatch a 3-up lead over Paul Runyan, Ryder Cup star from White Plains, N. Y. Goggin won the first three holes with a par and two straight birdies.

Gene Sarazen took a 2 up lead over Ed Dudley, his Ryder Cup mate from Wilmington, Del., through nine.

In a match that saw the lead alternating frequently, Johnny Farrell, of New York, won the ninth hole and took a 1 up lead over John Golden, Noroton, Conn.

FIRST HOLE HALVED

Creavy hooked to the deep rough with his tee shot and Hines dubbed a brassie shot against the wind and they halved the first hole in 5, one over par.

Hines arched his approach on the second to within seven feet of the cup and sank the putt for a birdie 3 to go 1 up.

Both were wild all the way against the wind on the third, but Hines' putter rammed one in from eight feet to win the hole with a 5, sending him 2 up.

Hines banged his tee shot into a trap on the short fourth and Creavy won his first hole. They halved the fifth in par and Tom was 2 down.

They halved the rest of the outgoing holes in par except the short eighth, where Creavy missed a three-foot putt and fell 2 down at the quarter turn.

GOGGIN WINS FIRST

Pursued by the largest gallery, Goggin and Runyan started out as the wind whipped over the course with increasing velocity. Both needed brassies with their seconds, but Runyan missed his and Willie won the first hole in par.

A 150-yard pitch shot that stopped three feet from the second pin and a 12-foot putt on the third hole gave Goggin two straight birdies, sending him 3 up on Runyan, whose par was not good enough.

Goggin missed the green on the short fourth and Runyan stopped his march with a par only to have the long-hitting Californian go 3 up again on the fifth as Paul three-putted.

The sixth was easy par for both, but a tee shot to a trap cost Goggin the seventh. He went 3 up again, however, on the eighth by laying Runyan o dead stymie. The ninth was even in par, and Goggin, out in even par, made the turn still 3 up.

Sarazen and Dudley were the first to reach the initial green in two shots and halved it with easy par 4s.

As Dudley steered his tee shots into the rough and traps Sarazen won three successive holes with one over par golf to soar 3 up through the fourth.

NETTERS NEAR TITLE DUELS

RYE, N. Y., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The goal of a week of long and brilliant play loomed brightly today ahead of a quartet of seeded quarter-finalists in the men's singles and the semi-finals in the women's singles, and the men's and women's doubles, in the annual Eastern turf court championships at the Westchester Country Club.

Sidney B. Wood, Jr., of New York, playing again in the form that made him a member of the Davis Cup team two years ago, and Gregory Mangin, of Newark, indoor champion, rested, their places won in the men's singles semi-finals.

Wood swept through John Van Ryn, Davis Cup doubles player, 6-3, 6-3, yesterday, and Mangin beat the intercollegiate champion from California, Jack Tidball, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Today's schedule offered places in the women's final for two members of the British Wightman Cup team as Dorothy Round meets Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Cal., and Mary Heeley plays Mae Ceurvorst, of Wichita, Kan., in the semi-final round.

Lester Stoefen, Los Angeles, and George M. Lott, of Chicago, battle for one place in the men's semi-finals with Wood and Mangin, while Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, and Karl Kamrath, of Texas, struggle for the other.

MISS VAN WIE FINALIST

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Miss Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, national women's champion, defeated Elizabeth Abbott, Los Angeles, 6 and 5, in the women's Western golf semi-finals here today.

TENNIS BERTH AT STAKE

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

The College Avenue net squad must defend its post in Division I of the Pittsburgh Tennis Association Inter-Club League against the challenge of Belmont, victorious in Division II of the loop. Loss of a 5-4 verdict to the seventh-place University Club in the play-off of a tussle postponed from Saturday, July 15, definitely established the Collegians as tailenders of the upper sector of the circuit and required that they meet the lower section winner to determine which of the squads will cavort in fast company in 1934.

Ultimate decision on the College Avenue-University Club affair was reached yesterday when the two remaining doubles matches were split evenly by mutual default. The destiny of the cellar occupants, however, had been previously settled as Frank McClintock and Leonard Reed, Varsity stars, registered respectively over Capt. Austin Famariss and Dr. Taylor, C. A. mainstays, a day or so earlier.

Tentative plans call for reeling off of the challenge tilt tomorrow afternoon, although a last-minute check-up of contestants may disclose too many absences from town to render feasible the disposition of the joust this week.

Rules call for the staging of the fray on neutral courts and arrangements have been completed for the handling of the seance at P. A. A. and University Club.

District luminaries are reminded that entries for the Western Maryland championships at Mountain Lake Park and the Northwestern Pennsylvania titular tourney at Hunters' Lodge, Erie, close this week-end as far as men's singles milling is concerned. Joseph A. Smith will receive names of Northwestern Pennsylvania aspirants until midnight tonight at 3107 Plum street, Erie, and Jared W. Young will care for Western Maryland hopefuls until tomorrow evening. Young may be addressed at Mountain Lake Park, Md.

CHAMPS ENTER HEARST EVENT

By STEVE HEALEY

Universal Service.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—The state of Michigan and the city of Detroit in particular are making a strong bid for major honors in the second annual William Randolph Hearst-Herald and Examiner Gold Cup regatta, to be staged on the North Lagoon at the World's Fair grounds Sunday, August 20.

Heading the imposing list of amateur drivers who will contest for the beautiful Hearst Gold Cup are the names of James Nunnely, Detroit, and Miss Ruth De Roo, Flint, Mich.

Nunnely is the holder of two existing world records, the E and F classes, in the amateur division. Apart from the world records, he also sports the title of national collegiate champion.

Miss De Roo is the greatest feminine amateur star in the country, and if the so-called weaker sex has anything to do with lifting the cup it probably will repose on this 17-year-old star's mantelpiece after August 20.

She is the holder of the national amateur championship in class A, which she won at Bay City, Mich., last fall.

WOMEN'S CITY TITLE TOURNEY ON MONDAY

By TOM BIRKS

Mrs. Margaret Curry will open the defense of her women's city golf championship over the Schenley Park links next Monday, according to an announcement from John Jay Burke, who once again has been placed in charge of the tournament by Director of Public Works Edward G. Lang.

The first day of competition finds an 18-hole medal play qualifying test scheduled, with match play each day until the final on Friday. The defending champion will be the choice to repeat once more, but Mrs. Edith Blair and Miss Edith Clarke are counted upon to furnish the champion with plenty of opposition.

Mrs. Blair and Miss Clarke are old campaigners over the muny links, and there is a possibility that one or the other may be wearing the toga when the champion is crowned late next week.

The final 18 holes of match play for the County Parks' title, scheduled at South Park yesterday afternoon, was called off and will be staged next Thursday. Professional Al McBride felt that playing the match on the rain-sodded greens would do irreparable damage to the course.

Both Alex Shacoski, North Park champion, and Carl Kauffmann, South Park's king, were on hand, ready for play. Shacoski has a 1-up advantage.

Gene Mako Enters Junior Tennis Final

CULVER, Ind., Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Gene Mako, Los Angeles, today went into the final round of the national junior tennis championship tournament by defeating George Ball, of El Paso, Tex., 6-4, 6-2.

Ball outscored the Californian with passing shots, but lost many points by service faults and hitting the ball into the net on comparatively easy shots.

Mako appeared to be a bit off form and was unable to capitalize on his service until the tenth and deciding game of the first set. Until that time games had gone against the server.

Mako ended the set with a service ace. The Californian steadied in the second set and ran up an advantage of five games to one for Ball, Mako then quickly ran through the final game.

STOCKS DRIFT IN SLUGGISH TRADING

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The stock market dawdled diffidently today as grains displayed weakness and the speculative public apparently wrapped itself in another mantle of cautiousness.

Professionals seemingly accounted for what litle activity there was in share transactions and both buyers and sellers were so far apart in many instances that they were unable to get together on quotations. The ticker tape idled monotonously in the early hours and prices generally mulled about unimportantly. Wheat was quite heavy at Chicago and other grains sagged sympathetically. Cotton tended toward the easy side. The dollar was almost stationary in foreign exchange dealings. Bonds were fairly firm, but dull.

Stock market judgments generally appeared to be following an hour-to-hour routine, with most traders ready to jump in any direction. While there was little pessimism to be found in the majority of board rooms, at the same time there was no great amount of optimism observable. Various financial analysts were of the opinion that a healthier market situation would be built up by a further drifting of prices in a relatively narrow range over a period of a week or so.

Early buying in Baldwin Locomotive, American Locomotive and a few of the other railway equipment stocks reflected not only a pickup in business for some of these companies, but the probability that a number of the important carriers will have to start more extensive purchases soon if the roads are to be kept in condition to handle the growing volume of traffic which has accompanied recent industrial progress.

Week-end trade reviews pointed out that the upswing in commerce had been resumed after a brief pause brought about by uncertainties surrounding the new industrial codes. Decimation of unemployment with a resultant increase of buying power, it was found, has served to check much of the usual midsummer decline in the retail section. Further expansion in public consumption was expected over the next few weeks.

GRAINS TAKE FRESH FALL

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Setbacks in grain prices formed the rule early today, despite United States government estimates confirming unofficial reports of terrific crop losses. Traders said that recent advances in values had largely discounted the crop damage.

Opening ⅝ to 2⅝ cents down, wheat afterward steadied at about one cent under yesterday's finish. Corn started ¼ off to ½ up and subsequently sagged all around, but then scored a moderate general advance.

The bears pointed out that the United States government figures indicated a little more wheat than last month.

Emphasis was also put on the fact that the Liverpool and Winnipeg markets went lower, notwithstanding that in some quarters the Canadian government crop report was construed as decidedly bullish.

New downturns in wheat prices followed early rallies. Selling at this stage came largely from easterners, who for several days had been on the buying side of the market.

Trade in corn and oats was not large. Advances were checked by selling on account of wheat weakness.

Provisions averaged higher with hog values.

About mid-session, wheat was 2@2¼ cents under yesterday's finish and corn was unchanged to ⅛ lower.

Pennsylvania's Corn Crop Above Average

HARRISBURG, Aug. 11.—(INS.)—The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service today forecast a good yield of corn, estimating the total Pennsylvania crop at 48,818,000 bushels, about 3,000,000 more than the five-year average.

Although in many sections the potato crop has been above normal the fall yield, when the majority of them is dug, was reported as "critical." The yield was estimated at 18,333,000 or about 4,000,000 bushels less than the average.

An apple harvest of 7,854,000 bushels was forecast.

Mail Order Companies' Stocks Up Despite Grain Reaction

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Brisk demand for the leading mail order company shares was a feature at intervals today in spite of the irregularity ruling in the grain market. The activity in that section of the list was accompanied by reports in usually well informed quarters that the forthcoming fall catalogues of those organizations will show a substantial revision upward in price schedules all along the line. Such a development, would of course, be entirely logical and natural in view of the rising price trend through the spring of the year.

The crop report was bullish for the most part particularly on corn where the indicated yield was pared 111,000,000 bushels, in the month. The market did not take kindly, however, to the standoff in wheat by comparison with a month ago. Prospective wheat yield on August 1 was somewhat larger than had been forecast by private observers and was about 4,000,000 bushels greater than on July 1, but still far under last year and the five-year average. The gain was accounted for a lift in winter wheat totals. The indicated spring wheat yield was slightly smaller, but observers were interested chiefly in the fall in condition from 52.1 on July 4 to 44.6 per cent of normal on August 1. This sharp drop in condition, it was contended, would probably reflect in greater ultimate abandonment than has been allowed for.

With interest seemingly due to be focused on distribution and consumption over the next few months inasmuch as the purpose of the NRA is to increase consumption to a point that will support larger business volume and higher wages, there is a growing disposition to search out shares that will stand to reflect improvement in those lines. Shares of the retail stores and the railroads are regarded by some as falling in that category. In connection with the merchandising shares, the point is made that some department stores do as much as 40 per cent of their annual gross turnover in the last quarter.

Lima Locomotive Company

has accounted for 14 per cent of the domestic locomotive business in recent years. In 1932 only two locomotives were purchased from all companies. If carloadings increase to 800,000 a week it is safe that orders for locomotives will be increased in 1934 to 1,000, and 2,000 is not exceptional. The 10-year average to 1929 was 1,310. Average price of a locomotive is $85,000 and the business carries a profit of 10 per cent. If Lima obtains 14 per cent of the 1,000-locomotive year net for the common should be around $6 a share, says Goodbody & Co.

A pickup in railroad equipment business is reflected in the July bookings of the Baldwin Locomotive Works which totaled $1,036,000 compared with $385,000 in the same month last year. This amount includes the company's subsidiaries. For the first seven months the company had total bookings of $5,184,000 against $4,324,000 in the same period last year. Unfilled orders on July 31 amounted to $3,564,000 against $2,627,000 on January 1, 1933, and $3,446,000 a year ago.

It has been a long time since the price of a New York Stock Exchange membership fell $55,000 on the transfer of a single seat, as occurred yesterday. The slump from the previous transaction at $240,000 was attributed in some brokerage quarters to prospects for a slow commission business for the remainder of the summer at least, partly as a result of the recent action by the exchange to control margin trading.

Trading Markets Closed Again Tomorrow

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Conforming to summer schedules, all security and many of the local commodity markets will remain closed tomorrow. The New York Cotton Exchange will operate, as will a few minor commodity markets. Important commodity exchanges outside of New York, including the Chicago Board of Trade, will transact business as usual.

The June production of leather footwear in Canada at 1,965,647 pairs was the largest output recorded for any month since January, 1929, a Dominion Bureau of Statistics report says. That figure represents an increase of 211,083 pairs, or 12 per cent over the preceding month and an increase of 406,455 pairs or 26 per cent for the corresponding period last year.

SUGAR TRADE ACTIVE

The New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, Inc., reports that last month was the most active July in the organization's history. Volume of trading in sugar was 886,600 tons compared with 467,700 tons in July, 1932, while the coffee business totaled 1,391,500 bags against 197,250 in the same month last year.

CANADIAN CONSTRUCTION UP

Canadian construction contracts awarded in Canada in July were the same in number as in June, but value of awards was $12,651,600 higher, or a gain of 63.8 per cent, also slightly ahead of July, 1932, according to MacLean Building Reports, Ltd.

AUTOMOTIVE EXPORTS RISE

NEW CHECKER CAB OFFICERS

H. P. Barrand has been elected chairman of Checker Cab Manufacturing Corporation. C. A. Weymouth has been elected president, succeeding Morris Markin. Mr. Barrand also was elected secretary and treasurer.

LOCAL MARKET IN NARROW RANGE

Trading volume dwindled perceptibly on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with prices displaying a sagging tendency in most of the recently active issues. The turnover was too small to convey an accurate picture of the actual price situation and there were many in the Street who felt that the preponderance of opinion favored the up side of the market. However, in the absence of a definite cue from the "big board" and the general inclination on the part of the public to await concrete evidence of improvement from the NRA program, stocks washed back and forth quietly in the extremely narrow range.

A few scattered trades comprised the business in the fuel division, while the heavy industrial group was unusually dull. Small fractional fluctuations were noted in both directions, but in no case was there enough stock wanted or offered to provide a satisfactory test of the current quotations.

MORE RESERVE CREDIT OUT

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.—(AP.)—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ended August 9, as reported by the Federal reserve board, was $2,215,000,000, compared with the preceding week and a decrease of $161,000,000 compared with the same week of 1932.

On August 9 total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,220,000,000, an increase of $12,000,000 for the week. This increase corresponds with increases of $57,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and $7,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, non-member deposits, etc., offset in part by a decrease of $10,000,000 in money in circulation and an increase of $41,000,000 in treasury currency, adjusted.

Bills discounted decreased $3,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta, $2,000,000 at New York, and $8,000,000 at all Federal reserve banks.

The system's holdings of bills bought in open market showed practically no change for the week, but holdings of United States bonds increased $1,000,000, of treasury notes $5,000,000 and of treasury certificates and bills $4,000,000.

A. & P. July Sales Near 1932 Levels

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company estimates sales for four weeks, ended July 29, at $63,444,884 against $64,239,169 in the like 1932 period, a decrease of 1.2 per cent.

Tonnage sales for the four weeks are estimated at 382,751 compared with 397,471 tons in the like period of 1932, a decrease of 3.7 per cent.

Estimated dollar sales for 22 weeks, ended July 29, totaled $340,509,762 as against $384,040,542 for the like 1932 period, a decrease of 11,3 per cent. Estimated tonnage sales for 22 weeks total 2,188,462 compared with 2,309,304 a year ago, a decrease of 5.2 per cent.

N. Y. Market Short Interest Smaller

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Total short interest existing at the opening of business July 31 of the New York Stock Exchange members was 972,617 shares. This compares with 1,417,637 shares as of June 30, the last published figure, and represents a decrease of 445,024 shares.

Forbes

To President: Take Billions Now Proffered

By B. C. FORBES

"GET MONEY when the getting is good."

The United States government should take to heart that popular expression. It should raise money now that raising it is easy.

Mr. Forbes

When the government was first urged to expend several billions on public works to "prime the recovery pump," the financial community protested that the government could not afford such expenditure, that an attempt to raise any such sum would ruin the national credit.

Such fears have proved groundless.

When the Treasury asked for $850,000,000 the other day, it was offered no less than $4,700,000,000, at low rates.

Not only does the administration's program call for several billions of extraordinary expenditures, but other billions of obligations will become payable in the relatively near future.

President Roosevelt should forthwith instruct Secretary of the Treasury Woodin to take full advantage of the present ideal opportunity to put the government's financial house in order, to put the Treasury on Easy street, to raise the bulk of all of the capital which will be needed to carry out the NRA program and to meet maturing obligations.

The late J. P. Morgan once shrewdly observed:

"To launch a big ship, you must have deep water."

The credit of the government is today at high tide. The Treasury apparently can have any sum it desires, on terms more attractive than embodied in wartime obligations still outstanding.

This extraordinarily favorable credit situation may not last indefinitely.

For one thing, investors because of the new security act, are being offered abnormally few new security issues. Therefore, the government as a capital-raiser has few important competitors.

Moreover, financial institutions have demonstrated emphatically that they are the reverse of eager to make extensive loans to private applicants for accommodation, that they infinitely prefer to put part of their surfeit of liquid reserves into government securities.

The government, therefore, should hoise its financial sails now that the winds are so extremely favorable.

The indisputable but little-discussed fact is that a great many conservatives are haunted by misgivings as to the ability of the government to finance all the tremendous obligations it has shouldered — colossal expenditures for construction and other activities to provide employment, other millions to cotton growers, other millions to wheat raisers, other millions for shipbuilding, other millions to aid banks, to aid railroads, to aid mortgage owners, etc., etc., etc.

Let the government raise now as much as possible of the money it will need, and even the most cautious will feel distinctly less apprehensive.

It is a very comfortable feeling to have on hand hard cash necessary to meet all one's prospective requirements.

Mr. Roosevelt, please order the money-raising machinery set in motion.

THE LINES of President H. A. Scandrett, of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, cover far-flung territory, between Chicago and the Pacific. When I quizzed him, while visiting New York, he replied:

"While one hesitates to make predictions until we know how the President's program is going to work, one thing is clear: That we should get behind and push, because it never was more important than now that we play the game of 'follow the leader.'

"The small grain situation in our territory is like that in other farming territory—very poor, indeed. Generally speaking, the corn has stood up very well, but it needs rain. Nature has taken care of the surplus problem which has been a drag the past few years, and ultimately the effect will be very helpful, but this does not have great appeal to the farmer who has lost his crop.

"On the other hand, there is still a good deal of grain on the farms, and its marketing at the substantially higher prices is bringing money into the farming communities where there has been all too little of it of late years.

"The railroads feel that better days are ahead."

Globe & Rutgers 'Release' Denied

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Declaring it "is almost on the border-line between solvency and insolvency," Supreme Court Justice Alfred Frankenthaler refused today to terminate the rehabilitation of the Globe and Rutgers Fire Insurance Company.

In denying the petition of the officials of the company—who sought resumption of business without the jurisdiction of George S. Van Schaick, state superintendent of insurance—Justice Frankenthaler held that to terminate the rehabilitation program "would be hazardous to its policy holders, its creditors and the public."

Globe and Rutgers has been in the insurance department's control since March 24.

LABOR'S RIGHTS DISCUSSED BY ECONOMIST

By LEWIS HANEY

Professor of Economics, New York University.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—In a recent article, I referred to the rights of labor and expressed the opinion that a minimum wage is desirable. These subjects have become live ones under NRA.

For example, do the "rights" of labor so far exceed the rights of capitalists and enterprisers that wages should be paid at the expense of interest and dividends?

What are these so-called "rights?"

First, it may be said that there is a right to existence. We all recognize that any law abiding human being has a right to be supported, at least if he is unable to support himself.

EARNING ESSENTIAL

This right has something to do with the minimum wage, but not so much as might seem. The question at once arises, "How much?" At what standard of living must we give support?

If we undertake to support everybody, what would happen? Clearly there must be some relation between what a person can produce and the amount of support he receives. To the extent that people receive incomes which they do not fully earn by producing, the incomes of other people are drawn upon. There is a limit to this.

In short, if labor wants more than a bare subsistence it must rely on something more than the right of all human beings to exist. It must earn the desired standard of living.

RIGHT TO WORK

Here comes in the "right to work." The big question under this head is, does this mean an opportunity to labor at something, or does it mean that each laborer is to be furnished with the kind of work he wants?

There is also the question, at what wage is work to be furnished?

The right to a free and full opportunity to seek work in the best available lines, seems obvious. It is based upon the individual's right to reasonable self-expression, and it is conducive to the largest social production.

But when we come to the questions, as to what kind of work and what wage, the thing is not so simple.

If there is not enough productive work of the kind desired by laborers to go around, what can we do? Or if the available work does not produce values sufficient to yield the desired income, what is to be done?

LIMITS ANALYZED

A point often made is that the laborer has "invested" his life work in his trade, and has a right to his job at his customary standard of living. This "right" is considered by many to come ahead of the rights of capitalists and enterprisers to receive interest of dividends.

Within limits, there is something in this idea. What are the limits?

One explanation is that labor could produce very little without the co-operation of capital equipment and the organization and direction which are furnished by enterprise.

If there is not enough product to pay interest and profits (dividends), it is only a question of time before capital and enterprise must cease to function. Then labor would also suffer.

OTHER CLAIMS

We must remember that capital results from the savings of other human beings. Enterprise is furnished by still other human beings, of whom many, though not all are honest and efficient. Is there, therefore, not a "right" to save and a "right" to honest enterprise, which are a important to these humans as the right to labor is to the laborer?

I think that it is fair enough to reduce or pass dividends and execute "bonuses" before touching ordinary wages. That is a risk of the profit receiver.

It is not easy, however, to say that the individual who has invested his savings in a bond should have to give up his interest in order to pay full wages. That might kill capital and credit, and labor needs these as much as they need labor.

Wages (above a decent subsistence) must come out of the product of labor, or else we must "live on our capital." The latter alternative in time would mean ruin to all industry.

PENNSYLVANIA OIL RAISED

South Penn Oil Company and Tide Water Pipe Company, Ltd., today announced an increase in prices of all grades of Pennsylvania crude oil of 10 cents a barrel. The new prices are: Bradford-Allegany district, $2.10; Central Pennsylvania, $2.02; Southwest Pennsylvania, $1.77; Eureka Pipe Lines, $1.71; Buckeye Pipe Lines, $1.56.

The South Penn Company and Tidewater Pipe announced that the ratable or allowable production of all grades of eastern Pennsylvania crude that they are willing to buy for September will be 125 per cent. This is the first time since November 1931, that the allowable has been over 100 per cent.

OIL CITY, Aug. 11.—Oil interests declare that with the Pennsylvania grade crude production running approximately 4,000 barrels daily below July consumption, stocks of oil are exhausted.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The New York Federal Reserve Bank announced no change in the rediscount rate of 2½ per cent.

'CLEAN HOUSE,' PIT TOLD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—Dissatisfaction with the proposed code of competition presented by grain exchanges was voiced today by George N. Peek, chief farm administrator, who declared further steps were necessary "to clean house."

At the same time, he told newspapermen that governing bodies of grain exchanges should exclude from their membership persons actively engaged "in trading and speculation." He described this as "an essential change."

Some exchanges, he said, now have conduct committees from which active traders and speculators have been excluded, but he added that the Chicago Board of Trade, the largest trading center in the country, is "not one of them."

Peek added that representatives of exchanges have shown a "disposition to co-operate in reforming exchange practices," and that he believes many changes are necessary in order to "justify public confidence in the exchanges as the principal market for the farmer's grain."

RETAIL AUTO SALES GAIN

DETROIT, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—While automobile production during the surrent week has shown a moderate decline, says Cram's automotive reports, retail sales showed another surprising advance. Used car sales also showed another gain, the reports say, "indicating a significant rise in purchasing power."

An aggregate production for August of 225,000 units is indicated. Of truck sales and production, the analysis says:

"According to the current trend, an approximate total of 37,000 units in new commercial car registrations will be recorded for August, an increase of about 2,000 units or 6 per cent over July, and about 22,000 units or 147 per cent over the August, 1932, volume.

"In contrast to the passenger car field, the truck market has shown no inclination to yield to seasonal influences. The outlook is bright for substantial increases in volume during the early autumn months."

National Wealth Likely To Turn Upward This Year

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The total national wealth of the United States is expected in government circles to turn upward during 1933, arresting a downward trend which has continued uninterruptedly since 1929.

Basis for this belief is the relationship that national wealth has always borne to the scale of price levels. Charts prepared from various estimates, including an official one by the Bureau of the Census, reveal that national wealth very closely parallels price levels.

The last estimate of national wealth by the National Industrial Conference Board placed the total at $247,300,000,000 at the end of 1932, the lowest recent level since 1915 when the board's estimate was $200,200,000,000. The latest official estimate by the Census Bureau was for 1922, which placed the total at $321,000,000,000, or $2,918 per capita.

Real Estate In First Place

The list of items entering into a national inventory consists of real estate and the equipment, including buildings, of farms, mines, factories, other business organizations, and homes. In other words, the stock of durable goods in existence plus an allowance for the current stock of non-durable goods.

Real estate and its improvements occupy the first place in importance, constituting more than half the total. The primary source of information regarding the value of real estate is its assessment for taxation. These assessments usually fall below the real value of the property, and the reported figures are augmented by percentages varying in different parts of the country, and which represent the best local judgment of the prevailing divergence of assessed from true valuation. To such figures are added further allowances to represent tax-exempt property.

Next Census To Cover 1932

Every other item on the list is handled in somewhat similar manner. For some categories, such as clothing, furniture and similar property, resort was had to questionnaires sent to many individuals throughout the states from which per capita figures were computed and applied to the population at large.

The official estimate of the census bureau is made every 10 years. In the normal course of events an estimate would have been made for 1932, but some question exists here as to whether the estimate will be made. Until it is, any information subsequent to 1922 must be based on a reasonable consideration of progress since that year.

FOREIGN SALES HIT COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Cotton futures opened barely steady, 11 @15 points decline on lower Liverpool cables and under liquidation and foreign selling. October, 9.60; December, 9.84; January, 9.90; March, 10.05; May, 10.23; July, 10.39.

Houses with continental, Far Eastern and Liverpool connections were among the early sellers, along with some scattered offerings by the South and commission houses. The initial offerings were quite promptly taken by trade buying and demand from houses with New Orleans and Western connections.

Wall street houses were also buyers during the early trading, but rallies of some 8 to 10 points met further liquidation and the market at the end of the first half hour showed net losses of 8 to 12 points on the active positions.

The action of the wheat market was reflected in the cotton market, prices sagging under liquidation and scattered selling, presumably by local and Wall street sources. General business was comparatively quiet and offerings were absorbed by scale down buying from trade or commission house sources. At midday December was holding around 9.81 with the general list showing net losses of about 15 to 20 points. The New York Cotton Exchange Service estimates domestic consumption of all growth for July at 580,000 bales against 696,000 in June, and 279,000 in July, last year.

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 11.—Cotton, 3,000 bales, American nil. Spot quiet; prices 13 points lower; quotations in pence: American strict good middling, 6.65; good middling, 6.35; strict middling, 6.05; middling, 5.90; strict low middling, 5.75; low middling, 5.55; strict good ordinary, 5.35; good ordinary, 5.05. Futures closed quiet. October, 5.59; December, 5.63; January, 5.65; March, 5.69; May, 5.72; July, 5.75.

TRADE UPSWING UNDER WAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—(AP.)—The business upswing which continued for 16 weeks has been resumed after a brief pause caused by uncertainties surrounding the new industrial codes and a restricted seasonal recession in some lines, Dun & Bradstreet, inc., said today in its weekly trade review.

Extension of retail and wholesale distribution has been wider than was commonly reported, the review said, and rested on a real need for merchandise rather than a speculative desire to seek advantage of any probable fluctuations in price trends.

Looking ahead, the agency envisaged the straightening of the upward sales curve in the opening fall months as more than counterbalancing any slackening that may appear in the next few weeks. The review said:

"Retail trade has continued to hold the gains made during the last several weeks, having been bolstered sturdily by the generous response to the August clearance sales which have been general throughout the country."

"Increasing buying power has served to check the usual midsummer decline in evidence at this period and department stores are holding volume to an increasingly greater extent at a level above that for the comparative period last year."

PREMIERE -:- Gripping Story of Life Behind The Scenes at Hollywood -:- By ROBERT TERRY SHANNON

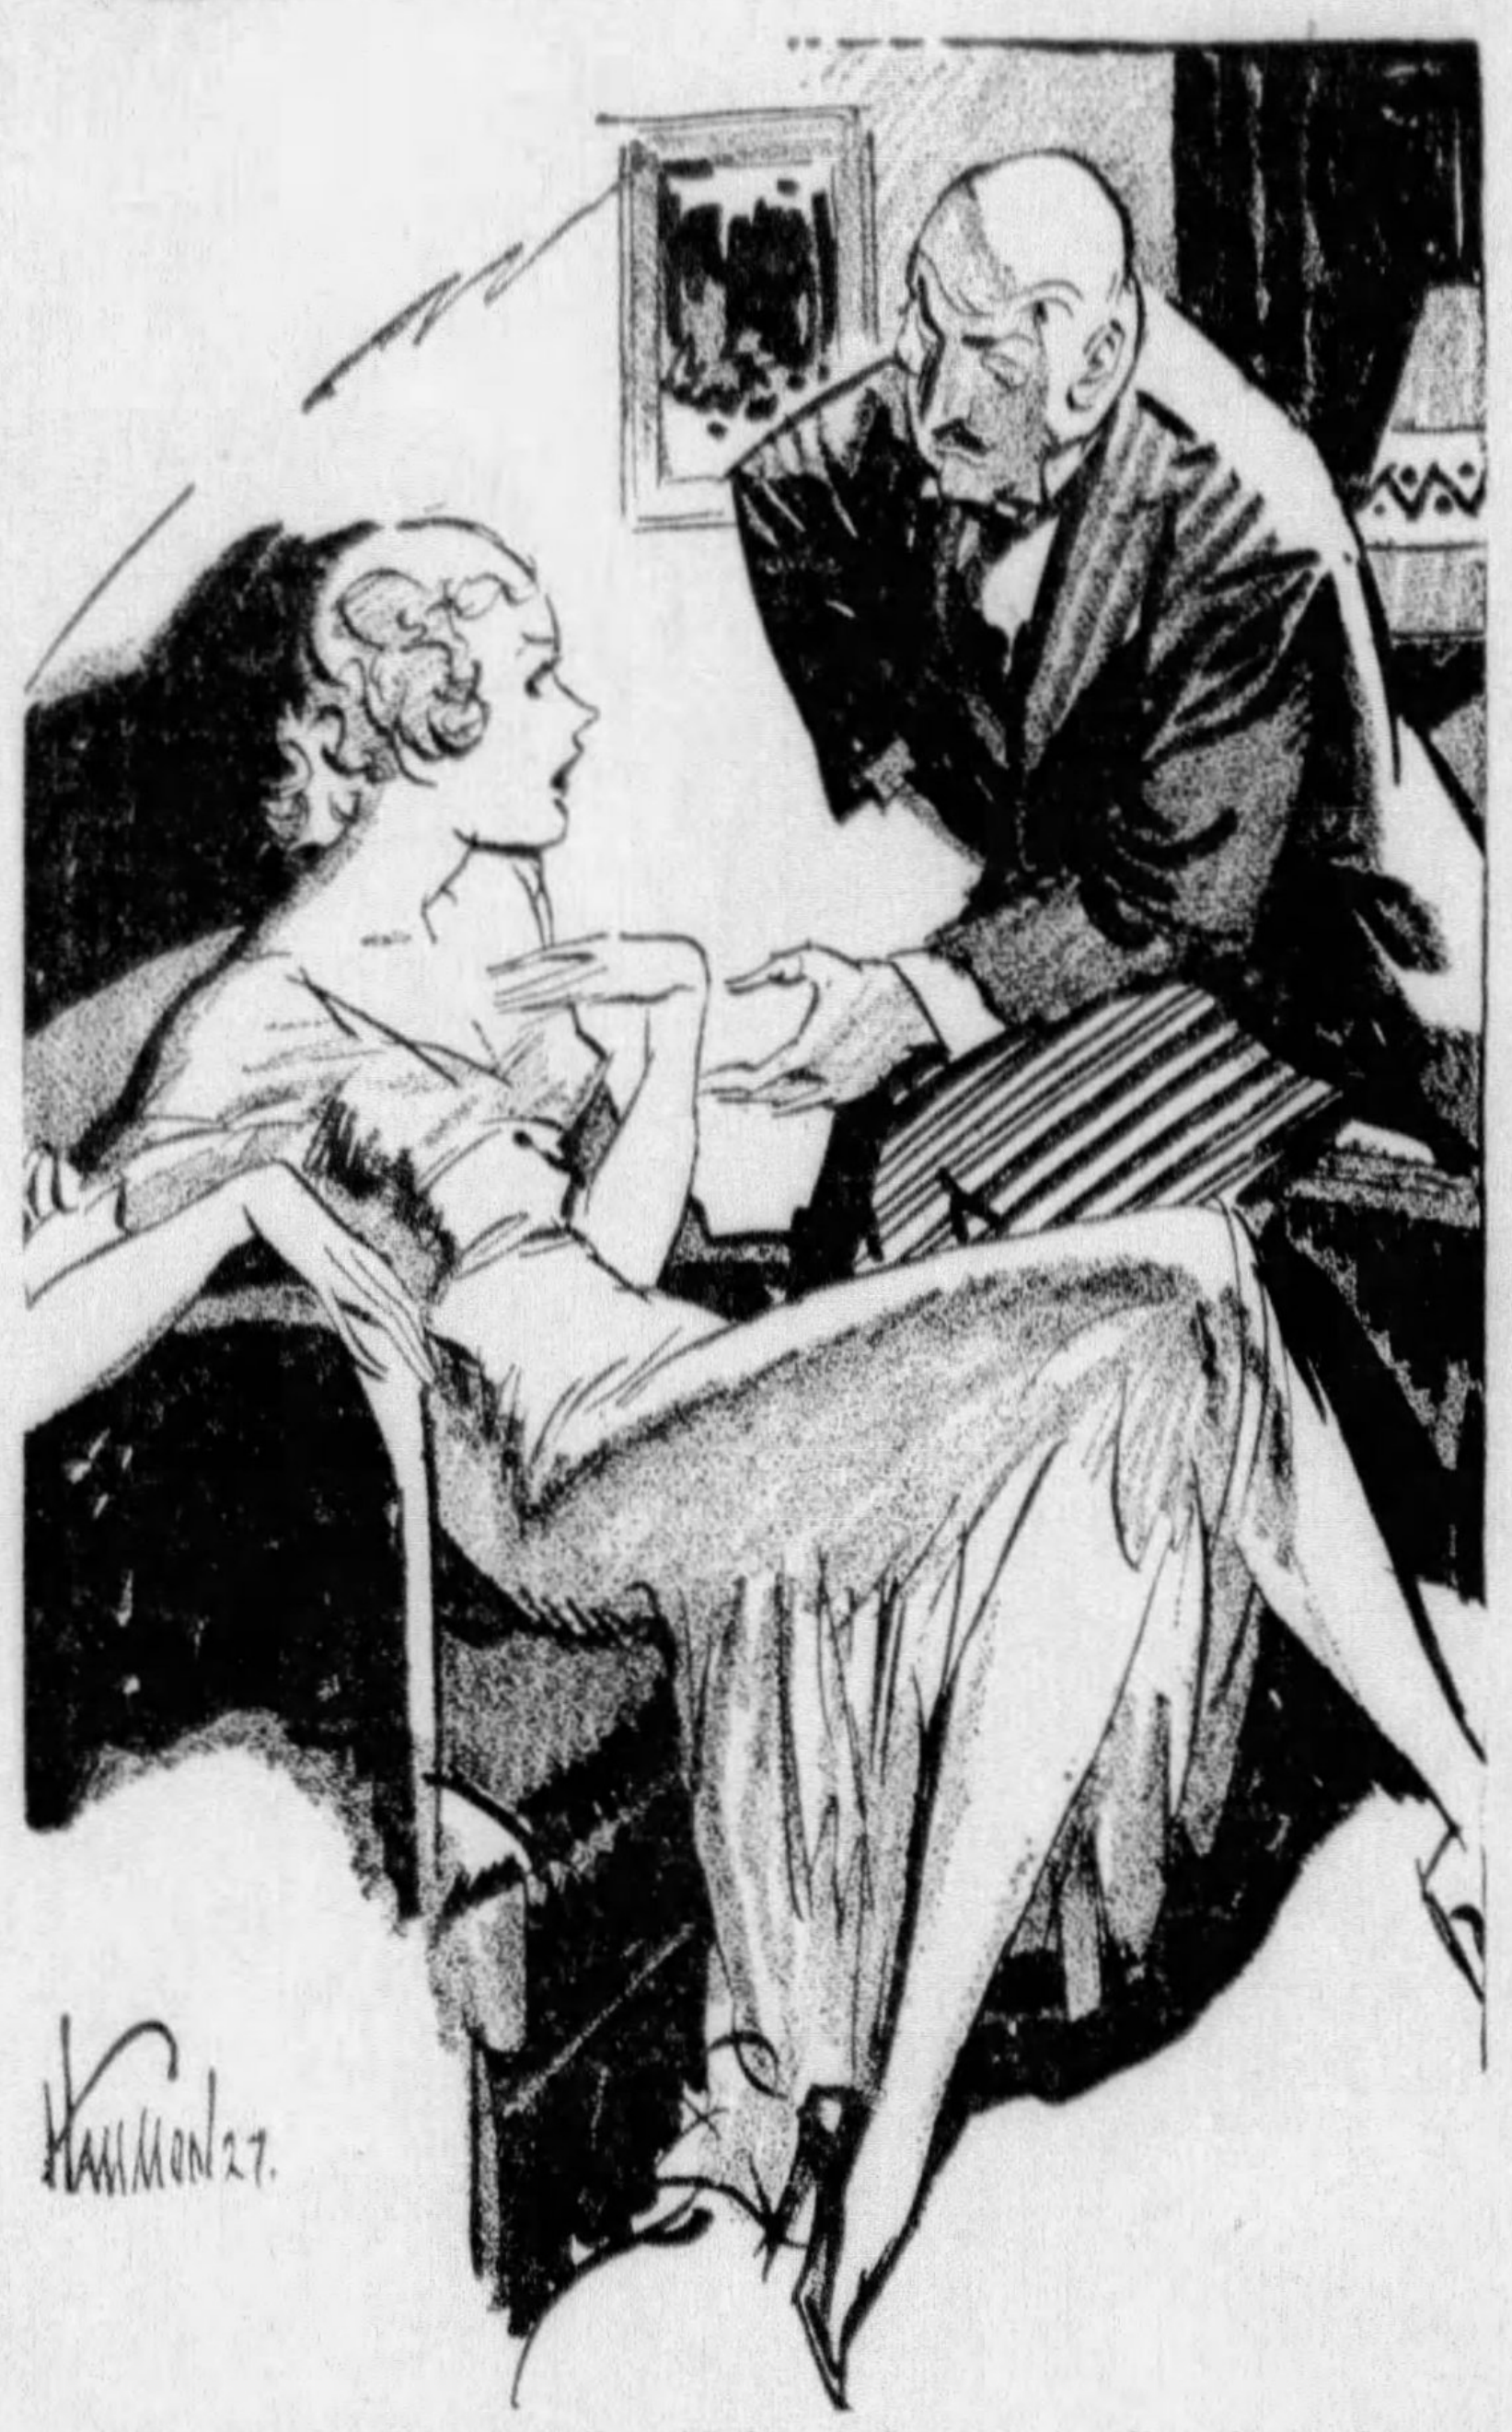
CHAPTER XXVI.

"I don't know anything about outside women — but I know everything about actresses like you. I know you like a diamond broker knows a stone. Your kind has passed through my hands daily for the last 20 years. You bought a ticket to Hollywood and we did the rest. Somebody gave you a job, somebody dressed you and made you up and pointed a camera at you. We paid you and groomed you and publicized you. All you did was stay alive and do what we told you. We painted you like an artist paints a portrait in a gilt frame. Hollywood has a thousand pretty waitresses who could be in your shoes today if given the breaks."



"But why—why can't I go?" her voice was a vibrating echo.

She shivered. He had succeeded in inoculating her with a feeling of inferiority. About the only thing that remained was a suffocating desire to escape.

"If I amount to so little as that," she said, with a shriveled feeling in her breast, "let me get out of all this."

His eyes tightened. Restlessness came upon him and he walked around the room.

From the corner of her eye Leni observed him. In his movements was the faint suggestion of an animal trainer with a whip in his hand.

"You can't get out of it because you belong where you are,' he lashed at her cruelly. "If an engine gets off the track it goes smash. The same thing would happen to you. You think you're a woman—free, white and twenty-one! You aren't You're just a flickering photograph printed on a strip of celluloid, a thousand feet to a reel. I'm the same thing. We belong to a strange tribe At anything else we're no good. I'm telling you! Were a race of people and we're all crazy. It's something in the blood that makes us different from the outsiders. If you break loose the only thing you'll take with you will be your body. The living part of you will stay behind out on the lot."

LENI CONFUSED

Something had happened to Leni's common sense. The cold logic with which she might have answered Gerstenfield was swallowed up in a palpitating excitement.

His words kept pouring into her like a strong drink, confusing the brain and distorting all reality. She became a stringed harp which his hand plucked to produce blended harmony and discord. He was striking from her soul odd strains never before heard in her secret self. The man was neither good nor evil. He was the wild eerie tone of a gypsy violin.

"But why—why can't I go?" her voice was a vibrating echo.

"Because you daren't!"

The silent voice from the deep pit of her soul kept trying to tell her that this was a lie—that she loved Lucky Cavanaugh—that she was through forever with the pictures! Now or never was the time to rise, to break the shackles, to struggle out of suffocation into clear air and sunlight . . .

Leni brought herself up to her feet. This time Gerstenfield did not touch her. The struggle between them would be settled by a stronger force than physical contact.

"Right or wrong—I'm going to him," she said out of her pallor.

Gerstenfield moved a hand slightly, as though brushing it through cobwebs.

"How like you! You think you'll help this man Cavanaugh by going to him at police headquarters. Remember, he is charged with murdering a woman. You go down and present yourself to the police and they, in turn, hand you over to the newspapers. And what do you become? A questionable woman spattered with dirty notoriety! Would you help him any?"

Synopsis

At the premiere of her latest picture, Leni Luneska, beautiful star, is stunned by the appearance of her criminal husband, Karl Kruger. Lucky Cavanaugh, gambler, who has just seen Leni for the first time, tries to make Kruger leave. Later Cavanaugh goes to see Kruger, waiting in a small office. Kruger rushes away from Cavanaugh and surprises burglars in the next office. One of them shoot him to death. Detective Mulrooney, well acquainted with Cavanaugh, gives him four days to find the killer or be arrested himself. Lucky takes Leni home. Lucky is warned that the killer is after him to prevent him from "squealing." Kruger's murderer lies in wait to kill Lucky. Lucky, arriving home, finds a jealous woman, named Annette, waiting for him. Steve Poletzki, the killer, aims at Lucky through a window and kills Annette by mistake. Next morning, Leni is swamped with congratulatory messages on the premiere. Her success is assured, but more important to her than that is Cavanaugh's love for her. Herman Gerstenfield, noted director, calls. He tries to persuade Leni to sign a new contract.

NOW GO ON

Fiery and devastating intoxication had possession of Gerstenfield and everything he said carried directness and vigor and energy.

"If you go—you'll be just one more woman for Cavanaugh to explain away to the police," he said. "You rush to him in your emotional blindness—your stupidity—and defeat your own purpose."

Leni had no answer to an argument such as this. Incontestably the man was correct. Yet this was not enough to still the twisting ache in her heart.

GERSTENFIELD SCOFFS

"But he needs me!"

"Needs you!" scoffed Gerstenfield. "He needed you last night when he received that woman in his apartment. What a fool you are, Leni. You break your heart while he—while he——"

A rudimentary sense of pity for the first time entered into Gerstenfield's voice and checked what he was saying.

The radiant gold of Leni's head bent forward a little. Last night unreeled itself, a tangled skein of triumph and terror and a meagre measure of radiant bliss and devouring eagerness that she and Cavanaugh had named love.

Incredibly, it was scarcely 12 hours ago that she had been with him and was filled with tenderly patient desire. Every cell in her body was again aching with uncontrollable longing to be with him again—as soon as possible.

"I know this must be love—the kind of thing I've always dreamed about," she said aloud, as though Gerstenfield had not been present. "If what you say is true—then I wouldn't care. You convince my mind—I can't answer you when you say those things to me. But what you tell me is a lie."

She looked straight into his burning eyes. It was so easy to understand how he could dominate the lives of thousands of studio people. There was no question of deceit in what he was saying now. He believed himself.

And the only help on earth for Leni against him was her woman's instinct and the little glow of warmth that lingered in her slow-beating heart.

"You think I'm wrong, because I tell you something unpleasant," he declared. "I hurt you—and I'm sorry. If I thought you belonged to Cavanaugh I'd send you to him in spite of hell and high water. But you don't. You belong in the pictures—you belong with me."

"With you?"

Her voice was hollow, dazed.

Gerstenfield did not answer at once. For a split second his gaze wavered. Then he reached out and took one of Leni's hands. His clasp carried no message whatever to her; it had no more significance than the feel of a glove.

"With me—because I am your friend," said Gerstenfield in a voice she had never heard before from his lips. "A creature as beautiful as you can find love and lovers on every corner—if that is what you want. How many friends have you? One, two, three—or none?"

Leni's voice became uncontrollable.

"Heaven knows I need a friend!"

The Junior Patrol Mail Box

The Captain of every Junior Patrol Club is entitled to have one of these black and orange emblems. The only rules are, you have to have 10 members of the Junior Patrol on your roll and you have to be elected at a meeting by the members. It is the same with lieutenants.

Fellows, we have been wondering whether you are looking up new clubs and new members in your neighborhoods. A good Junior Patrol member will try to be friends with other members. Only if we have a big gang of real friends can we have a strong club, and be truly successful. When you see a new Captain and Patrol named here in the Mail Box who lives near you, write him a letter, or maybe even go to see him.

Maybe we can begin to have district meetings soon. All the clubs and captains in one district, like East Liberty or Ambridge or Beaver Falls or Swissvale can get together for a meeting all together.

A lot of clubs meeting together like that ought to have a swell lot of fun. You could make new friends, exchange ideas, and go on hikes, trips, and play games with each other.

Do you know what to do on rainy days? Some kids we know don't know what to do with themselves. They just sit around the house and wish the sun would shine again so that they could run around outside. A rainy day is always the best day to do things inside that you can't do outside. For instance, we know kids who have a wonderful [illegible] playing store. They make all kinds of things, cut them out of magazines, and then sell them back and forth to each other in exchange for play money they make th[illegible] or cut out of the comic papers. And a rainy day is always a good time to read, too, or to sew or paste up one's stamp collection.

Isn't Snuggins quite the feller, though? Wonder what he will find to do with that twenty dollars they gave him for giving the alarm? Something nice, we'll bet. We haven't heard from Junior for quite a while. Usually, when a fellow is having a wonderful [illegible] doesn't have time to write, so Junior is probably having lots of fun in the country.

Here's a nice letter today from Walter Apt, of 916 Savannah avenue, Wilkinsburg. He writes:

"I am very happy to be a member of the Junior Patrol. I am going to move to 216 S. Cedar street, Nevada, Mo., sometime this month. I hope I'm the longest-distance member. I will try to start a club there. Goodbye."

We're going to be mighty sorry to lose you, Walter, but our loss will be Missouri's gain. If you can start a club out there it will be the first one in the West. Let us know how you get along and please write often, Walter. We don't know if you are the longest-distance member yet—we'll have to look it up. Lots of luck, pal.

And Jean Yoder, of 1337 Orchard avenue, New Kensington, writes:

"I am sending my membership pledges, and I am going to start a patrol. I am a Girl Scout, and I love to go for 'hikes' I will try to get 10 members and will try to think of interesting things to do. I can play the piano, and one of my favorite pastimes is saving stamps. I have quite a collection, and so does my sister. I read the Junior Patrol Mail Box and enjoy it a lot."

That's the right spirit, Jean, and if you keep it up you should have one of our best patrols. Going for hikes is not only good exercise and lots of fun, but you learn to see and love nature and all the out-of-doors. And saving stamps is a very good hobby to learn geography and many other interesting things. Half the fun of being a Patrol Captain is the chance you have of thinking up new things for your club to do.

Belgium is very enthusiastic about America's new ambassador, D. Hennen Morris, because he plays the violin.

Perhaps the United States would have gotten on better if this country had been represented at the London Economic Conference by Duke Ellington's orchestra.

And we ought to try Al Jolson as Ambassador to Paris. He might get down on one knee and sing them into paying their debts.

Some are lazy, some alert,
Some are foggy, some are pert,
Some like dignified repose,
Some keep sniffling, some just doze,
Some snore loudly, some just growl,
Some whine sadly, some must howl,
Some chase rabbits, some chase cats,
Some stay home, some go on bats,
Some are man dogs, some are poodle,
But I like the whole caboodle.

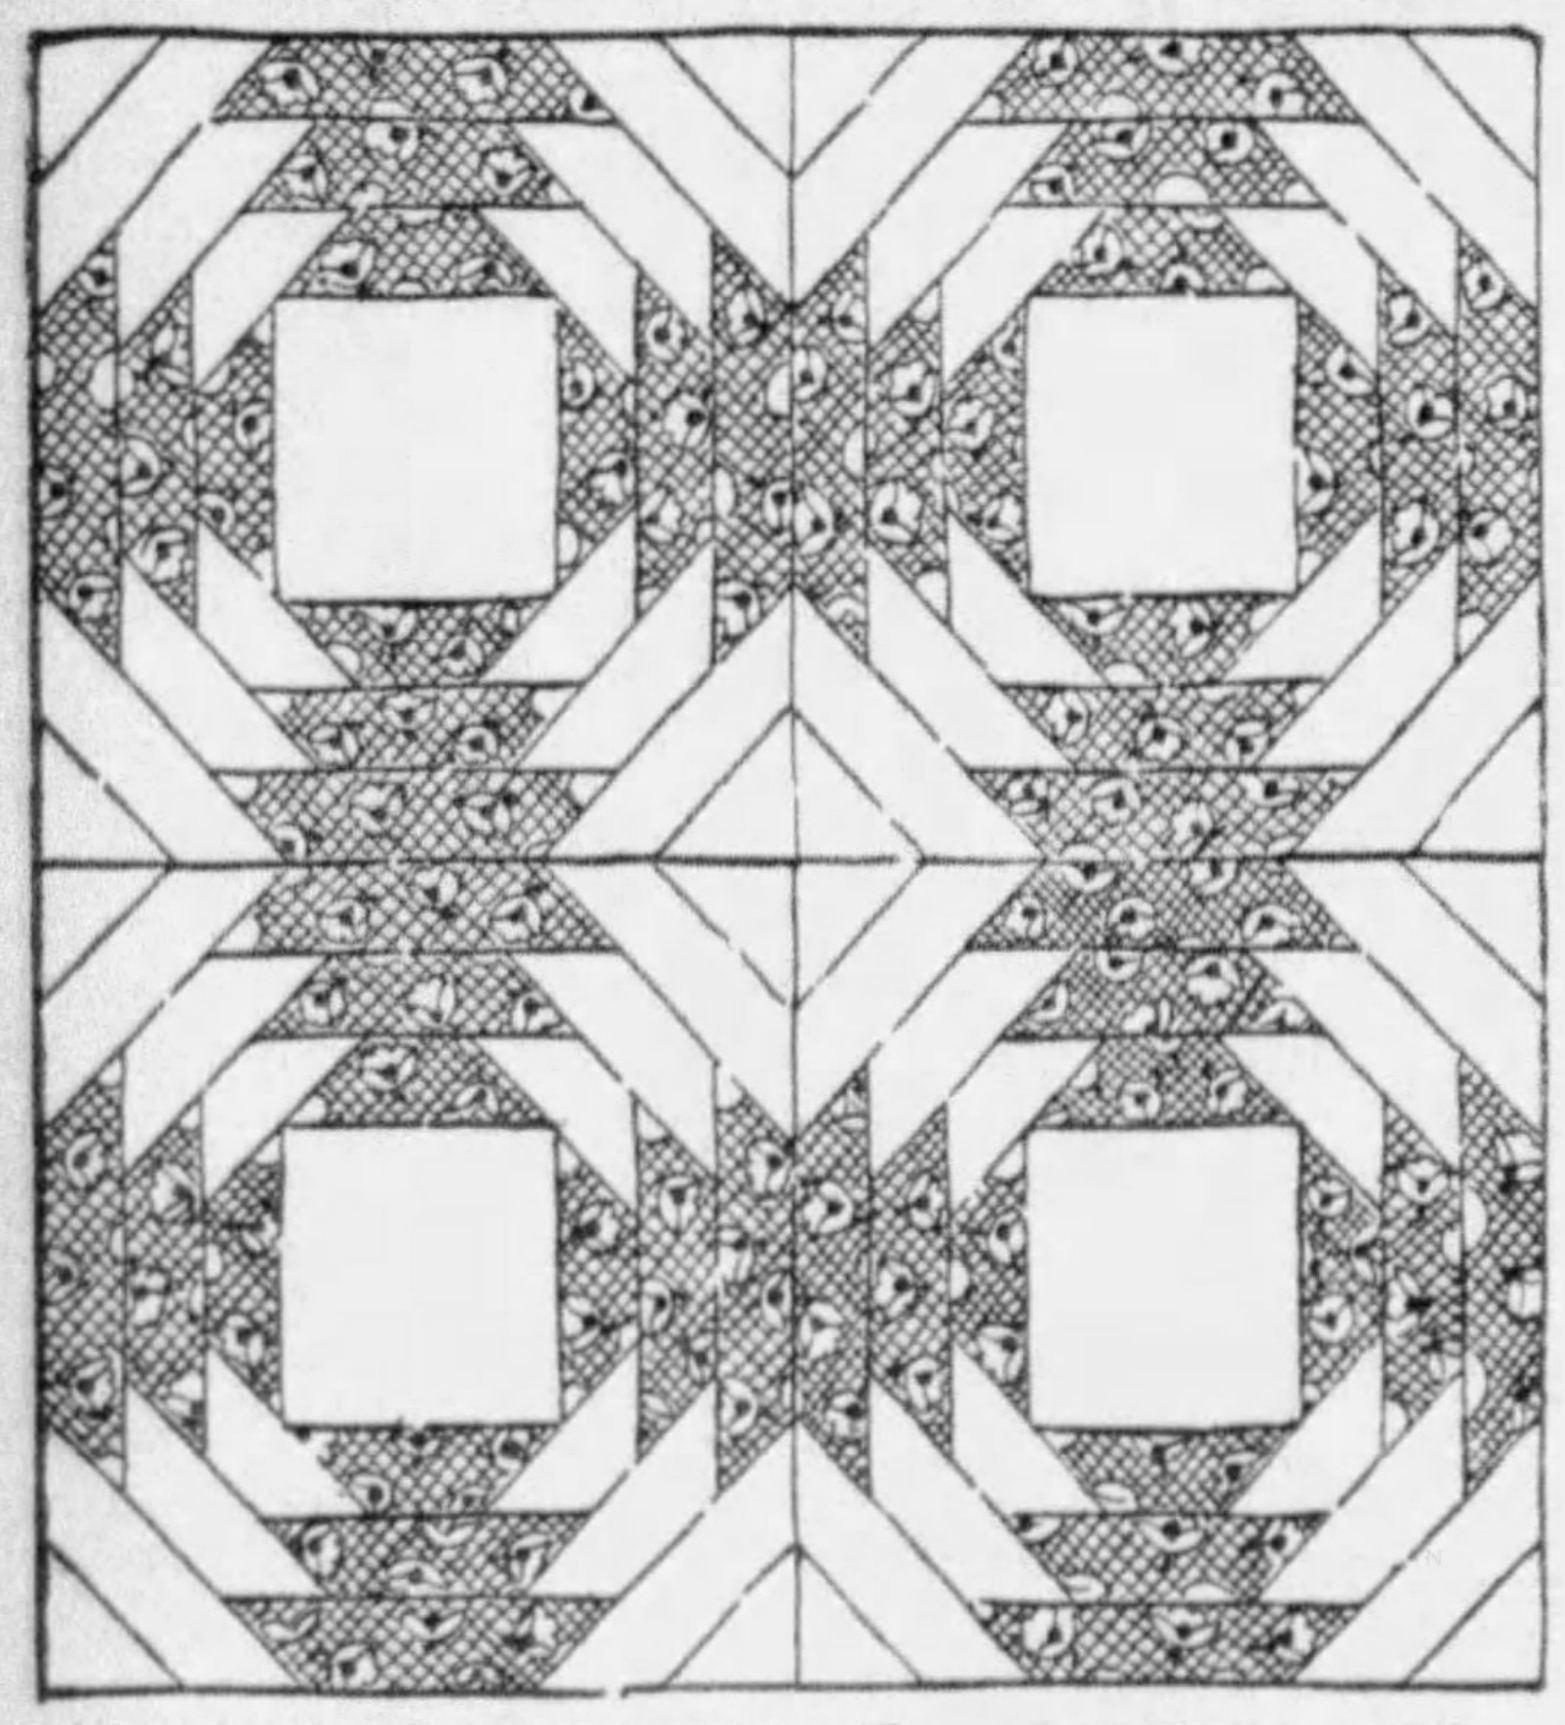
PATCHWORK QUILT PATTERN



WASHINGTON PAVEMENT PATTERN 457

By LAURA WHEELER

Washington Pavement is one of those handsome quilt patterns that though exceedingly simple to do, results in an ornate pattern. Like the Pineapple pattern, it is made of patches that to a great extent are all the same width, making it possible to cut the material into strips, and then cut the patches from these. The pattern lends itself either to two materials or to shaded effects, in which case scraps of material can be used effectively.

Pattern 457 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

Send 10c for this pattern to Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth avenue, New York City.

New Millionaires Are Smart

We just learned that most of our great American fortunes were founded during depressions.

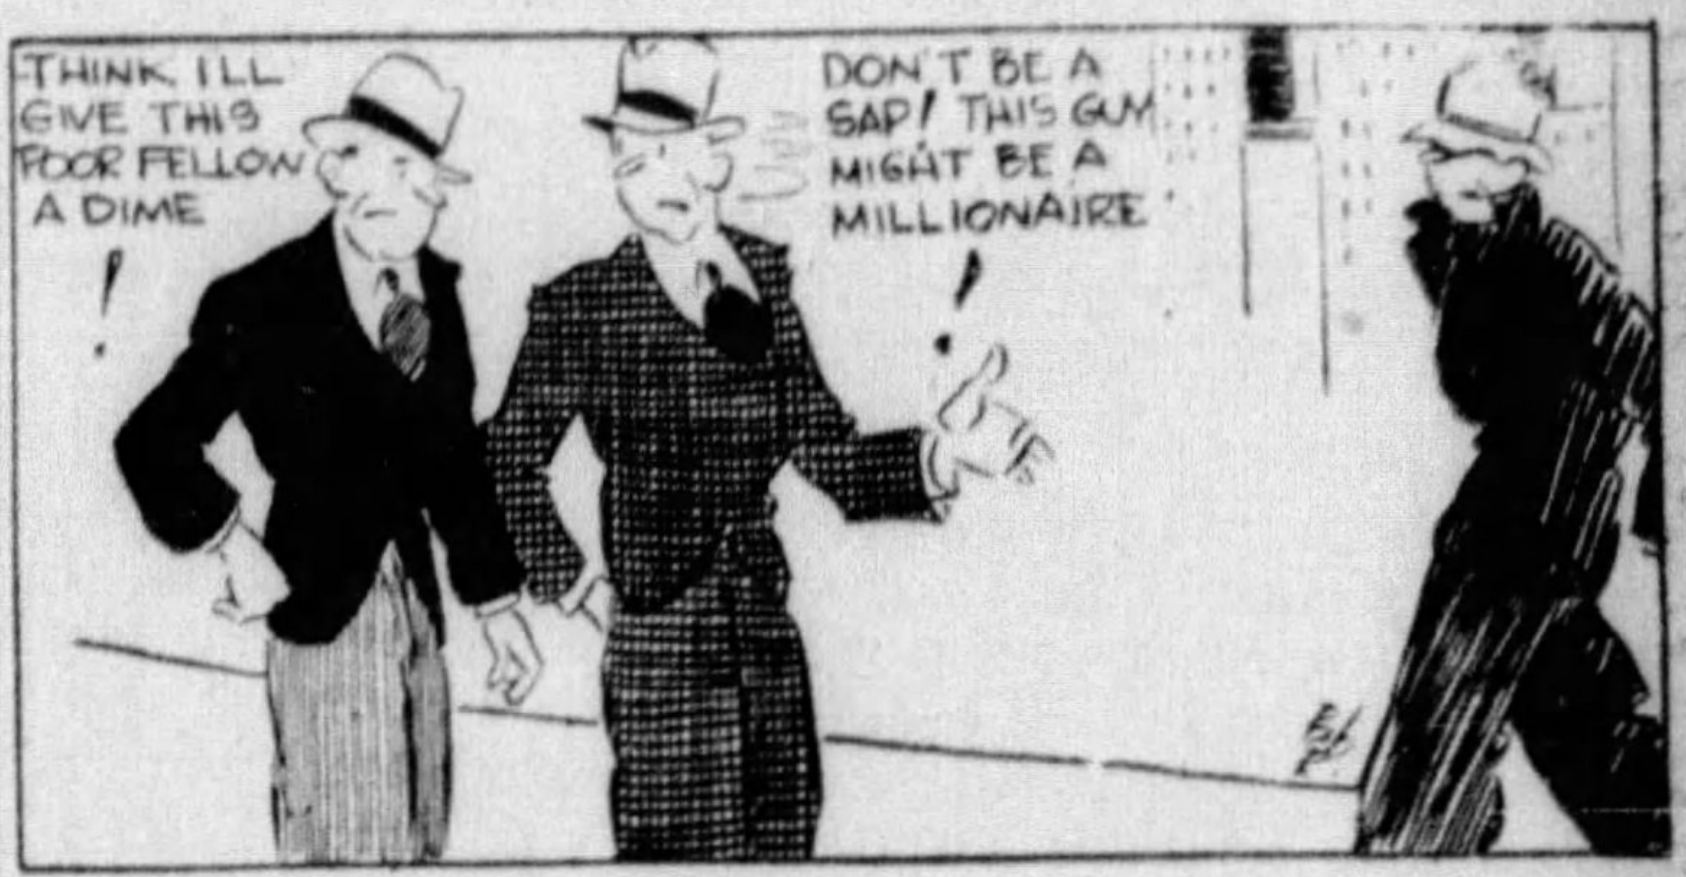
As usual, we discover the meat in the nut after the squirrel has thrown the shell away. It's too late now to use the information and it's a shame we didn't know it around 1930.

We will pack away the sudden knowledge for use around 1950. In the meantime, we will watch out for the new crop of millionaires.

We haven't bumped into one single bird who will admit he has made any golden gravy since 1929. They are all scared of the light, festive touch. They won't even wave to you out of fast motor cars because they are afraid you might catch up to them at the first draw bridge.

Result has been snapping of many fragile friendships. The Smiths don't call on the Joneses and the Joneses appreciate it more than tongue can tell.

In the old days when a man made money his wife sprouted out like a desert cactus in the rain. She got servants, jewels, satins and became a stately nail in the golden hosshoe in the Metropolitan.



THINK I'LL GIVE THIS POOR FELLOW A DIME
DON'T BE A SAP! THIS GUY MIGHT BE A MILLIONAIRE

They wanted to show the folks how well they were doing. Now, it's different. Mrs. Smith says, "Oscar, don't invite anybody for dinner tonight. I want to wear my diamonds."

If they have a yacht they give it a rough, lumber finish, cover it with seaweed and let the engine get rusty. Even though it cost a million dollars and has a crew of fifty they compel the men to grow beards and draw lots to see who is going to be eaten first. When they pass another boat they take off their shirts and wave them. They want people to think they're shipwrecked.

Wealthy people are renting their big mansions and are living in the tool houses. This sudden bicycle riding and roller skating isn't a fad. It's a disguise. Trail any of your friends on their bicycles until they turn the next corner. A big, twenty thousand dollar motor car is waiting for them there. They climb in and their third butler steps out of the car and rides the bikecycle home.

We used to praise the millionaires who didn't put on any lugs. Now, we're wise to them. The rascals are playing possum.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
40% of Pennsylvania's Bituminous Coal Produced Here

Protection for Boys

Secretary Carr Has Done Well in Arguing for Prohibition Of Child Labor in the Coal Industry.

Charlotte E. Carr, secretary of labor and industry of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, presented an able argument at the hearing in Washington on the bituminous coal industry code in favor of including in the code a clause for the prevention of child labor in the industry.

Secretary Carr called for the prohibition inside the mines of the employment of any child under 18 years of age, prohibition outside the mines of the employment of any child under 18 on occupations adjudged to be hazardous, and of any child under 16 whether the occupations be hazardous or not.

If the actions of the members of the Legislature at the recent session were to be considered as accurately representative of the wishes of the citizens in respect to this matter, it would be a fair inference that the people of Pennsylvania are not much interested in the prohibition of child labor, and that Miss Carr spoke without authority. For the Legislature showed indifference to proposals for restricting child labor further, and refused to act on the pending child labor amendment to the United States Constitution.

The charge was recently made in connection with the investigation of sweatshops in the clothing industry that sweatshops had come to Pennsylvania from New York because our child labor laws are less strict than those of New York. It was declared by a federal investigator that conditions here were as bad as in the South, where child labor has long been a hindrance to the welfare of the people.

In respect to child labor in the mines, however, Pennsylvania is not so backward, because the Industrial Board of the Department of Labor and Industry has gone a step beyond the statutory requirements and since last year has prohibited 21 types of work—12 inside the mine and nine outside—to boys under 18 years of age.

We are confident that the board will have public approval of this course, and we are also confident that Miss Carr, in her plea at the Washington hearing, represented the wishes of the people of Pennsylvania more faithfully than the Legislature did in rejecting the request that it ratify the child labor amendment to the Constitution.

Pennsylvania stands to gain much from the child labor clause that Secretary Carr proposes for the national bituminous coal code; for it would remove from mining work and send to school many Pennsylvania boys who otherwise would be employed by the coal companies, and so would make more jobs available for men. There would also be a greater demand for school teachers.

Boys should not be employed in the coal industry because of the danger, as well as for other reasons. In 1930, the last year for which statistics are available, 19 per cent of the boys under 18 employed in the industry in Pennsylvania were injured, as compared with 15 per cent for all the workers in the industry; and 23 per cent of the injuries received by the boys were severe, resulting in death, permanent disability, or the loss of a month or more of work. Furthermore, the proportion of accidents resulting in severe injuries was almost as great for work outside the mines as for work inside.

An occupation so hazardous is not suitable for boys.

A Fortune Distributed

The McAfee Will Shows How the Public May Benefit by Individual Accumulation of Wealth.

The will of Hugh McAfee, a glass manufacturer not very well known to the public, was filed yesterday, and was found to contain some pleasant surprises in the form of bequests to no less than 35 charitable, religious and welfare institutions in Pittsburgh.

Setting a good example of broad-minded humanitarianism, Mr. McAfee did not discriminate between races and religions, but gave of his accumulations to churches, hospitals and asylums representing all the chief divisions of our population.

We have here another example of the benefit that the public may derive from the accumulation of wealth by a single individual.

No Political Assessment

It Is Not Only Good News to the Payroll But to All Who Dislike Coercive Tactics.

Mayor John S. Herron has shown commendable regard for the decencies in announcing that city employes will not be assessed this year to help defray the expenses of the campaign.

This is good news for the payroll, and also to that part of the citizenship that dislikes the coercive tactics that have so long been associated with the spoils system of government in Pennsylvania.

Assessing the payroll is an old Pennsylvania custom that has been practiced for many years. A public position has been regarded as the perquisite of the boss who happened to be in power, to be given as the reward for fealty to one of his henchmen; and the natural corollary to this was that the boss had the right to call upon the job-holder to contribute to the war chest when a campaign was about to be undertaken.

Is it too much to hope that Herron's repudiation of the practice will put an end to it for good?

Summer Sharks

A Man-Eater Has Appeared in the Hudson, and New York Is Enjoying Its Annual Scare.

This being mid-summer, the annual shark has appeared in New York waters to scare bathers and fill a few inches of newspaper space.

This year's specimen was sighted recently in the North River.

He is 10 feet long, has the regulation fin, and when last seen was heading toward Albany from the neighborhood of Forty-second street.

The police have been notified, and are on their toes to apprehend him.

What a policeman does in an emergency like the present is not altogether clear.

There is nothing about sharks in the curriculum of the police academy.

A radio alarm is not of much help in running him down—the autos in which the Finest cruise the streets not being amphibious.

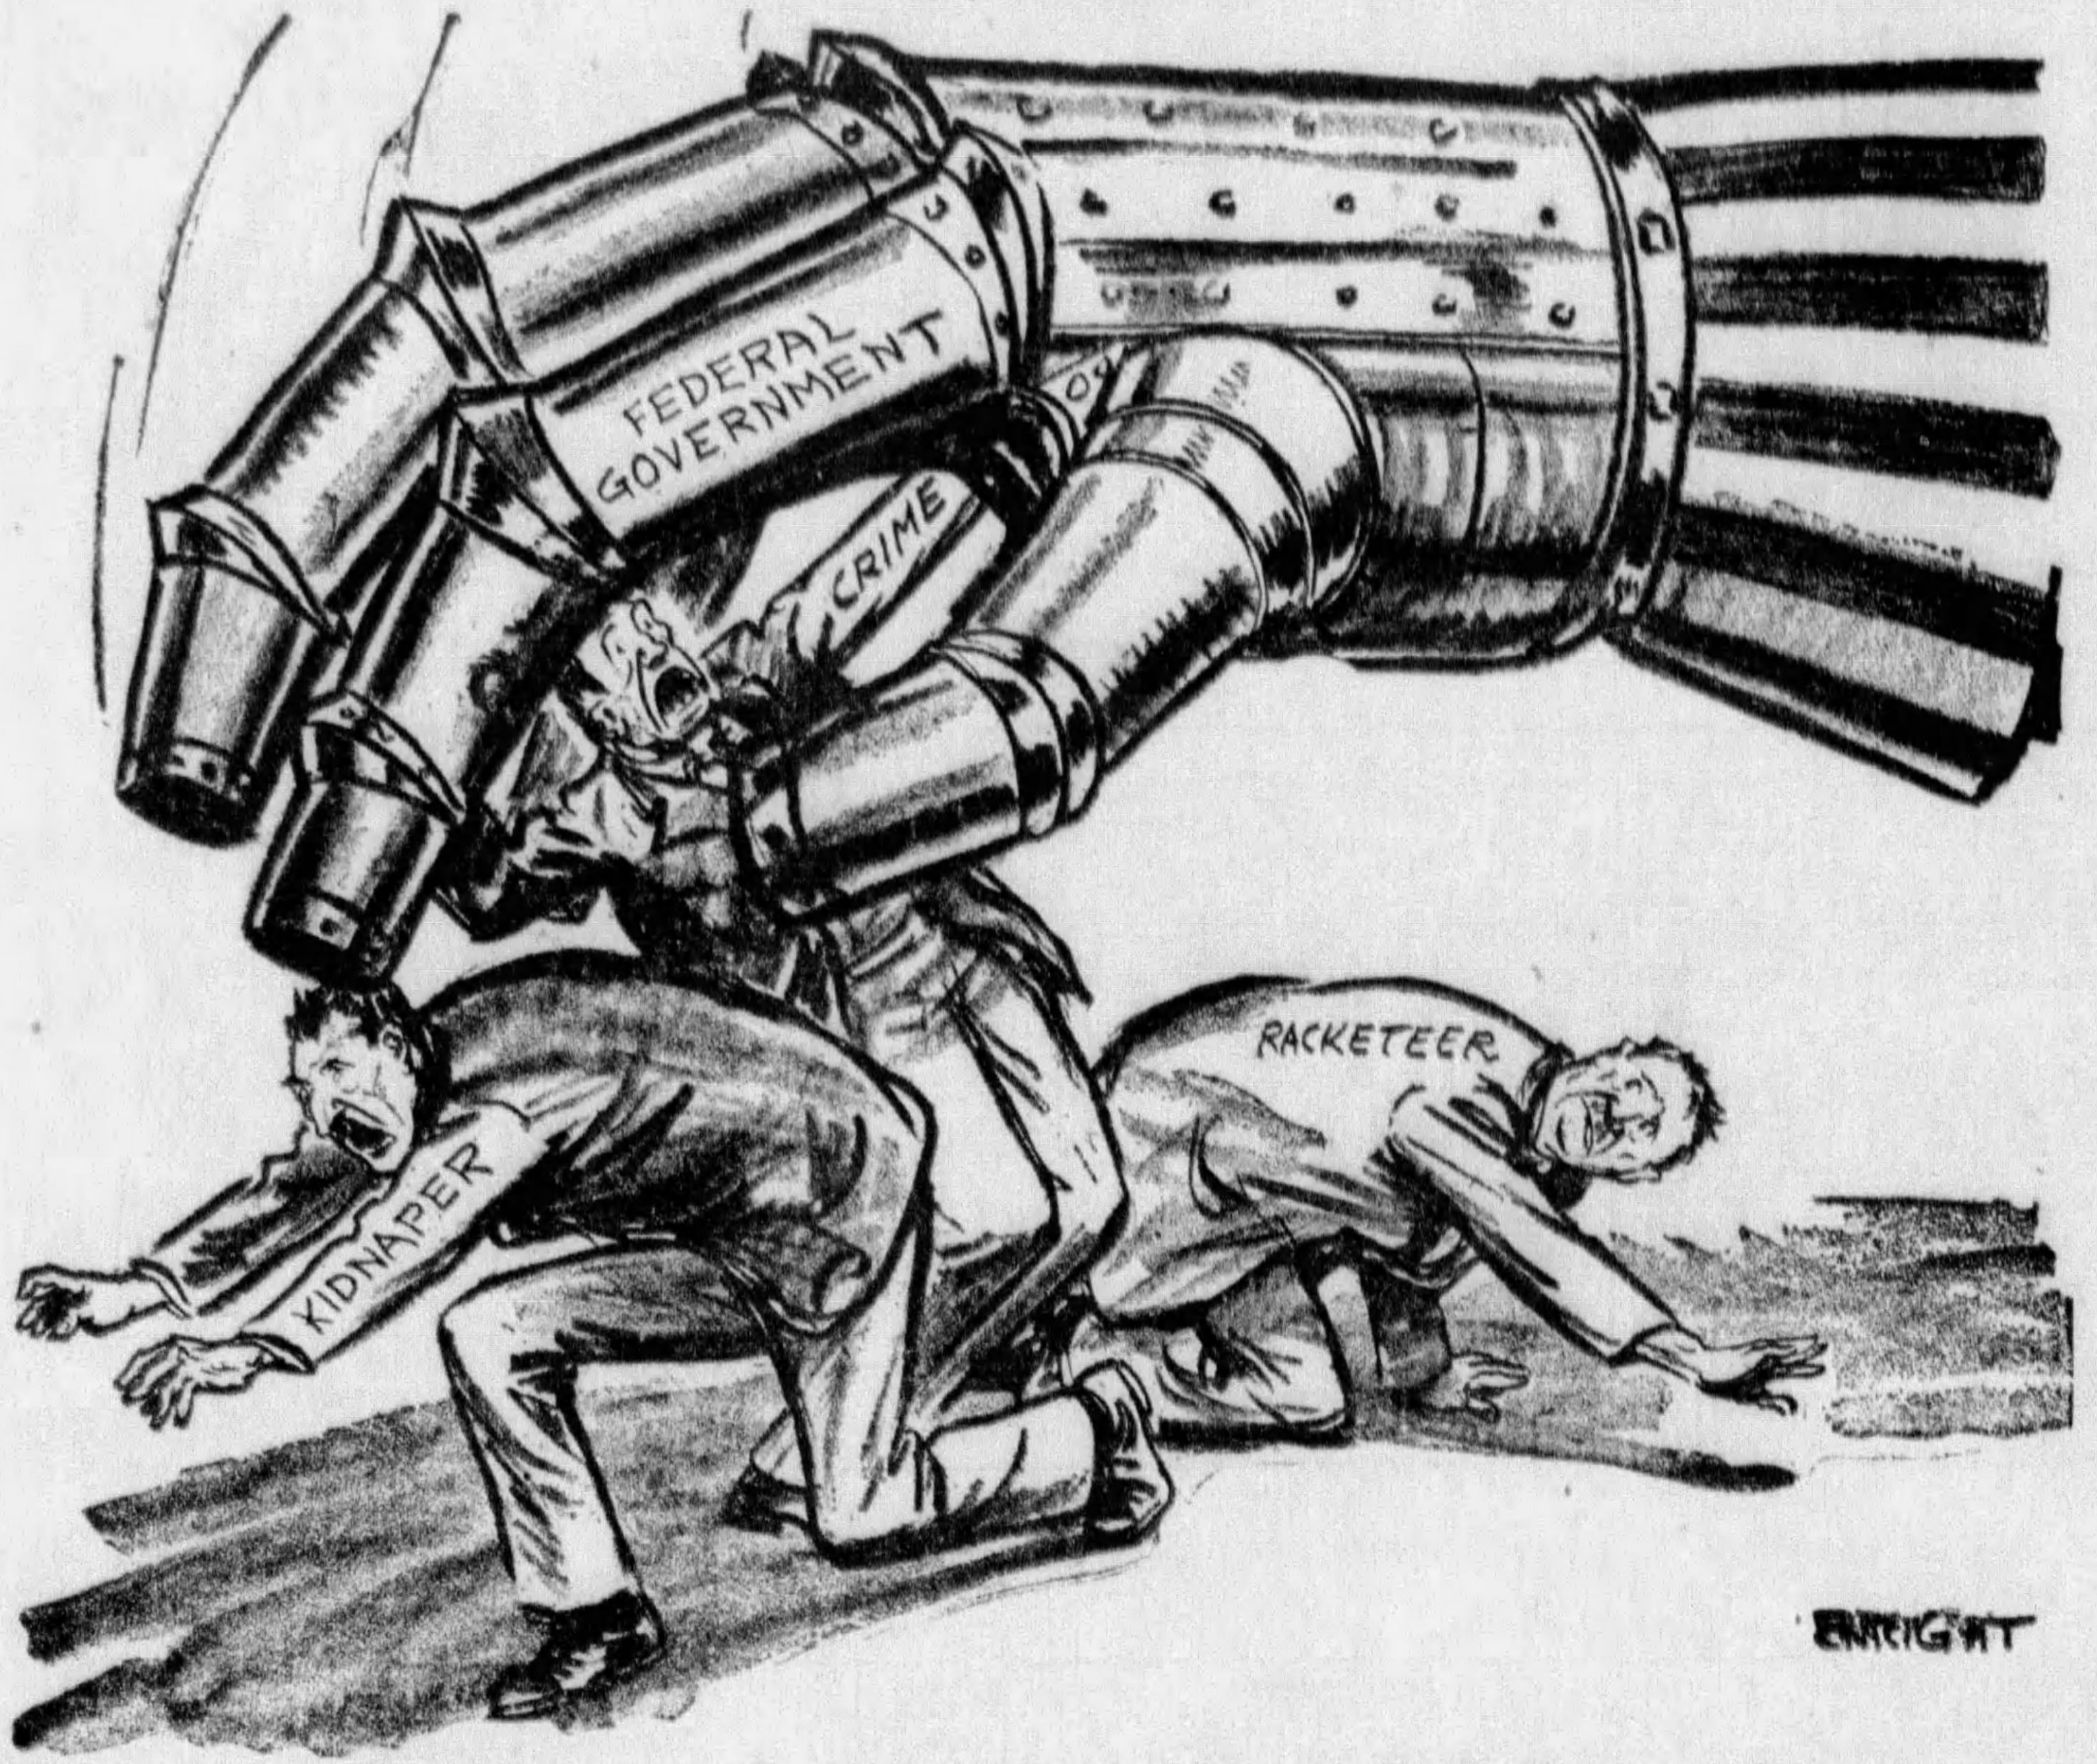
Maybe the Crime Prevention Bureau could be called in if the shark is under age.

If he is a hardened criminal—and we have an idea he is the same one who has been showing up in New York every summer since 1886—he would come under the Baumes Law.

Possibly he has decided to give himself up, and will drop in unexpectedly one of these days on Warden Lawes at Sing Sing.

The Winning Hand

(Copyright, 1933.)



Crime flourishes in America because we lack a centralized and efficient system of crime detection.

The anti-racketeering committee of the Federal Bar Association proposes drastic changes to remedy this great defect.

In a report prepared by its vice chairman, Franklin P. Russell, professor of law at Brooklyn Law School, the committee endorses the idea of an American "Scotland Yard" to proceed against law breakers.

In addition, the committee would amend the Federal Constitution so as to give the National Government concurrent jurisdiction with the States over homicide, kidnaping, racketeering, coercion, extortion and assault.

In support of these reforms in the execution of the criminal law the Bar Association committee says:

"There are many serious handicaps to the administration of justice in a State.

"The police officers, prosecuting attorneys and in some cases the judges (particularly of the lower judiciary), are frequently susceptible to influence of one sort or another.

"Probably few will dispute the statement that the criminal classes are much more afraid of the Federal Government than they are of the State authorities."

Coming from such a group this is an arraignment of our faulty legal system that government and the public must heed.

Organized crime must be crushed out of existence.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Out of the Letter-Box

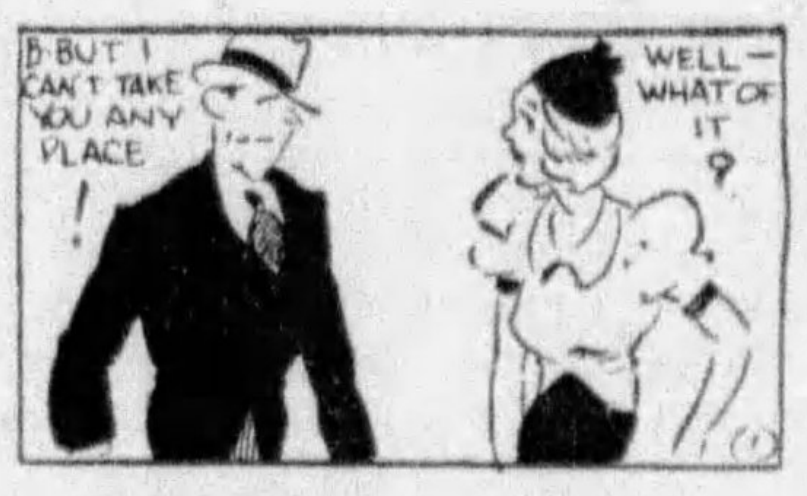
"Really, does a man ever marry a woman, whom he secretly believes to be his superior in intelligence, personality, station, looks, etc.?" writes an interesting young woman, who signs herself "A Nice Girl—Darn It!"

* * *

Certain-lee NOT, "Nice Girl!" But, where in the world did you ever FIND a man who actually believed THAT? Or a man who even suspected it?

* * *

Here is a girl after my own heart!

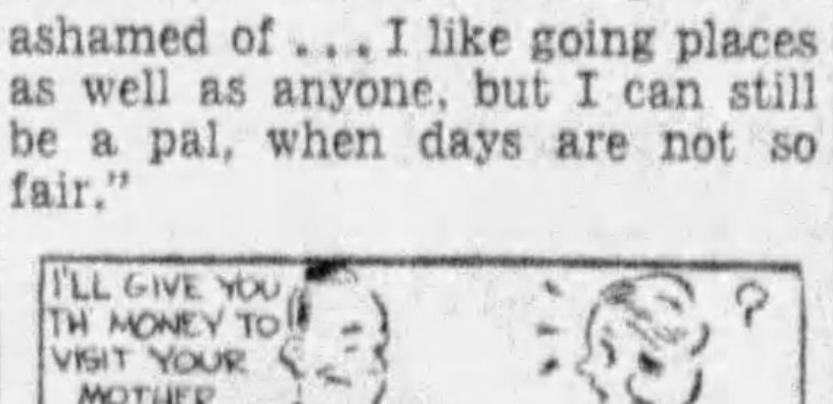


B-BUT I CAN'T TAKE YOU ANY PLACE !
WELL— WHAT OF IT ?

"During this depression," she writes, "there are many young men who are 'broke,' and who refrain from calling on girls on that account. I think they are foolish! If I cared for a man, I should like seeing him whether he had money or not. There are heaps of things which would prove entertaining and which would not cost anything.

* * *

"Being broke is nothing to be ashamed of . . . I like going places as well as anyone, but I can still be a pal, when days are not so fair."



I'LL GIVE YOU TH' MONEY TO VISIT YOUR MOTHER !

THAT'S a girl who appreciates that "equal rights" mean equal responsibilities—and who will make some man a swell 50-50 wife!

* * *

A man who signs himself "Smith" (but I'm sure that isn't his name) gives some illuminating advice on how to hold a wife's love.

* * *

"Let her have her own way a good part of the time," he begins. "If she remarks that she doesn't care whether or not you like the way she dresses, just stop complimenting her, when you DO admire her looks and outfit; and you'll have her thinking—and wondering.

* * *

"If she insists on seeing her relatives, give her the money for her railroad fare and let her GO . . . but never let her invite them to visit you. Even if you have to get your own breakfasts and burn your own chops while she's gone—well, that's the price of PEACE. And there's always a sympathetic, pretty neighbor to take pity on you.

* * *

"I have followed these rules and am still happy, at 50—and so is the wife."

* * *

Congratulations, Mr. Smith! But your very first sentence seems to cover the whole subject. In fact the first half dozen words ought to express enough to clinch any woman's love.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—Thoughts while strolling: Nothing so graceful as ice skating to waltz time. Gov. Lehman's No. 1 auto license. Jeanette Hackett always has a good vaudeville act. Morton Downey and Pat Rooney's son look and talk alike. Jas. Young, the Shakespearean veteran. What's become of Ray Goetz?

Rube Goldberg is plumping up. Fannie Brice's short husband's high heels. Lloyd Nolan, the new theatrical name, wanders around coatless and hatless. Irvin Cobb's Lew Dockstader suit of brown crash. Joseph P. Tumulty, a Jersey City, N. J., boy, who made good in the city.

Joan Crawford's gowns suggest Easter eggs. Frank Case is over his long siege of ivy poisoning. Rex Cole would be a grand name for a movie actor. Alice Poole, Ziggy's phone girl for many years. And the theatrical district's most famous number rememberer.

One word description of Fred Astaire—jockeyish. They say they call Al Capone "Snorkey" in the underworld. Almost like baby talk. Keep an eye on that small bit actor Chick Chandler in the movies. He has what it takes. A. P. Gianinni's name is remindful of a caliope's shriek.

Young John Drew Colt with a lapel flower. One of my favorite people—Osgood Perkins. And one of my favorite statesmen Ramsay MacDonald is becoming wishy-washy. Well, anyway, wishy. The lonely cop in front of Roosevelt's town house. Still and all, as the chorines say, he has a job!

A spy tells me several things happened behind the scenes at Ripley's Believe It or Not "Odditorium" at the Chicago Fair that escaped the press agent. The performer who swallows billiard balls, coins, goldfish and electrically lighted bulbs choked on an aspirin and a Hindu fire eater complained bitterly of the Chicago heat. Or maybe this is press agent hocus-pocus.

* * *

I've often wondered what an anxious and waiting father says when the nurse at a maternity hospital spills the news. I was with such a parent the other early morning. Breathlessly he clutched her arm and inquired: "He's all right, not cross-eyed or anything?"

* * *

Nothing is so utterly desolate as a deserted theater surrendered to gloom and echo. Gene Buck and I dropped into one the other late afternoon. A woman with a dust pan was moving through the rows of seats and a coatless man at a piano was giving a try-out to a woman who, with a desperate gallantry, was singing a rather coy ballad. She sang one verse and asked if she should sing another. "Thanks," said the pianist, "that will not be necessary." She walked off stiffly and in the half light her cheeks seemed burning. I felt an odd little choke.

* * *

While Fred Astaire knows precisely what to do with his nimble feet he has a terrible time with his hands. He doesn't know exactly what to do with them. First he shoves them in his trouser pockets, then his coat pockets, pats them front and back and afterwards with folded arms and a forefinger against his cheek strikes a familiar photograph gallery ah! there pose.

* * *

It was E. Berry Wall who told a Paris cafe keeper the native oysters and clams tasted like seafood that first decided to die, then changed their minds and decided to go on living as invalids. I was reminded of his remark after a stop at one of those nameless seaside hutches the other evening. Then there is Ray Lillibridge, retired advertising man, who is made violently ill by clams, invariably. But once a year he has his clam orgy, then goes to bed for a few days.

* * *

Often the most expressive terms in literature come from laymen, far removed from the business of writing. There was that time Arnold Bennett called on his Bond street tailor to try on new trousers. The tailor asked the novelist if he wanted a "break" at the foot. As Bennett hesitated, the tailor said: "Just a shiver perhaps." Any writer would skin-the-cat over such a fitting word.

* * *

The late afternoon group in front of the Lamb's. A sandwich man, encased turtle-like in a sign board reading: "Eat at Joe's, Cheapest Place in Town," ambled by in the twilight. "That," said one actor, "is just the length of my part in my latest flop."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Are you divorced in Wisconsin—New Mexico—Georgia—Maine?

Then it's just possible that you're still legally married in all the other states.

Or, if that was your second marriage, it is also possible that, in 47 states, you weren't legally wedded at all!

Is the child of your remarriage legitimate in Kansas, Illinois, California, Texas?

He may yet be a nameless illegitimate in New York!

Has your child legally inherited part of his father's estate in Vermont, Arizona, Louisiana, Michigan?

He may not be entitled to a penny of it in the rest of the country!

The National Divorce Reform League think they are matters for federal supervision. It believes we should have uniform marriage, divorce and custody laws in every state of the union, just as we're on the way to have uniform work and wage laws. And they've drawn up a tentative law, as follows:

MARRIAGE PROVISIONS

1—Will forbid marriage ceremony without a license, for which application must be made by either party two weeks before its final issuance. Both parties must be present when it is issued. Application to be posted in the County Clerk's office and published in newspaper.

2—Marriageable age, with consent of parents, 16 for girls and 18 for boys. Legal age, without consent of parents, 18 for girls and 21 for boys.

3—Will forbid the marriage of imbeciles, the insane, feebleminded, epileptic, paupers, of those afflicted with tuberculosis or venereal disease, or of those related within and including the degree of first cousins.

4—Two witnesses besides the officiating clergyman or official must be present at the marriage.

5—Penalties shall be imposed on those who issue license or perform marriage ceremonies contrary to these provisions.

6—A marriage which is legal in the State where contracted shall be legal in all States.

DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

1—Grounds upon which a divorce may be granted, interpretations to be alike for men and women, are as follows: Adultery, cruel or inhuman treatment, abandonment or failure to provide for a period of a year, incurable insanity, and the commission of an infamous crime by either party.

2—Defendent in divorce suit must appear in court. If he fails to do so the Court shall appoint someone to appear for him.

3—If defendant is resident of State in which suit is brought, he or she must be served with a personal summons; if not a resident of said State, summons must be published for three weeks in certain newspapers as directed, marked copies of which must be mailed to defendant's last known address.

4—Alimony shall be paid according to the financial condition and circumstances of the individuals in the case.

5—The custody, support and education of the children shall be a matter of equal justice, with the children always the first consideration. Whichever parent is deprived of the guardianship and care shall be allowed to visit the children and have them visit him or her.

6—Upon the granting of a divorce an interlocutory decree shall be entered, but such decree shall not become final until the end of three months, during which interval neither party can contract a second marriage within the law.

7—A divorce which is granted in one state shall be recognized in all states.

Well, what do you think of it?

If YOU were drafting such a law, would YOU make those provisions?

Would those be your only grounds for divorce? How about social disease? How about fraud? How about that reason which really causes 999 out of every 1,000 divorces—common, cussed incompatibility? Would, or wouldn't you, permit these additional grounds?

Alimony—would you permit that in the case of a healthy, childless woman of working age?

Visitation of parents—if a parent is not adjudged fit to share custody, would you permit visitation of such parent?

Do you believe a uniform, federal law for these matters is feasible at all? Or do you believe in letting the states draft their own statuses, and letting married folks and their youngsters take their chances, as they're doing now?

Let's hear.

The Human Side of the News

The Hazard of Kissing the Blarney Stone—A Recent Fatality—Differing Stories Of Its Powers.

By EDWIN C. HILL

PERSUASION flows from his lips, who kisses the Blarney Stone. But Heaven help the foolhardy one who tries his hand at that hazardous task alone and unassisted. For the courts of Ireland have just ruled that whoever sets out to kiss the Blarney Stone, does so at his own risk and peril. And the peril is truly great, as witness the case of one James Burke, who fell to his death in the venture. And the heirs of young Burke, who tried the risky business without the assistance of someone to hold his feet, have just been told by the court in County Cork that they have no claim.

Full well do I know the danger, for I have tried the harzardous feat myself. Long will I remember the sickly sensation as I was hanging in midair, head down, with nothing between me and the waving tree tops, fifty feet below. True enough, two sturdy friends were holding on to my legs, with a firm grip around my ankles. But the feeling would not leave me that one of my shoes was slipping off, and if persuasion there was, it was the persuasion that if I got back to safety, I would never try the trick again.

The stone itself is fixed high in the battlements of Blarney Castle. A long stairway leads to the top. When the seeker of the gift of eloquence reaches the summit, he must lie down flat on his back and be lowered gently through a hole in the wall. Two conveniently placed iron bars permit him to steady himself as he is lowered, head down, until he can kiss the stone. The upside down position, which is compulsory, is a source of great joy to the young boys and girls of the neighborhood who stand below. They appear to be greatly interested in the performance going on above, on the castle roof. But their real interest is in the coins and other knick-knacks which fall from the pockets of the believer suspended in mid-air.

* * *

Beliefs Vary As to Its Power

KEEPERS of tradition differ as to the powers conferred by the Blarney Stone. In the south of Ireland it is said that it gives the kisser "a faculty of deviating from veracity with an unblushing countenance, whenever it may be convenient." The gift of "Blarey," they say, is what it really gives you; and the word has passed into the English language, as synonymous of the sweet, persuasive eloquence so perceptible in the speech of the people of Cork.

But the true believer indignantly denies that version. "Suave speech, intended to save time," is how he defines it. The origin of the belief is traced back to the early years of the seventeenth century, when one of the MacCarthys, whose ancestor, Cormack, built the castle way back in 1446, was defying the enemy to take it. MacCarthy, so it seems, had agreed to surrender Blarney, but he never named the day. He kept on postponing it, greeting every emissary with a grandiloquent speech, and sending him away, each time with new promises. So much so, in fact, that the Lord President, who was to occupy the castle, became the laughing stock of the court.

That explanation seems plausible enough. But there is still another one current around Cork. Nearby lies beautiful little Blarney Lake and there, as the story goes, one of the early MacCarthys was passing along through the moonlit night, while the little people were dancing on the green. From the waters of the lake, he heard the cries of a drowning woman. The gallant Irishman jumped in, and saved the life of a beautiful lady. In reward, she promised for him the gift of a tongue so smooth, so persuasive, that he would be able to make anyone do his every wish. The way to acquire that gift was to kiss a certain stone at the top of the castle. And for all the centuries thereafter, Irishmen have known the secret of Blarney. Every man south of the Liffey is said to have tried it, at some time or other, becoming thereby past master in the art of coaxing flattering speech.

* * *

Most Noted of Old Irish Castles

BLARNEY CASTLE is undoubtedly the most celebrated of all the ancient strongholds of Ireland. It belongs today to Sir George Colthurst, the seventh baronet to his line, whose family acquired it through marriage 100 years ago. But to all true Irishmen, it will ever be the home of the MacCarthys who, acording to legend, have whispered to each other, on their death beds, the secrets of Blarney Castle.

"Such walls surround her,
"That no nine-pounder,
"Could ever plunder her place of strength," said the poet, and truly enough, for the walls are 18 feet thick. But the best description of the stone and the magic gift which it confers was probably furnished by Father Prout, the poet of Cork, when he wrote:

"There is a stone there,
"That whoever kisses,
"Oh! he never misses
"To grow eloquent,

"A clever spouter
"He'll sure turn out, or
"An out and outer
"To be left alone.

"Don't hope to hinder him,
"Or to bewilder him,
"Sure he's a pilgrim
"From the Blarney Stone."

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

You may think you are too big for the small job you are filling.

But you are not.

You may be capable of meeting the demands of a larger and more important place, but if you are not making the most of the place you have, you are not big enough for it.

Too often, because of industrial conditions, men make little effort to expand their unimportant positions to really important ones.

They seem to think that there is little use of going up the ladder, because in these times they cannot get as far as they want to go.

Big mistake, that is.

Climb a little, push a little harder, hold your ground.

You will be that much farther when the times grow better and obstacles fade, because you did step up a little every day instead of sitting still.

The going is rough, to be sure, but you gain strength by combat.

Strength and experience—practice—and away you go when the opportunity comes.

You will be judged by what you do while times are hard, do you know it?

If you sit down and don't try, you get soft and no one wants you.

There is work at home if no place else, so do something well.
